SUU leads in state college growth

CEDAR CITY — According to the Utah System of Higher Education (USHE) annual enrollment report, Southern Utah University leads the system in student enrollment in terms of percentage growth with a 7.69 percent increase over last year.

For the past four years, SUU has seen consistently steady growth increasing the student population by 34 percent from 2014, according to a school release. The current headcount for fall semester is 10,196 with projections to exceed 11,000 students by the end-of-term through SUU's online, certificate and licensure programs, which have flexible start dates.

In a release, Brandon Wright, assistant vice president for enrollment management, said, "These numbers reflect what myself, my team and the SUU community already know; we know that SUU is the best university experience in the state. We're proud of the caliber of students that are present in our freshman class and are thrilled with the growth."

This year SUU welcomed the largest number of incoming students to campus with 2,131 new first-time undergraduate students, a 9.4 percent increase over last year. While enrollment numbers continue to grow, so does the academic quality of these students. The incoming class had an average 3.52 GPA, making them the most prepared freshman class in SUU's history.

"It's wonderful to see students coming to SUU in greater numbers, but what's even more satisfying is seeing our students have a great experience here and succeed at high levels," said SUU President Scott L Wyatt.

The release from SUU said growth is a direct correlation to a number of recent accomplishments including:

- » Winning Utah's Best of State in the educational institution, curriculum development, and volunteer service categories
- » Wall Street Journal/Times Higher Education ranking SUU in the nation's top universities
- » The Princeton Review's Best Colleges and America's Best Value accolade
- » Innovative application of high impact educational practices award by Colleges of Distinction
- » Best in the West by U.S. News and World Report
- » Receiving the Outstanding Experiential Education Program Award from the National Society for Experiential Education
- » College Choice ranking SUU as the third best online college in Utah

Voters to decide on $92 million school district bond

by Kelsey KEENER
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — The Iron County School District has proposed a resolution that calls for a bond election to issue bonds in the amount of $91,851,213 for improvements in 15 schools in the county. The bond will be on the Nov. 6 ballot.

The amount for the bonds is based on costs required to provide security updates for 15 schools, learning space improvement in eight schools and community venues for three schools in Iron County, according to information released by ICSD.

The first bond issuance in the amount of $26,005,993 is being proposed for secure entrances for Three Peaks Preschool; Enoch, Fiddlers, Iron Springs, Parowan, Escalante Valley and Three Peaks Elementary Schools; Canyon View and Cedar Middle Schools; and Canyon View, Cedar and Parowan High Schools. This bond would also cover the cost of video surveillance technology for South and Three Peaks Preschools; Cedar East, Enoch, Escalante Valley, Fiddlers, Parowan, South and Three Peaks Elementary Schools; Cedar Middle School; and Canyon View and Cedar High Schools.

The second bond issuance is in the amount of $35,108,220 and would cover costs for a new or replacement elementary school, a new preschool facility, football bleachers, locker room updates and parking lot improvement for various Iron County schools.

A third bond issuance is proposed for $30,737,000 to cover upgrades to high schools and a new or replacement elementary school.

The last bond election submitted by ICSD was in 2006 and the district has grown by 1,000 students since then. Plans to rebuild South and East Elementary Schools, both of which are more than 60 years old, are included in this proposal. It is estimated that if this bond is passed by voters, taxes could increase by $16.60, then gradually decrease.

Projects were selected for this bond proposition over a two-year assessment and Board of Education approval process. More information about the bond is available at irondistrict.org/forms/Bond.

SUU'S AVIATION PROGRAM STANDS TO BENEFIT from the new federal law signed by President Donald Trump

Trump signs SUU Aviation Bill into law

CEDAR CITY — For years, Southern Utah University's Aviation program has worked toward changing an outdated Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulation for aircraft maintenance training curriculum. President Donald Trump signed SUU's proposed bill into law last week.

The Aviation Maintenance Technician School Training Program Modernization bill, included in the FAA Reauthorization Act, will now allow SUU to update the antiquated 56-year-old curriculum. SUU's Aviation program will teach current and relevant information that coincide with future airman certification standards and better prepare students for industry jobs. SUU is the first university to ever make changes to FAA regulations.

"We have made history today," said Michael Mower, executive director of SUU Aviation. "We have accomplished something no other flight school has ever done. The entire team at SUU has been working very hard to update the FAA's decades-old training regulations. This reaffirms our commitment to offering industry relevant training to our students, makes it more attractive for women to join aviation, and requires the FAA to work with flight schools to continually evaluate training curriculum."

SUU had support from the Aviation Technical Education Council (ATEC) and Senator Orrin Hatch (R-UT). Hatch introduced the bill earlier this year, then recently pushed for it to be included as an amendment to the FAA Reauthorization Act.

"SUU is proud to have been a part of Senator Hatch's groundbreaking and historical legislation," said Jared Britt, SUU Aviation director of maintenance and chairman of the legislative committee for ATEC, in a release. "All too often the AMT profession is overlooked, yet they have the most important job in aviation. This is a real win for SUU and shows the truth in the fact that our representatives do act on behalf of the public interest."

SUU will now be allowed to utilize the method of credit hours in lieu of seat time requirements, will be able to teach with modern, advanced technology, and will encourage workforce development so the transition from graduation to career will be smooth and efficient.

"With the updated rule, SUU Aviation can build the most modernized training for AMT that has ever existed in a public institution, which is what we plan to do," said Britt.

Schools that continue to teach outdated curriculum are sending students into jobs where companies are spending substantial amounts of time and money training and teaching new graduates proper techniques and current regulations. Companies like Boeing are left to retrain new graduates on basic tasks required to maintain a modern, sophisticated airplane. Boeing has been frustrated with this process and has stated, "As personnel demand increases over the next two decades, the aviation industry will need to find innovative solutions to keep pace with training requirements."

SUU Aviation hopes to implement the new curriculum with the next round of freshmen beginning classes in fall 2019.

"We have accomplished something no other flight school has ever done."

Prevention Coalition awarded a Drug Free Communities grant

CEDAR CITY — Marking the 20-year anniversary of the Office of National Drug Control Policy's (ONDCP) Drug-Free Communities (DFC) Support Program grant awards, 156 new grants were awarded nationally to local drug prevention coalitions in September. The grants will provide local community coalitions funding to prevent youth substance use, including prescription drugs, marijuana, tobacco, and alcohol. Only two prevention coalitions in the state of Utah were awarded with this year's round of funding.

The DFC Program provides grants of up to $625,000 over five years to community coalitions that facilitate citizen participation in local drug prevention efforts. Coalitions are composed of community leaders, parents, youth, teachers, religious and fraternal organizations, healthcare and business professionals, law enforcement, the media, and others working together at the local level.

"We have the power to change youth drug and alcohol use in our own communities" said Heidi Baxley, Coalition Coordinator for the Southwest Behavioral Health Center, in a release. "Prevention is a tool we have to reduce the consequences associated with youth drug and alcohol use. This new funding will allow our county coalition to help more kids find success and to live in a healthier and safer county."

For Iron County Today

Enough already. The last couple of years have been an unending barrage against the freedom of the press and the practitioners of this noble trade.

From being called “liars,” “fake,” and “sick” by irate politicians to enduring capricious and punitive tariffs that are an existential threat to newspapers, the landscape for journalists today may be as inhospitable as it has ever been in the 242-year history of this great union of ours.

All this while the public at large seems unable to break free of the social media echo chamber. We retreat there to endlessly bicker with those who don’t agree, or to bolster the confidence of our own positions by seeking solace from those who do.

We’ve devolved into a nation of people who simply don’t want to hear it. And that’s incredibly dangerous.

The bipartisan testimony of 20 members of congress last month before the International Trade Commission in opposition to tariffs on Canadian imported newsprint is a good indicator a lot of talk about journalists being “enemies of the people” is utter hogwash. These men and women know the importance of community newspapers and their imperiled status in modern culture where too many marketers prefer digital analytics and too many readers prefer daily affirmation.

They know the men and women who work at the local paper are most definitely not the enemy — nor the problem.

But in a society where talk of the wicked media is hurled relentlessly on Twitter or cable “news” channels, all of us who take part in the honorable, Constitutionally protected trade of reporting news and ferreting truth get amalgamated into a cynical act of political theater that’s threatening to the very fabric of democracy.

And that’s what this is really about.

We’re arguing over political philosophies and cultural divides — not about whether news is biased. I bet you a week’s pay and a dozen donuts the people who use the argument that news is “fake” don’t any more believe that than they think the Space Force is coming soon to a quadrant near us.

But the damage is being done. We as a nation are beginning to give a collective shoulder shrug the fundamental freedoms in the

JOURNALISM MATTERS

Bill of Rights.

And we’ve got to snap out of it.

We’ve got to accept that not all news is happy or affirming. We’re not always going to get what we want. I vaguely remember being taught that as a preschooler.

