Kenneth Cope - I have always loved music. I had the experience to make a cassette single of a theme song I had written. However, making that single gave me experience...made me more prepared for when the next recording opportunity would come along. Every project is a stepping stone to the next one; and each one should be the best we can give at that point in our lives. The goal is to keep growing, keep finding better ways to speak to the audience, and reach them on a deeper level, making a greater connection with them each time. I've come to believe that my desire to get it all was a blessing. I love words. I get so many ideas out of the best books, the scriptures being at the top of the list. And as no two people are exactly alike, no two people would ever write a song the same way. We take from the world around us and express as only we can. This is why the world is full of so much wonderful music.

Save the Children

WITH CHILDREN FALLING PREY TO SO MANY TYPES OF PREDATORS IN THIS WORLD, it is imperative that we each do our part to protect them and preserve a good future for them as well.

'Save the Children' rally held in Cedar City

by Richard CROMMIE
FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

On Saturday morning, nearly 100 people gathered together on the steps of the Cedar City office building on Main St. with a clear message, "Save The Children." Following a national trend, organizers Preston Davis, Bri Rae, and Keeley set off with a goal to bring awareness to the unfortunate truth that kids fall victim to all kinds of atrocities, particularly sexual crimes, and child trafficking.

Children are our future and extraordinarily little on this earth is more precious than a child. As one attendee Chris stated, "It is a cause that anyone can get behind. We have democrats standing next to republicans getting behind one idea."

As they held signs on the corner for multiple hours, there were dozens of people honking their horns and cheering showing solidarity with the cause.

Advocating for organizations like "Operation Underground Railroad" who has been an outspoken voice on the subject, the participants of Saturdays rally also feel that there needs to be reform for Utah's sexual crimes; claiming that it is too easy for one to be set free after misconduct with a child.

For now, the voices defending the children will remain loud into the future and will not rest until there is justice.

Cedar City Hospital's Administrator Eric Packer named C.E.O. of the Year

from Becki BRONSON

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Utah Department of Health has awarded Cedar City Hospital Administrator Eric Packer with their 2020 CEO of the Year award. Packer was nominated for this award by Greg Rosenvall with the Utah Hospital Association, who said in his nomination, "Eric is a tenured CEO who is well-respected, and because of his leadership, Cedar City Hospital has been consistently recognized nationally with various awards for being one of the top rural hospital in the country."

Under his leadership, Cedar City Hospital has been named a Top 20 Rural Hospital in the Country for five years in a row, something no other hospital has ever achieved. The hospital has also been named a Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) 5 Star Hospital, among the 100 Great Community Hospitals from Becker's Hospital Review, and a Top 100 Hospital by IBM Watson Health, among many other national and state awards.

Packer says he's "humbled and grateful." "Coming to work is fun when you get to work with wonderful people and have a wonderful cause," says Packer. "Everyone on our team works hard and knows their role. We have an amazing team. I love what I do, and this award is especially meaningful in a year that has been full of difficult challenges."

Cyndi Wallace, Nurse Administrator at Cedar City Hospital and second in command to Eric, says, "I have worked with Eric Packer for four years now. He brings a calm, capable, and caring sense of leadership to the Executive Team at Cedar City Hospital. His decisions are highly respected, especially within the administrative team at Intermountain, because he takes time to consider all of the aspects and consequences before he makes a decision and a statement. Often, he has been able to see something that I had not thought of, and his wisdom is greatly appreciated. He has a subtle but wickedly funny sense of humor, once you get to know him, and he brings a much-needed laugh and lift to all of us. The work we do is extremely important and sometimes can be a heavy burden to bear. His leadership helps us to be our very best. He is always thinking about the caregivers that work at Cedar City Hospital, and their needs, and responds to them with care and concern."

Joe Mott, Vice President and Chief

Operating Officer with Intermountain Healthcare Specialty-Based Care, who is over the administrators of all the hospital with Intermountain, says, "The role of an administrator is an extremely complex one. You are faced with incredibly challenging financial situations, as well as managing a large workforce, meeting tight budgets, working with so many moving pieces like the medical staff and the Governing Board, doing community outreach, and managing all your quality, safety and access metrics, and keeping staff engaged, and more. And Eric is doing all of this exceptionally well. He always brings good thought and analysis to his work and decision-making and addresses complex needs very directly but very appropriately and fairly, with much thought and analysis. He solves problems in a professional, high-standard way. I have total confidence in his leadership, and I am grateful he has received this award."

Ashely Moretz, Director of the Office of Primary Care and Rural Health with the Utah Department of Health who presented the award to Packer, says, "I was eating at a

From the Editor

People persons

COREY BAUMGARTNER
MANAGING EDITOR

Last week I found another insightful (frightful) T-shirt. It read, "I used to be a people person... then people ruined it." While meant to be more clever (comical) than letter of the law, the words are still provoking in these troubled times, especially when we need more people persons. Not just those who are friendly, but who can also provide leadership, unity and compassion for and among all people.