Aaron Blake, a correspondent for The Washington Post, asked in a recent column if the media should go to war with the President.

“Trump seems to want a war with his ‘enemy,’” Blake wrote. “But should the media oblige him? And if it doesn’t, isn’t it unilaterally disarming?”

No, we should not go to war with the President. But it’s long past time to end the navel gazing and stand up for what we do. It’s our job to provide the best obtainable version of the truth and to champion the freedoms of the First Amendment.

To that end, The Boston Globe is encouraging newspapers across the country to editorialize on the importance of journalism in democracy — and to the communities we all serve — in their editions on or around Aug. 16.

“This dirty war on the free press must end,” Globe editors wrote in their call to action.

Thomas Jefferson — who had a notably tempestuous relationship with the press — was a president who still often rose to defend it. He once wrote while serving in Paris as Minister to France:

“The people are the only censors of their governors: and even their errors will tend to keep these to the true principles of their institution...”

“Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter. But I should mean that every man should receive those papers and be capable of reading them.”

If we’re unwilling to accept news that upsets us, or if we’re indifferent to differing views simply because we don’t want to deal with them, we’re essentially giving up on the notion we can ever truly be “one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.”

I know it’s ironic, but I don’t believe we’ve given up because I don’t want to believe it.

Opinion

Why I changed on Kavanaugh's appointment

Cyclops

by Bryan GRAY
Columnist

The opinions stated in this article are solely those of the author and not of Iron County Today.

Several weeks ago, I would have supported the nomination of Brett Kavanaugh to the Supreme Court. Even though he is more conservative than I am, I acknowledged that the President historically has the right to name a man or woman with whom he feels most comfortable – and unless the nominee is a Nazi or a devil worshiper, the minority party in Congress should suck it up and follow the tradition.

But my opinion changed with Kavanaugh's outburst coloring Democrats as assassins as well as his not being honest about his college drinking habits. Instead of judicial temperament, I saw a blustering, blubbery political partisan – the last thing we need in a country radically divided.

I have concerns about the evidence against Kavanaugh. I don't like the fact that the accusations were kept under cover until a few days before the confirmation vote. At the same time, the Republicans are hypocritical crying about the "delay" when they "delayed" the nomination of Merrick Garland for months prior to the 2016 presidential election.

I don't know – and neither do you – whether or not Kavanaugh sexually assaulted his accusers. I tend to believe a woman who comes forward at great personal risk to calmly and succinctly answer questions. However, I am also willing to give a person the benefit of the doubt that he or she can be redeemed from horrible behavior 30 years in the past.

But I also want the person to be honest. Kavanaugh's testimony centered around his intense college study and service. Sure, he says, he had a taste for beer, but so did most college students. To him, a fraternity guy and a Budweiser are as joined as peanut butter and jelly, and just because a college kid enjoys a few brews doesn't mean he assaults women.

But then fellow students told a different story. He was a "sloppy," said one. He would become aggressive when he drank, said another. The sexual conduct remains "he said/she said," but suddenly Kavanaugh doesn't appear as the devout college student who spent all of his time in the campus library studying the philosophy of Oliver Wendall Holmes.

What a different scenario we would have if Kavanaugh had responded differently. "I have no recollection of sexually abusing anyone," he could have said. "Admittedly, I drank too much as a 17-year old and was present at some rowdy parties where boys and girls were fueled by alcohol. If I did anything inappropriate or harmful to anyone at these parties, I sincerely apologize, and I would hope my more recent history shows that I have matured."

CANDIDATE PROFILES

for Iron County elections

compiled by Klarissa WILLIAMS

Iron County Today

Iron County Today asked candidates who are up for election this fall to submit a short bio or platform story along with a photo for our candidate profiles. Several candidates are running unopposed this year, but in contested races, we've received responses from those candidates shown here. We did not receive responses from several other candidates in these races. Here are those who did respond:

STATE HOUSE DIST. 72

Rex Shipp

I'm running because I love this district. I've raised my children here. I want this to continue to be one of the best places on earth to live, work, play, and raise a family. I want the families that live in this area to enjoy the same experiences.

I feel with my background - running successful businesses and devoting time to community service - that I would be able to bring a unique and important perspective to the Utah Legislature. I promise to fight for what will benefit this beautiful area of our state!

My platform emphasizes the importance of local government, fiscal responsibility, environmental protection, education, limited regulation, and planning for the growth of our communities.

I feel with my background - running successful businesses and devoting time to community service - that I would be able to bring a unique and important perspective to the Utah Legislature. I promise to fight for what will benefit this beautiful area of our state!

For more about my campaign visit my website: electrexshipp.com

Zeno Parry

I have worked in the construction trade, building things all my life. I want to help build a better Utah.

I believe we each need to do our part; going to meetings and voting are the rights and responsibility of all citizens.

I was asked to run for the House at a grassroots meeting and am willing to serve.

Our schools need more teachers, increased funding and to be a safe place for all. Our families need affordable healthcare, adequate housing, and good paying jobs--not more taxes.

We do not need gangs, drugs, and bloodshed in this state. Police officers, firefighters, and other first responders deserve our respect and decent pay.

Laws need to be obeyed by all, not subject to change depending on who you know.

As a Veteran I know what some of our men, women and their families have lost. They deserve our honor and respect.

Barry Short

Our taxes are too high, and our state government persists in funding outdated, inefficient programs and departments.

Both my opponents support tax increases and even more wasteful spending than we already have. They are wrong to do so.

We have to be smarter. I'm running to tell you that we CAN be smarter, more efficient, and do it for less than what we spend now.

I will vote NO on all new taxes. I will vote to REDUCE all existing taxes - starting by moving to ABOLISH the sales tax on food. I will vote to FIX or ABOLISH our wasteful bureaucracies. I will do that, because you and I deserve better government than what we have today.

In my home and in my business, I know how to get the most value out of every dollar that is spent. I will bring that to my time as your representative - because you and I deserve nothing less.

STATE HOUSE DIST. 71

Chuck Goode

I'm running for the Utah House of Representatives in District 71 against Brad Last. There is a disconnect between what "we the people" want and what the legislature is doing. This is evidenced by the number of initiatives on the ballot this year. These initiatives let the laws be determined directly by you - the voter.

My American dream was working at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston. Now I want to give back. Sen. Paul Wellstone defined politics this way: "Politics is not about money. Politics is not even about winning. Politics is about improving people's lives."

We need expanded Medicaid, fully-funded education, affordable housing, higher wages and a healthy environment for our grandchildren. I want to improve the quality of life for our young people, for our women, for our seniors, for our immigrants, for our LGBTQ community and for our working families. Vote for Chuck Goode. Together we can start "Improving People's Lives."

STATE SENATE DIST. 28

Mark Chambers

I am a fifth generation Utahn, born and raised in Salt Lake City. Ten years ago I settled in Springdale. Since then, I have served on the Springdale Town Council, Secondary Water Advisory Board and the Southwest Mosquito Abatement Board.

As the Ticketing Director for the Sundance Film Festival, Utah Symphony and Opera, and ArtTix I gained a strong fiscal background, tracking more than $15 million in ticket sales annually, managing budgets over $800,000, and supervising workforces of more than 50 employees. I worked closely with the Salt Lake County auditor, attorney, treasurer and elected officials. I served on the Board of the Salt Lake Visitor's Bureau, the International Ticketing Association, and Z-Arts.

I stand firmly on the principal that federal lands should remain protected.

I believe that the availability of affordable health care and a well-funded public education system are necessary to ensure our prosperous future; especially in rural communities.

IC SCHOOL BOARD DIST. 5

Dale Brinkerhoff

I am a candidate for the Iron County School Board District # 5.

Married with 4 children, 14 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Political Office:
Orderville Town Council 1 term
Kane County Commission 1 term
Kane County Planning Commission 1 term

No, instead he blasted "left wing" attackers and even threw a pound of anti-Clinton bravado in his sad congressional pout. As my wife said, "If a woman had come unglued like that under questioning, she would have been demeaned as weak and unhinged."

I expect a person to defend his good name. I don't expect a man given a lifetime appointment to the Supreme Court to melt down and hurl conspiracy theories.

That doesn't sound like a judge who can fairly decide cases that may involve his political opponents.

PROPOSAL TO AMEND UTAH CONSTITUTION
-- SPECIAL SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE

2018 General Session

Utah Constitution Sections Affected:
AMENDS:

ARTICLE VI, SECTION 2

ARTICLE VI, SECTION 16

ARTICLE VII, SECTION 7

ARTICLE XIII, SECTION 5

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the state of Utah, two-thirds of all members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof:

(3) (a) The President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives shall by joint proclamation convene the Legislature into session if a poll conducted by the President and Speaker of their respective houses indicates that two-thirds of all members elected to each house are in favor of convening the Legislature into session because in their opinion a persistent fiscal crisis, war, natural disaster, or emergency in the affairs of the State necessitates convening the Legislature into session.

(b) The joint proclamation issued by the President and Speaker shall specify the business for which the Legislature is to be convened, and the Legislature may not transact any business other than that specified in the joint proclamation, except that the Legislature may provide for the expenses of the session and other matters incidental to the session.

(ii) convene the Legislature into session under Article VII, Section 6 to address the deficiency.

NONBINDING OPINION QUESTION 1

To provide additional funding for public education and local roads, should the state increase the state motor and special fuel tax rates by an equivalent of 10 cents per gallon?

Benefit pancake breakfast this Saturday

by Kelsey KEENER
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — A Pancake Breakfast Benefit will be held this Saturday at the Sizzler in Cedar City to raise money for a local resident battling with single cell kidney cancer. The breakfast runs from 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. The Sizzler is located at 199 N. Main St.

Gina Tori O'Neal was diagnosed with cancer just after visiting family for Thanksgiving in 2016. She graduated from Southern Utah University in 2016 and began working for the Granary Art Center in Ephraim. After her diagnoses, she was scheduled for kidney removal surgery in January of 2017. During a checkup after surgery, it was discovered that surgery had not removed all of the cancer.

After attempting oral chemotherapy without much success, O'Neal began immunotherapy to strengthen her immune system. The cancer spread and began to attack her bones and tumors were found in her brain earlier this year. O'Neal has undergone radiation for the tumors in her brain and shoulders, and has to be careful with taking steroid medication to reduce brain swelling with only one kidney.

The funds raised from the pancake breakfast will go toward helping O'Neal pay for hospital and medical bills. O'Neal also hopes to be able to rent a hyperbaric chamber in her home, rather than travel to Saint George for three hours every day for treatment. In-office appointments cost roughly $1,000 for 10 days of her prescribed treatment, plus the cost of travel. Being able to rent a chamber would reduce the monthly cost of O'Neal's treatments to $900.

A $5 minimum donation is requested for the breakfast, and raffle tickets for prizes donated by local businesses will be available as well. Tickets range from $5 for one ticket, to $20 for 6 tickets and $100 for 40 tickets. Prizes include a Carnival Cruise trip, 50-inch television, a Gold Pellet wood chip smoker and many other donated items.

PET OWNERS TOOK ADVANTAGE of having their pets microchipped at an event last Saturday.

Final microchip clinic of 2018 held

by Kelsey KEENER
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — Friends of Festival Country K9s held its last microchip clinic of the year last Saturday in conjunction with an animal adoption event at Petsense in Cedar City.

Residents had the chance to walk in or sign up in advance to get their pets microchipped at the event for $40, with proceeds being donated to the ongoing upgrading of the Enoch Dog Park. In order to focus on the Enoch Dog Park, FFCK9 will not be holding another clinic until January of next year.

Animals from local shelters were also present as part of the event and ready to be adopted. Cedar City Animal Shelter Staff Member Tina Garrison said the shelter provides a microchip for every adopted animal, and microchipping pets is a good way to ensure their safety.

"People that find any animals that can be microchipped on the side of the road bring them to the shelters or the vets and have them scanned, so everybody's using it," she said. "It gets the animals home."

Garrison added that microchips make proving ownership of stolen pet easier, because they contain the pet owner's identity and contact information.

"A lot of dogs are stolen and that's one way to say 'that's my dog, scan it, it's got a microchip and it's got my information on it,'" she said. "The microchip companies won't just change the microchip, you have to prove to them that you are the original owner."

Many pets are still available for adoption at the Cedar City Animal Shelter, and donations to help the progress of the Enoch Dog Park are still being accepted.

Utah Legislative Update

Highlighting the Utah Way

The Utah Legislature hosted more than 400 state legislators, legislative staff and federal officials from 13 western states, Canada and Mexico for the 71st Council of State Governments West (CSG West) annual meeting at Snowbird on Sept. 11-15.

The theme of the conference, 'Elevating the West,' provided the perfect opportunity to showcase Utah's innovative industries, majestic beauty and the collaborative spirit that embodies our great state.

CSG West is a non-profit, non-partisan organization that brings legislators and staff together to discuss challenging issues facing the various states, and to seek reasonable solutions. Lawmakers assembled in policy committees, attended trainings and heard from insightful speakers and experts addressing topics of regional and national significance. Multiple off-site policy tours highlighted Utah's various industries including tourism, sports and recreation. Participants also attended tours of Hill Air Force Base and Huntsman Cancer Institute, and were able to witness first-hand how our state is partnering with a variety of organizations to help refugees and those experiencing homelessness.

The CSG West Utah Host State Committee included Senator Stuart Adams (Chair), President Wayne Niederhauser and Speaker Greg Hughes; Senators Ralph Okerlund, Gene Davis and Kevin Van Tassel; and Representatives John Knotwell, Brad Last, Brian King and Sandra Hollins.

Legislative Auditor General Set to Retire

Utah Legislative Auditor General John M. Schaff described his career with the Legislature as "a grand experience" in a recent letter announcing his plans to retire after 42 years with the state. Schaff has been at the helm of the Office of the Legislative Auditor General (OLAG) since 2004.

The OLAG is charged with examining and evaluating taxpayer-funded programs, operations and entities. Their mission is to provide objective information and analysis in order to make recommendations to help legislators and other decision-makers improve programs, reduce costs and promote accountability.

Schaff praised the legislative body's respect for the independence of his office, saying, "...in all my years on the hill they have never attempted to censor or control the audit process. Rather, the Legislature has allowed the audit function freedom to discover and report the truth."

"The Utah Legislature has been well served under the leadership of John Schaff," said Speaker Greg Hughes. "I want to thank him for all the work he has done on behalf of legislators and the citizens of Utah."

Schaff's retirement will be effective November 30, 2018. Meanwhile, the process of hiring his replacement has begun. The Legislative Audit Subcommittee, which is co-chaired by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, is reviewing applications for the position.

Thank You for Your Many Years of Service

The chief clerk of the Utah House of Representatives, Sandy Tenney, announced on August 21, 2018 that she will be retiring at the end of this year. She has served as chief clerk for the past 13 years and has worked in the Utah Legislature for a total of 33 years.

Tenney started her career in the Legislative Printing Office before transferring to the Senate, where she worked as the Senate services manager, reading and amending clerk for 10 years. As chief clerk, she oversees parliamentary procedures, is responsible for the hiring and supervising of session staff, HR and payroll, and edits the final House Journals.

"I want to express my gratitude to Sandy for her dedication to the Utah House," said Speaker Greg Hughes. "For 13 years, she made certain to keep proper order in the Chamber. The House and our work would never have been so excellent without her guidance and vision of service. Her efficient work ethic, refined nature and institutional knowledge will be missed. Retirement will surely offer many new opportunities, which I know she will embrace, just as she did at the House."

"It has been such an amazing experience to work for the legislature for more than three decades," said Tenney. "I've been blessed to associate with dedicated House and Senate members and my fellow coworkers in the six legislative offices. I will miss working in this amazing building. More importantly, I will miss associating with House members and staff who have been so kind to me. I've had an extraordinary career working in 'the room where it happens.' I can't even put into words how blessed I feel."

Following an application and interview process to fill the open position, Megan Selin Allen was selected to serve as the new chief clerk of the Utah House of Representatives.

"There were a number of highly qualified candidates, but Megan's experience and knowledge of the legislative process made her the best candidate for the position," said Speaker Hughes. "I have full confidence that she will be able to step into her new role as chief clerk with grace and enthusiasm and provide excellent management in a bipartisan manner. Her past experience in local government will serve the Legislature well for many years to come."

Allen is well known to Utah legislators and the legislative process. She is currently serving as deputy chief of staff for the Utah House of Representatives. The Utah native has additional experience working at the Utah Division of Housing and Community Development and the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, as well as having been involved in a study abroad program at Xiamen University in China. Allen holds a bachelor's degree in business management finance and a Master of Public Administration degree, both from Brigham Young University.

"I am extremely grateful and honored for this opportunity to serve as chief clerk," said Allen. "In the decade I have been around the House in various roles, I have developed a deep respect for the institution and those who give their time to serve. I'm excited to serve all of the members of the House in this new role."

Overdose Awareness Day

Hundreds of people released balloons at the Capitol on Aug. 31, International Overdose

Awareness Day, to represent the many lives lost due to overdose. Over the past year, Utah has seen a nearly 12 percent reduction in fatal drug overdose deaths, but there is still much work to be done.

In 2016, Carbon County had the highest opioid prescription rate in the state, at 176 prescriptions per 100 residents. Members of the Social Services Appropriations Subcommittee recently asked to hear directly from Carbon County residents in order to determine what more the state could be doing to help combat the opioid problem there.

A survey was created to obtain public input leading up to a town hall that the Subcommittee held in Price, Utah on September 17. Members were seeking feedback regarding impacts of the opioid crisis on the community and its residents, results of several new interventions that took effect July 1 and suggestions for if additional future interventions. Residents were invited to submit information through the online survey prior to the meeting or provide input during the public comment portion that night.

Speaker Greg Hughes, Rep. Steve Eliason and other House members will continue to work with community leaders and stakeholders to help bring an end to this opioid crisis.

Utah Judges

Approximately one-quarter of all Utah judges will be on the ballot this November. The important task of determining whether or not to retain a judge can be daunting. The Utah Legislature established the Judicial Performance Evaluation Commission (JPEC) to provide Utahns with more information.

The JPEC collects and disseminates independent data about judges' performance to help inform judicial retention elections. Evaluations of all judges standing for retention election this November are available online at judges.utah.gov.

Legislative Office Receives Accolades

The Office of Legislative Research and General Counsel, Office of the Legislative Fiscal Analyst and Office of the Legislative Auditor General were recently awarded the Utah Ethical Leadership Award for Government from the Daniels Fund Ethics Initiative.

The award recognizes Utah businesses, nonprofit organizations and government entities that exemplify ethical behaviors, and it appropriately reflects the endless hours, dedication and high standards of the Utah legislative staff.

Constitution Day

The Constitution of the United States of America was signed 231 years ago, on September 17, 1787, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. We recognize and honor the men and women who helped compose the most significant document of freedom ever created by human hand.

September 11

The courage and sacrifices of the first responders, flight attendants and everyday heroes of September 11, 2001 will never be forgotten.

Arts Administration Program at SUU reaches 100 graduates

CEDAR CITY — The College of Performing and Visual Arts at SUU has reached two milestones this year. They are celebrating their 20th Anniversary as an individual college and the Arts Administration program reached 100 graduates in August.

SUU offers a resident Master of Fine Arts degree, an online Master of Arts degree, and an undergraduate Minor in Arts Administration. Each program is designed to blend a love of the arts with the professional business skills necessary to promote, maintain, enhance, and fund arts organizations.

Kirsten Darrington, Director of the Salt Lake County Zoo, Arts and Parks Program, graduated with her Master of Fine Arts in Arts Administration in 2011. She reflected, “During my time in the program, I was able to expand my network of people and organizations through different projects and assistantships. This made a world of difference when I graduated and was looking for jobs.”

Bretleigh Sandorf, Manager of Institutional Giving at the National Dance Institute located in New York, NY, graduated with her Master of Arts in Arts Administration in 2016. She said, “With constant online discussions, papers, etc., the program at SUU helped me to hone my abilities as a writer, and I continue to draw upon what I learned. The most valuable thing I gained during my degree was how to think critically and look at a situation on many different levels.”

The arts administration program develops graduates who balance administrative systems with the creative process in an effort to ensure the artistic integrity and economic sustainability of arts organizations. With goals of advocacy, experiential learning, development of well-rounded professionals, and providing a personalized and interdisciplinary education, graduates from this program hold administrative positions in national and international organizations.

Leslie Forrester, Executive Director of the Springfield Regional Arts Council of Missouri, graduated in 2011 with her Master of Fine Arts in Arts Administration. Of her time studying at SUU, Forrester said, “It is hard to name any one single thing that was most valuable. Learning from Bill Byrnes, the man who literally wrote the book on arts administration, is still something I reference in my day-to-day work. I am wildly grateful for the skills I gathered, the people I met, and the experiences I had during my time with the Arts Administration program at SUU.”

The 100th graduate, Brian M. Kendall works with City of Las Vegas Office of Cultural Affairs as the Cultural Supervisor. He earned his Master of Arts in August 2018.

In just two years, from 2015-2017, the university went from a 64 percent retention rate to 71 percent, a record high for the institution thanks to small class sizes and student mentoring relationships with full-time faculty members, along with innovative efforts from the Student Affairs team.

“The university’s commitment to enhancing the undergraduate experience sets students on an upward trajectory, leading to personal growth, civic responsibility, and professional excellence,” the school said in the release.

To accommodate the continuous growth and maintain the personalized learning environment on campus, university officials have invested heavily in additional faculty members, student services resources and new buildings. Buildings completed in the last six months include a state-of-the-art business building, spacious resident halls and a new sports performance center.

MICHAEL VIERELA AND KARI HEAPS, graduates from the Arts Administration program at SUU, working in the Southern Utah Museum of Art.

Kendall shared, “In the arts field we are always faced with the opportunity to share and even sometimes defend our story. In order to do this, we must first know the story we are trying to tell. This was a universal and reoccurring theme in all my courses. In order to attract audiences, funders, board members, grantors, and political support, we must know what we stand for and how our work fits into the community. Even In the accounting class I learned that knowing the financial story of the organization provides powerful data needed to create the most accurate picture of the organization. I appreciated how every class focused on this as a common goal.”

Main Street Books offering history book club

by Kelsey KEENER
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — The community is invited to a history-themed Book of the Month Club starting Oct. 23 at 6 p.m. at Main Street Books in Cedar City, at 25 N. Main St.

The book that will be discussed during the first meeting is “In The Devil’s Snare: The Salem Witchcraft Crisis of 1962” by Mary Beth Norton, which is available at Main Street Books.

The next book and discussion are yet to be determined, but suggestions are welcome.

Owner of Main Street Books Heather Stein said she is looking forward to a different kind of book club in the area.

“I’m aware of several of book clubs around town, but none with a history theme,” she said. “I’m excited to have a non-fiction book club discussion.”

Stein also said she hopes to expand the bookstore’s reach within the community.

“We’re really wanting to hold more public events (for) local people,” she said. “If they’re passionate about something we’d love to have them come in and do a presentation, or if they want to start their own book club we’re happy to support that, we just want this to be a gathering place for the community.”

INTERNATIONAL VIOLINIST

teaches Master class at SUU

by Kelsey KEENERIron County Today*

Local violin students had the opportunity to learn from internationally recognized violinist Dr. Chaio-Ling Sun last Friday during a Master Class at SUU.

Dr. Sun is currently the Professor of Violin for the National Taiwan University of the Art's Music Department and teaches violin performance, chamber music and string pedagogy. She holds several degrees in music, from the Peabody Conservatory of Music, NTUA and the University of California at Santa Barbara. She has also received several awards and scholarships.

Dr. Sun founded and directed the Taiwan String Quartet, which toured the United States, Singapore and Costa Rica. She has also performed as soloist all over the world.

During the master class, six violin students performed a short piece for Dr. Sun to observe and then received personalized instruction from her on how to improve their skills. She taught concepts such as singing with the violin, familiarizing ones' self with the musical piece and using imagination to add depth to the music.

She said she suggests students pay more attention to the music they are playing.

"The only thing I think they need to work on is to really listen to it (their music) and that's something they can do if they listen to music more and they practice really slowly so they can enjoy music," Dr. Sun said.

Dr. Sun also said the location of southern Utah can be an influential inspiration for music.

"I think being here in Southern Utah is such a privilege," she said. "You have such beautiful view(s). Your mountain is unbelievable, so colorful, and the blue sky is so beautiful; and all this feeling can go into the music. The way to do it is to bring out your feeling for those colors, for the mountain, from the violin."

"Your mountain is unbelievable, so colorful, and the blue sky is so beautiful; and all this feeling can go into the music."

'Stormy Highlights' to open OSU season Oct. 11

CEDAR CITY — "There is peace even in the storm," said Vincent Van Gogh, and the Orchestra of Southern Utah is set to explore the excitement and drama of musical storms on Thursday, Oct. 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Heritage Center, complete with three community choirs: Red Rock Singers, Master Singers Men's Chorus, and In Jubilo (A Women's Chorale).

Choral works open the beginning of this exciting concert and feature songs showcasing the textures, emotions and stories inspired by stormy weather.

The Master Singers will perform a classic American song "Stormy Weather" by Harold Arlen and arranged by Hal Campbell. The "Snow Legend" by American composer Joseph Clokey is based on a text by Anna Temple and arranged by Caroleen Lee. Alan Lee directs the Master Singers with Danny Hansen as pianist.

Red Rock Singers will perform "Rainsong" by Houston Bright and "The Wisdom of the Moon" by Susan La Barr. The local choir is directed by Keith Bradshaw with Tracey Bradshaw as pianist.

In Jubilo sings a dramatic "Famine Song" composed by Vida and "The Poet Sings" by Stroope. Take a journey with "High Flight" as it recaptures a test flight from 1941 in poetry by John Magee. It is one of the most famous aviation poems ever written. Jackie Riddle-Jackson serves as In Jubilo director. Teresa Redd serves as pianist.

Jackie Riddle Jackson brings these choirs together to join voices and sing the "National Weather Forecast" by Henry Mollicone a piece that is sure to entertain.

The Orchestra of Southern Utah will be performing the second half under the direction of Xun Sun, opening with the familiar Sorcerer's Apprentice by Dukas. Based on a poem by Goethe and popularized with Mickey Mouse, this is a musical adventure complete with crashing percussion and exacting woodwind passages. OSU also performs the dramatic Storm Overture by Tchaikovsky inspired by a play written in 1864. The composer was just 24 years old when he wrote it and this early work portends the dramatic orchestrations yet to come that we are so familiar with.

The final orchestra piece is a Lion Dance by Yiping Wang. For thousands of years the Chinese have performed the Lion Dance for auspicious occasions with the powerful lion chasing away evil and bringing good fortune, enjoy the colors and pulsing rhythms depicted in this traditional Chinese piece.

Major sponsors for this concert is the RAP Fund for Recreation, Arts and Parks through Cedar City. "OSU thanks all financial supporters for making it possible for us to present live music," said Rebekah Hughes, OSU Manager.

The concert takes place Thursday at the Heritage Center (105 North 100 East, Cedar City). Children over 6 are welcome with adult supervision. No babies please as the concert is recorded. Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for students. Season tickets (Soiree Included) cost $45. Tickets are available now by either phone (435-592-6051) or by purchase at Heritage Center/Festival Hall.

Dr. Zhang, Chair of the Music Department of Renmin University of China, received his Bachelor of Music degree in piano at the Central Conservatory of Music in Beijing. He earned his Master of Music at Eastman School of Music where he was awarded the Eastman Performers Certificate, the School's highest award for distinction in performance. During his time studying for his Doctor of Musical Arts Studies at Eastman School of Music, he received the Liberace Award scholarship. He completed his education at Capital Normal University of Beijing, China with a PhD in Music Theory & Analysis.

Dr. Lawrence Johnson, Chair of the Department of Music at SUU, said, "It is a distinct honor to host Dr. Fang Zhang, chair of the music department of Renmin University in Beijing, China. Not only is he sharing his gifted talent as a professional pianist in performing one of Franz Liszt's treasured piano concertos with the SUU Symphony Orchestra, but he is also sharing his transcendence of international borders - something that music is uniquely able to provide. Having had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Zhang in a recent trip to Renmin University to further develop a relationship between our two music departments, I know first-hand his commitment to music and to his music faculty and students. SUU is very fortunate to have him visit and perform with us, and share his artistic values and excellence with our students, our university, and our highly supportive community."

CONFUCIUS INSTITUTE celebrates 3rd anniversary

FROM A PERFORMANCE BY THE ORCHESTRA OF SOUTHERN UTAH, to enjoying Chinese cuisine and a Lion Dance, the third anniversary celebration of the Confucius Institute was memorable indeed.

by Kelsey KEENER
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — The Confucius Institute at Southern Utah University celebrated its third anniversary with food, dance and music last Wednesday evening at the Heritage Center Theatre.

Community members had the chance to partake in a Chinese meal before being part of an interactive Lion Dance at the celebration. Kung Fu demonstrations were also performed, followed by a concert from the Orchestra of Southern Utah.

Executive Director of Global Affairs and the Confucius Institute Jacob Ng said the celebration included acknowledgment of Confucius Day as well, which was Sept. 28. He also acknowledged Mary Pearson, Dean of the SUU School of Business, and SUU President Scott L. Wyatt for their support of the Confucius Institute and the anniversary celebration.

President Wyatt thanked Ng for his dedication to the Institute and the performers for donating their time, as well as audience members for attending.

"It is a great honor to welcome you to this great celebration that we hold every year," he said. "We're so grateful for the many Chinese scholar and friends who come to visit us and help teach their language and their culture. ... And thank you to those in the audience for being interested in Chinese culture."

Water Aerobics class at SUU now free to many

CEDAR CITY — There have been some changes to the water aerobics class at Southern Utah University pool. The time has been changed from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday. The instructor, Allison Simpson, is pleased to announce that the class is now free for all SUU students with a Student ID and community members with an SUU pool pass. The price for non students and non pool members will be $3 per session which now includes pool admission. So class members can also swim laps and enjoy the water before or after class.

Class participants will now need to go to the payment window to get a wrist band to enter the pool area. This is a requirement of the new pool

Surgeon and get an MRI.

Allison found that she was able to get a very vigorous workout in the water, even with a torn meniscus in her right knee. She also found that her long-term problems with her hips and the Achilles tendinitis in her heel were subsiding. Now they are not bothering her at all. She highly recommends water exercise for anyone with arthritis or other injuries that limit regular high impact or weight bearing workouts.

The health benefits of water aerobics are many, which include better posture, and improved flexibility, muscular strength and coordination. Regular water exercise also improves balance, body alignment and muscle symmetry. It is one of the best exer-manager who is happy to keep the water aerobics class. Allison became certified to teach water aerobics in November 2017. Allison has been attending water aerobics and Aqua Zumba classes for years. She has also enjoyed doing "land aerobics" and Zumba, at the gym for years as well as teaching her own dance aerobics class. She had to abruptly stop teaching her dance aerobics class in June 2017, when she suffered a knee injury that left her unable to do anything weight bearing. Walking and standing were even a struggle. She had to quit her gym membership and started attending arthritis classes at SUU pool. After a few weeks she started choreographing her own aqua routines to popular music. She offered to sub the water aerobics class at the Aquatic center while waiting to see an Orthopedic cises for speeding up the metabolism and burning fat. As with any exercise, water aerobics reduces stress, but the water has an extra calming effect not found in traditional land exercise. The water also creates extra resistance, but also limits impact thus reducing the risk of injury to the joints.

Allison tries to create a fun, relaxed, party like atmosphere and encourages all class members to take the class at their own pace. The moves can be adapted to all fitness levels and abilities. Beginners and people of all ages are welcomed to the class. The class is held in shallow water and swimming skills are not required. Floats are provided for the "suspended movement" portion of class. The SUU pool is located at 256 North 600 West in Cedar City. For more information, call Simpson at 435-327-2091.

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

In the year of 1492, a man by the name of Christopher Columbus, set sail across the ocean. This seasoned and inspired sailor was attempting to find a more direct and quicker trade route between Europe and Asia. Instead of finding a short cut, he discovered a new world, the Americas. Many now honor his quest and discovery on Columbus Day, celebrated in October.

In life, we each have our own oceans to cross and discoveries to make. There are new lands and opportunities awaiting those brave enough to leave the comforts of their beaches and familiar, but future-paralyzing ports. Are you brave and bold enough to set sail into a new, better future?

On your journey, you will need a good crew and adequate supplies. You will need a vision and a destination. Thus, you will need a compass and a trustworthy map to help you steer true. You will need steady hands to work the rudder and the sails. You will need a sturdy anchor to help keep your ship from drifting off course during storms.

Along the way you will certainly face storms and even pirates. Columbus himself was on a ship that was attacked and sunk by pirates. Thankfully, he was able to paddle to safety using a piece of wood. You may not feel like you are able to weather every storm, or defeat every pirate right now, but even if you have to use a scrap of wood from your sunken ship to keep going, you must not give up. Don't abandon ship or curse your crew. Don't commit personal mutiny against your integrity or destiny. Check your map, repair the sails, make course corrections and keep going.

Yes, despite all your training and good desires, you may still have to experience being sunk, shipwrecked and plundered by pirates. You may get stuck in the doldrums of doubt and depression, but you've got to keep going. The storms will pass and the winds will return.

Maybe you feel you've been shipwrecked or lost at sea one too many times. That's when fear will tell you that the beach is safer. But life is not meant to be lived on the beach. Doubt will tell you that there are no better ports out there and failure will whisper upon every wave that you'll never be able to endure the storms of life. My dear friends, beaches and ports don't make successful sailors; learning to face and embrace the winds and the waves do. Anyone can sail when the waters are calm.

If you're feeling discouraged, stuck and that your life is being poisoned, paralyzed and postponed by current or past ports, perhaps its time raise your anchor and set sail and go discover new lands of opportunity. Have courage to leave the seemingly sure shore to reach your personal promised land. Don't be afraid to be more like Columbus and take the route less traveled.

Enoch Elementary

Parents, students, and teachers gathered together to collaborate on student education during SEP week of Oct. 1 through 5. The parent-teacher teams discussed expectations, goals, and how special each student is. Enoch Elementary would like to thank parents for their attendance and continued support!

The school also hosted the Scholastic Book fair during this week, providing families with the opportunity to purchase books for their homes and contribute to the school. The sales will earn Scholastic Bucks for the school to buy books for students. This year the PTA hopes to give a copy of "The One and Only Ivan" book to each family.

Enoch's annual Fall Carnival was held on Sept. 28. Families enjoyed games, food, bounce houses, and more. This fundraiser earned over $600 and will help our students get new swing sets for the playground. The school values the participation and contributions from the community!

Canyon View Middle

Our Chinese class performed Oct. 3 as part of the Confucius Institute concert. Mr. Wu did an excellent job preparing our students.

Parent/Teacher CCR conferences were held last week. If you were not able to make it to the meeting, please make sure you have signed the Safe School, AUP and anti-Bullying form on the parent Power School account. Once each is signed, please have your student do so also. If help is needed to complete these, please call the school and speak with one of our secretaries.

On Oct. 9, Mrs. Heather Lambert and Mrs. Brenda Killian will be taking five students to SLC to The AdVenture Capitol Innovation Challenge. Students were chosen from those who have participated in the Fuel Up To Play 60 program and have shown interest in health and wellness. Students will brainstorm and design actionable solutions to increase health and wellness in our school. They will compete for $1,000 scholarships to implement their ideas.

With our recent food drive, we are pleased to announce that Mrs. Morgan's and Mrs. Wasden's classes combined donated over 1,200 cans of food to the Cedar City Share and Care. It was a fun competition, but the true winner is the food bank.

Reminder . . . the end of first quarter is Friday, Oct. 12. Monday, Oct. 22, is the fall break. Second quarter begins Monday, Oct. 15 through Thursday, Dec. 20 for a total of 45 school days.

Fiddler's Canyon Elementary

We are looking forward to our Wacky Fun Run on Oct. 18. There will be an obstacle course and pies in the faces of our teachers and principal. Thank you to everyone who donated to our fundraiser!

We are also excited to have a 4-H club after school for 4th and 5th grade students! There will be healthy snacks, homework help, and life skills coaching. Interested parents can contact the office or visit our Fiddlers Canyon Elementary PTA Facebook page for more information.

North Elementary

Cedar North Elementary STEAM School would like to thank all those who attended our 2nd Annual Grandparents' Breakfast on Oct 4. We served a total of 434 meals that morning, with over 200 grandparents in attendance. Everyone enjoyed the delicious homemade cinnamon rolls provided by Richelle Maxwell and her food service crew. We also had lots of help from the PTA and our teachers and staff to help with serving and helping all the lines run smoothly. Thank you to everyone for making this another huge success this year!

NORTH ELEMENTARY STUDENTS ENJOY homemade cinnamon rolls and banana bread at North's 2nd Annual Grandparents Breakfast.

Three Peaks Elementary

Three Peaks Elementary PTA would like to thank all those who helped with our annual move-a-thon. It was a very successful event and the students had a blast!

Thank you to all who attended SEP conferences. It was nice to see all of the wonderful, caring people who help our students succeed in school. We also appreciate the support we had with our Scholastic Book Fair.

On Oct. 11, the PTA will sponsor an assembly titled, "Attention, Magic, and the Golden Rule". This assembly incorporates magic while reminding us of the power of treating others the way we want to be treated. By practicing acts of kindness and compassion, and by being more empathic to those around us, we activate our hearts, elevate our lives, and strengthen our communities. It was a fun way to be reminded of the importance of being kind.

South Elementary

The field Trip to Mammoth Caves was amazing! The weather was perfect as well as the students. We all enjoyed visiting one of the Cinder Cone volcanoes that helped create Mammoth Cave. Some students even found some Cinder Bombs. After we visited the Volcano, we went to Mammoth Cave and toured the inside of it. The students learned that the cave is a tube that was formed from pressure ridges. As the lava traveled underground there was gas moving through it. The lava cooled faster near the surface and was able to cool while the gas was moving through it. As it cooled with the gas in it, tubes were formed. Once we were done at Mammoth, we ventured over to the Alpine Loop for a hike where the students learned about fun facts along the trail, as well as getting to see Cedar Breaks and the erosion and weathering that has taken place to form it to what it is today. It really was an amazing day.

East Elementary

We had a very successful SEP week at East. We cannot tell you how much we appreciate the parents who took time out of their busy schedules to attend the conferences. We also would like to publicly thank our PTA who took such good care of the faculty and staff during this long and busy week in addition to running the Scholastic book fair. It was a smashing success!

East hosted a Grandparents Breakfast last Wednesday morning, as well. We had a greater than expected turnout and couldn't be more thrilled! It was terrific to see so many grandparents who came to enjoy breakfast with their Eagles. Many thanks to our phenomenal kitchen staff for all of their hard work and preparation. Your child should have brought home some information about our Fun Run Fundraiser. East's Fun Run is scheduled for Oct. 19. If you have not received the information, please contact your child's teacher.

Parowan Elementary

Students at Parowan Elementary have been working hard on changing their mindset. All the students want to have Bubble Gum Brain's that learn and grow, but sometimes they get stuck in their Brick Brain that says "I can't" or "I won't." Students have learned the power of YET and how that one magic word can transform the phrase "I can't," to "I can't YET!" Students also discovered whether they are right brained, left brained, or a good combination of both. They learned that they can continually grow their brains and accomplish anything they want. Students are also continually working on managing their emotions and trying different strategies to stay in control. Favorite strategies include: Hot Chocolate Breathing, Counting, Thinking of Something Happy, and Mindful Stretching.

Cedar, Canyon View students receive USF competition honors

CEDAR CITY — The 42nd annual Shakespeare Competition, hosted by the Utah Shakespeare Festival and Southern Utah University, gave out dozens of awards and scholarships to drama, dance and music students. The competition is the largest scholastic Shakespeare competition in the country, and this was a record-breaking year with nearly 3,600 students from 123 schools in seven states and the U. S. Virgin Islands.

From Sept. 27 to 29, students competed before numerous adjudicators on the Festival's stages and at many other venues on the SUU campus. Judges consisted of arts professionals with strong literary and performance backgrounds. The judges came to Cedar City from across the country, including New York, Maryland, Alabama, and New York, and not only judged the competition, but provided critiques of performances and gave feedback to the young artists. Judges also offered numerous workshops on topics such as stage combat, improvisation, movement, technical theatre, auditioning, ballet, modern dance techniques, and choral performance.

As part of the total experience, students were able to attend the Festival's productions of The Liar, Othello, The Foreigner and An Iliad, as well as an SUU production of Richard III.

The competition was divided into six divisions: Buckingham (large public high schools), Oxford (midsize public high schools), Cambridge (small public high schools), Westminster (charter schools), Stratford (junior high and middle schools) and Essex (schools or groups which are not members of state high school associations).

Acting Competition

For the acting portion of the competition, students were able to compete in monologues, duo/trio scenes, and ensembles. Monologue competitors presented for the judges a two- to four-minute monologue from a Shakespeare play or sonnet. In the duo/trio scenes competition, two or three actors presented a three- to five-minute scene from a Shakespeare play or sonnet. In the ensemble competition, a group of students from a school presented a 6-10 minute Shakespearean scene.

In addition, first, second, and third place overall sweepstake prizes were awarded to the school in each division with the most total points from all categories.

Also, several scholarships were presented in the acting competition:

The first place winners in the duo/trio scene and monologue categories are awarded scholarships to either Southern Utah University or the Utah Shakespeare Festival summer classes, depending on the grade of the student.

Larry Lott Acting Award: In conjunction with the ensemble competition, judges annually recognize the best actor in an ensemble scene in each division. The recipient of this award received a trophy for his or her accomplishments and, if a senior, a $1,000 scholarship to SUU.

The great crate debate

The Pet CORNER

by Dawn AERTS

I for one like the sweet and furry smell of puppies.

But like all things there are limits to what we will allow the wiggly-bundles of playfulness to do: crates are part of the debate.

Do we allow them to ski-daddle all over the house, hoping that our new doggie-mats will absorb most of their accidents as they are prone to happen?

Shall we stay at home, minding the smallest uplift of a leg or a minor squat to indicate that they should be out-the-door in a nano-second, or can we, without guilt, put them away just for a few hours in the little crate?

Yes, some people consider a 'crate' as akin to implementing 'jail time' for an innocent suspect. But then you find a checkbook chewed up, your only pair of designer sunglasses customized under the bed, slippers with holes and of course, the pools that begin to form here and there. So, the cuteness is wearing off and you need to do something to save yourself, accessories, and that beautiful rug near the sofa.

I have trained puppies with no backup and no crate: but it isn't pretty.

home for hours, or full day, but to train a puppy in the 'best time' for sleeping, resting and then getting out, for a potty-time and exercise outside.

Most dog experts suggest that crate-training begin by leaving the puppy in the crate for short periods of time, slowly increasing the time they can be left in the crate. Rule of thumb--a two-month old puppy could be kept in two hours; at four-months, four hours.

But the crate system relies on positive encouragement, frequent breaks, and praising the dog once he has mastered the art of 'holding it' till they get outside.

Exercise and patience are key.

If a dog is given enough time outside the crate with run time and exercise they will get used to the idea of quiet time inside. That said, puppies will need more 'potty break' sessions day time and into the night; and like children, consistency matters. They will come to appreciate free-time, fun-time, meals and nap time.

No matter how sweet your new puppy is, a well-trained puppy will likely be a well-trained pet.

Be a Hero and adopt a homeless dog or cat at your local animal shelter by calling the Enoch office at 435-586-8791 or Cedar City shelter at 435-586-2960 located at 1150 W. Kittyhawk Drive.

When done properly, the crate can be a space where your new furry addition may come to feel 'at home.'

According to experts, when done properly, the crate can be a space where your new furry addition may come to feel 'at home.' Think of it as a little dog cave that keeps him or her feeling safe, allowing for naps or a rest stop, and for short amounts of time. It may be a solution, if you can set-up a reasonable schedule: you've heard of baby-gates, cribs and playpens?

The crate can be a tool to aid your dog in transitioning from an anything goes attitude to a house with a few rules. Ideally, your puppy will also transition from a little space, to a larger crate, to an exercise pen or enclosed area near the back door, or to a family-friendly safe place. You can always test them out in a room, or in the house as they get more proficient.

This is a place where your pet will have a cozy blanket, and access to a water dish, with a chew toy that he recognizes as 'his own.' A crate should be big enough for the small dog to turn around in, but not so big that they imagine there is a bathroom in the back corner, and should have a screened window opening and door to exit.

I am not a fan of keeping any dog in a crate-

Kim Fiero

Kim Denise George Fiero passed away on September 21, 2018.

She was born in Midland, Texas, 11 January 1960, to Robert W. George and Jacquelyne K. Nichols George. The family moved to Overland Park, Kansas, and then on to Manhattan Beach, California. Kim attended the now closed Aviation High School. She took pre-nursing classes at El Camino College and Grossmont College. She completed the registered nursing classes at San Diego State University. After 14 years working as a nurse in the Maternal/Child/NICU units and finally starting to teach at the hospital, she was diagnosed with Latex Allergy (poisoning) and had to go on disability. During her working years she was in Gallup, New Mexico, which provided many opportunities for hiking, local education, and working on a hot air balloon crew.

Kim returned to Southern California and worked in Long Beach, Redondo Beach, and West Covina hospitals. She met and married Courtland W. Fiero as they shared an interest in baseball and baseball cards. They have a very beautiful, kind, talented and intelligent daughter Jacquelyne E. Fiero. Kim and Court divorced in 1994. Due to Kim's problem with the latex allergy, she, her daughter, and her parents moved to Cedar City, Utah, one of the places Kim had enjoyed hiking and visiting.

In 2017 she was diagnosed with cancer. As difficult as this was to deal with, it showed her just how wonderful and kind people really are, how important it is to live with positivity and hope, and the experience of God's love.

Kim enjoyed traveling, photography, art, music, hiking, soccer/football, surfing, motorcycles, and most of all her very special family. Kim joined the Order of the Eastern Star in Cedar City and she is eternally grateful for their friendship, guidance, and support. Kim was blessed by many beautiful and supportive people that God placed on her path and was a member of Community Presbyterian Church. She now returns to God and the loved ones who have taken the eternal path before her. She is preceded in death by her father, R. W. George, and her mother J.K. George. She is survived by her daughter Jaxs Fiero and her sister Jesse Ann Nichols George.

I love my very caring, intelligent, and creative daughter so much. The love she gave me was not always visible to others, but I was aware of it and love her so much.

Looking back on my life there were problems and pain but really – wow, it was good. Now on to the next adventure.

Rams remain hot, rough up Buckaroos

Iron County Today

PAROWAN — After seeing its offense struggle to find a groove against a tough Duchesne team, the Parowan Rams started its official push toward the 1A state football playoffs on Homecoming Night.

With Porter Wood leading the way, the run got off to a solid start.

Wood threw two touchdown passes and ran for two more to go with another diving interception on defense as the Rams broke open a tight game in the second quarter and cruised to a 50-18 victory over the visiting Monticello Buckaroos on Oct. 5 at Alma Richards Stadium. The win was Parowan's fifth straight, and they improved to 6-1 overall.

"We did a good job offensively and defensively, but we have to understand we're a bend-but-don't-break team," Rams head coach Carter Miller said. "We're gonna give up some big plays, but we can't hang our heads and worry."

early in the second quarter, Steven Robinson found a big hole and returned the ensuing kickoff

It wouldn't hurt the Rams in the least as they answered with two scores in three minutes. Codey Hansen had a 22-yard touchdown run and Wood connected with Trey Jense on a 49-yard pass with 1:33 remaining in the first half.

Monticello countered with a quick drive and scored on a 1-yard run by quarterback Mark Beh with just 20 seconds to play until intermission that cut the lead to 28-12.

The teams exchanged touchdowns in the third quarter – Wood on a 7-yard run and Weston Nebeker on a 51-yard run – but the Rams put the win away with two scores and two-point conversions in less than three minutes early in the fourth. Wood had a 1-yard touchdown and Miller scored on an 8-yard run.

"We played a tough team last week, and we passed a lot more than we ever did," said Wood, who was named Homecoming king at halftime. "Our offense was confident tonight."

Parowan will travel to play at Kanab on Friday in search of its second straight win in the rivalry after breaking a 46-year losing streak with last year's 12-10 victory.

Flyers handle Falcons on road

by Tom ZULEWSKI
Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — The Canyon View Falcons knew their fate for the 4A state playoffs was firmly in its hands. The Dixie Flyers simply provided too formidable a challenge and pushed the team's ultimate goal back for one more week.

Reggie Graff threw two long touchdown passes and ran for another score to lead a 30-point second quarter that carried Dixie to a 44-14 rout over Canyon View on Oct. 4, spoiling Homecoming for the Falcons, who fell to 2-3 in Region 9 play.

The Flyers, who are 4-0 in region and tied with Desert Hills for first place, got off to a slow start against Canyon View. After Weston Banuelos ran for 28 yards on fourth down to keep a drive alive, Tyson Miller finished it with a 1-yard touchdown and a 7-0 lead midway through the opening quarter.

By the time Graff finished asserting the Flyers' will, it would give the visitors all the momentum they would need. The senior left-hander scored on a 7-yard run to start the surge, then added a 32-yard scoring pass to Myles Keenan and a 60-yard strike to Miller that stretched the Dixie lead to 34-0.

The Falcons would get on the board for the first time as Colten Shumway found Brayden Cavalieri on a 29-yard touchdown pass with 1 minute, 33 seconds left, but the Flyers made the most of good field position after the kickoff. Kicker Josh Stewart closed the first half by hitting a 30-yard field goal that hit off the right upright and bounced off the crossbar before crawling over and landing safely

Warrior's fourth-quarter surge bests Redmen

by Tom ZULEWSKI

Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — With its playoff hopes hanging by the slimmest of threads, the Cedar Redmen treated its home game against Snow Canyon on Oct. 4 in the same manner. A win would be what mattered most.

Thanks to one big defensive play, the Warriors came through and pushed playoff momentum firmly to its side.

Isaac Lees intercepted a fourth-down pass and returned it 75 yards to ignite a 17-point fourth quarter as Snow Canyon beat Cedar, 24-7, to pick up its first Region 9 win of the season (1-3). Cedar fell to 1-4 in region and head coach Josh Bennett said turnovers came back to haunt his team again.

"We told the kids that penalties and turnovers will hurt you, and it bit us in the butt," Bennett said.

Cedar's coming on a 32-yard pass from Jaxon Garrett to Tayvien Brown – the score held until Matt VanGils hit a 22-yard field goal with under 10 minutes left in the fourth to put Snow Canyon in front at 10-7.

The Redmen were able to drive back down the field on the next possession and had a fourth-and-two at the Warriors 22-yard line. Garrett lofted a screen pass that Lees got in the way of, and the sophomore did the rest, completing his pick-six that put Snow Canyon up by 10 with 6:50 remaining.

After Cedar turned the ball over on downs on its next possession, Ryan Bethers finished the run with a 9-yard touchdown with three minutes to play.

"We control our own destiny now, but that's all we can do," Bennett said. "It's disappointing. Snow Canyon came to play tonight, and unfortunately, we didn't."

Cedar is idle this week and finishes the regular season with a road game at Pine View on Oct. 18.

Lady Reds fall twice, miss soccer playoffs

Falcons go winless in region, Parowan finishes undefeated

by Tom ZULEWSKI

Iron County Today

The Cedar Lady Reds were a team in need of help in its quest to qualify for the 4A state soccer playoffs. A victory over the Desert Hills Thunder was the first step in reaching the goal.

In the end, the Thunder had other ideas and put an end to Cedar's season.

Lulu Harris scored in the second half, and Desert Hills held on to post the 1-0 shutout over Cedar on Oct. 5. With the loss, the Lady Reds failed to qualify for the playoffs for the first time since 2009, finishing with a 4-8-0 record in Region 9 play.

Cedar got the help it needed across town when Snow Canyon beat Pine View by a 4-1 count to clinch an unbeaten season in region at 10-0-2. The Panthers finished 5-7-0, but it was good enough to earn the No. 4 seed for the playoffs, beating Hurricane by a single point and Cedar by a full game.

The Lady Reds were shut out by the Warriors in their other game of the week Oct. 2, a 6-0 loss. Ashley Brindley scored twice as Snow Canyon blew the game open with five goals in the second half.

Canyon View also suffered a pair of defeats in the season's final week and ended up without a win in region play. The Falcons dropped a 9-1 mercy rule game at home to Dixie on Oct. 2, then lost 6-1 at Hurricane to close out the campaign.

Senior Morgan Haag had the only goal on a penalty kick against the Flyers, and Maddie Comstock scored the only goal in the second half in the loss to the Tigers.

In Parowan, the Rams completed a perfect 6-0 season in 2A South by shutting out Beaver in the regular-season finale, 9-0 on Oct. 4. McKenna Murphy scored a hat trick in the win for Parowan, while Harleigh Volk and Laci Sissener added two goals apiece.

The Rams will open the 2A state playoffs at Valentine Park on Saturday in a 4 p.m. kickoff against the St. Joseph Hawks.

CHENEY, Wash. — The Thunderbird football team fell to the No. 4/5 Eagles of Eastern Washington on the road Saturday afternoon 55-17. The loss moves the T-Birds to 0-5 on the season and 0-2 in Big Sky Conference play.

“Obviously not the result we wanted, we came out here to win a football game and we’re not playing well enough to beat any top-level team like Eastern Washington,” SUU head coach Demario Warren said. “We’re not good enough, and that starts and ends with me. We’ve got to find a way to get better as a football team and that starts on Sunday all over again.”

Hitting the field without starting quarterback Gage Gubrud, the Eagles struck quickly to start the contest and built a 14-0 lead with 7:39 to play in the opening quarter.

The Thunderbirds eventually got on the board with a 42-yard Manny Berz field goal with 1:33 to play in the first frame.

In the second quarter the Eagles continued to build their lead, and built a 24-3 advantage with 13:17 left in the first half following a fumble recovery in the endzone.

The T-Birds bounced back on their next drive, however, as Aaron Zwahlen found Ty Rutledge with a pass to the corner of the endzone to cut the Eagle lead to 14.

Eastern Washington would add another touchdown and field goal before the end of “We’ve got to find a way to get better as a football team and that starts on Sunday all over again.”

— Demario Warren, SUU head coach

Thunderbirds were able to get back on the scoreboard, as Jay Green Jr. charged into the endzone to make the score 55-17 in favor of the Eagles.

Unfortunately for the Thunderbirds, that’d be the last time they’d score in the contest. But they also held the Eagles scoreless to end of the contest at 55-17.

Zwahlen finished the contest 30-of-48 passing with 296 yards in the air and a touchdown. Ty Rutledge caught seven of those passes for 93 yards and a touchdown. Landen Measom and Daniel Bell both caught five passes for SUU.

On the ground Jay Green Jr. rushed 30 times for 103 yards and a touchdown.

Chinedu Ahanonu led the team with 10 total tackles and 1.5 tackles for loss. Jordan Walker finished with nine total tackles.

The Thunderbirds will return home next weekend for the first time in over a month, as they’ll host the Hornets of Sacramento State for Homecoming on Saturday at 6 p.m.

“A home game after such a long stretch of road games definitely is a sigh of relief,” Green Jr. said. “Having a home game is really going to help us as a team to gain confidence. We’re going to be on our home field, have home field advantage, and have our fans behind us.”

CV clinches a 4A state playoff berth with a victory at Snow Canyon tonight. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Treats for some, tricks for others

As the first hints of fall – courtesy of last weekend's rains – and colder weather invade our brains, it's about time we dished some dish on the playoffs. With Halloween approaching soon, tricks are waiting for some, while those with real chances to be impactful get the treats in the bag of goodies.

No, we didn't let Linus do a search for the Great Pumpkin to set this bit up, but his blanket went missing for a time.

Hey, finding the funny stuff matters. Let's do this thing.

» First things first: The scenario couldn't be any simpler for the Canyon View football team. Despite suffering a pair of blowout losses at home in the last two weeks, all the Falcons need to do to earn a spot in the 4A state football playoffs is beat the Snow Canyon Warriors tonight. It's on the road, but CV is 2-0 in region outside of Cedar City.

That's right. They win and they're in. No "looks like." No "they need help." Just win and it's done.

Here's what makes the Falcons worthy of treats and gives us some perspective: they managed to produce two playoff appearances under former head coach Robby Robinson (2013, 2015) as a 3A South member, but the only other time CV advanced deep into October as a member of Region 9 was in 2000.

Most of the seniors on this team were babies when that happened.

In last year's game between the teams, Snow Canyon could only manage a 7-0 win. The Warriors' lone score came with the help of 35 penalty yards on a 60-yard drive at the start of the third quarter.

As long as Canyon View avoids mistakes early, they'll be able to pack up the bus for a first-round game at Region 12 champ Sky View on Oct. 26.

If the Falcons fall, the only thing that will save the bacon is if Snow Canyon can somehow lose to Hurricane in its season finale Oct. 18. That will force a play-in game to see who gets to make the trip to play the Bobcats.

Then again, the 'Tigers' defense is allowing 56 points per game in region play. The time for the Falcons to close the deal and do it by themselves is right now.

» For the first time in nine years, the Cedar Lady Reds girls soccer team isn't going to the state playoffs. That doesn't feel normal, and it's why the tricks are out of the bag.

Fielding a team that had only two non-starting seniors on the roster, the Lady Reds lost seven of its final nine region games after starting 2-1. Three of the seven losses were by a single goal and two happened in overtime.

» Had a bad feeling after the home opener, but the Southern Utah football team has no other option at this point. Sitting 0-2 in the Big Sky and 0-5 overall after a disheartening 55-17 rout at fifth-ranked Eastern Washington, the T-Birds need to win out just to get a decent look from the FCS playoff selection committee.

Four of the team's final six games are at Eccles Coliseum, starting with Sacramento State on Saturday night. The Hornets have dropped their first two Big Sky games, including a 41-27 home loss to Cal Poly last week.

The rest won't be easy. SUU travels to Idaho, then has to contend with Northern Colorado, Montana and Weber State back at home before finishing up Nov. 17 with a road game against the Mustangs.

It's about time we dished some dish on the playoffs

RANDOM Thoughts

by Tom ZULEWSKI
Sports Writer

Southern Utah's football history against Cal Poly hasn't been kind, especially when they were rivals in the Great West. The T-Birds lost nine of its final 10 games to them in that league, but they've won two of the three Big Sky matchups to date.

» If you're a Green Bay Packers fan, I apologize in advance for these final paragraphs. Kicker Mason Crosby needs a hug and a good sports psychologist after what happened Oct. 7 against the Detroit Lions.

Crosby missed five kicks – four field goals (41, 42, 38 and 56 yards) and one extra point.

That would have given Green Bay 13 points in total, but the Lions won by eight, 31-23. Surprising doesn't cover the feeling here. Shocked is more like it. Crosby had made 10 of his previous 11 field goals before hitting the turf at Ford Field.

As kickers and writers do every week, we'll dust ourselves off, get back up, and try again.

T-Birds lose to Portland State

by SUU ATHLETICS STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION

For Iron County Today

CEDAR CITY — The Southern Utah soccer team fell just short on Sunday, as two second-half goals from Devri Hartle weren't enough to beat the Portland State Vikings in a match plagued by rain.

It was all Vikings for the first 76 minutes of play as PSU scored in the 19th minute, the 47th minute, and the 76th minute of play to take a 3-0 lead with just 14 minutes left in the match.

Just as it seemed like the Vikings were going to be able to comfortably cruise to victory, the Thunderbirds turned up the pressure and got on the board in the 78th minute when Hartle took a free kick and placed just over the wall of Vikings and into the top left corner of the goal.

Hartle scored again in the 81st minute, picking up a rebound from a blocked shot by MaKenzie Lawrence and putting it past the goalkeeper and two Viking defenders to cut the PSU lead to just one.

The Thunderbirds kept up the pressure in the final minutes, with Hartle even taking another solid look that was barely saved by the Viking goalkeeper, but eventually ran out of time to complete the comeback.

With her three goals this weekend Hartle is now tied with Lawrence for the team lead in goals scored with five. Hartle and Lawrence are now tied for second in goal scoring in the Big Sky Conference with Weber State's Morgan Quarnberg. Northern Colorado's Maddie Roberts holds the lead with six goals on the season.

This was also the first multi-goal game of Hartle's career as a Thunderbird.

Southern Utah will hit the road this coming weekend for their final road trip of the 2018 season.