I understand the witty intent of the designer/wearer of the T-shirt. However, if I interpret and implement those words correctly, do they mean that when I witness other people, religions, races, etc. doing deeds unworthy of their creeds, that I have a credible excuse to sit on the sidelines of life and/or add to the indifference, anarchy or apathy of the world?

As long as such messages are being created, worn and lived, I say that the need is even greater for people to not become so easily offended and thus abandon the cause of helping to sustain and safeguard humanity. Perhaps we can all take a lesson from the Canyon View Middle School Cougars, who strive to "Be Safe, Be Kind, and Be responsible." Even when we witness others doing (and wearing) the opposite.

Thought of the Week

To the Editor

B.S. at the P.O.

I call BS on both sides of the political aisle over the recent trashing of the post office over the handling of political mail. As a past employee, Postmaster and Plant Manager—over a 39-year career—I can attest that this is political nonsense and hurtful to the thousands of hard working dedicated postal employees across the country. The post office has been competently handling political mail for the past 30 years with an impeccable record.

Political mail is treated expeditiously and is processed and delivered as first-class mail. The recent removal of collection boxes and the elimination of automated equipment in plant operations is directly tied to diminished mail volumes and has been in the works long before the installation of the current Postmaster General in Washington DC. Political mail is a boon to the postal service providing needed revenue and is easily processed and delivered in the various postal delivery automation and delivery systems.

The post office is not broken, it is however a service organization that is mandated to provided consistent service across our country. The Post Office must either be given the authority to manage its affairs without political interference, or be given a public mandate and be supported by our tax dollars. Either way you get your monies worth as these dedicated employees are also heroes in serving our nation without complaint during the current pandemic.

John M Hardin,
Retired Postmaster, Eugene, Oregon

The truth about Antifa

Concerning the chaotic state caused by the Antifa group in Portland and Seattle; several Google definitions state that Anarchy is: "Communists, socialists, fascists, terrorists, anti-capitalism and anti-rights."

If this continues, we can say goodbye to America as we know it and then to the world as we know it. Pray, vote for change. There is no excuse for violence and destruction. Evil men do not understand justice. They do not know right from wrong. Their thoughts are corrupt and devious.

Been reading your paper for about 10 years, and it has never failed me. You are a no rigmarole local paper. I even love your coupons. I cut them out and use them at Smiths. I'm writing to thank you for being a no baloney news sheet. You keep me informed about what's going on without any tomfoolery. I'm also sending this letter because I keep meeting some new people who have the wrong ideas about you and call your paper "a throw away."

What balderdash! I can't stand it because that ideer is baloney. They must be "confuzzled" as my mommy used to say. Your paper is a no-nonsense paper. "Egads!" as my poppy used to say. Iron County Today is a MUST READ. Please keep delivering it to my cabin. I'm just an ol' codger, but I know when something is good. Thanks again.

OPINION

A little “good trouble”

Cyclops

by Bryan GRAY

COLUMNIST

The opinions stated in this article are solely those of the author and not of Iron County Today.

Last week two prominent owners of Utah's professional sports teams responded to the cry for racial justice and the short-term player boycott of a few athletic events.

One of the owners cemented her relationship with her players, delivering a concise call for equality and fairness in a troubled country. In contrast, the other owner muttered a loathing, ego-driven message common to a privileged and wealthy plantation owner.

The Miller family, owners of the NBA's Utah Jazz and Triple A baseball franchise, declared that they understood the frustration and despair in communities of color. A postponed game was hardly equal to a senseless killing of a black man opening the door to a car containing his three children.

But for the Salt Lake Real soccer team owner, Dell Loy Hansen, the postponing of the game by his players was all about him and his profits. He felt disrespected, he said, and threatened to withhold fund to improve his team and cut the pay for mostly low-paid staff.

He has since apologized for his comments, but many Utah sports fans support him. To them, professional athletes should just keep dribbling much like Robert E. Less thought his slaves should just keep picking cotton. Some 5,000 soccer fans were highly inconvenienced by driving to the Rio Tinto stadium only to find out the game would be temporarily postponed.

Oh, the inconvenience of driving to the stadium only to discover that instead of eating concession stand tacos you would have to back-track and feast on ribs at an Applebees! Compare that to Jacob Blake who, shot seven times while entering his car, will be paralyzed for life. Or compare the soccer fans' inconvenience to the two Wisconsin protestors who were killed by a 17-year old white racist.

Those Utahns who think the protesting players are out of line have never had to warn their sons that a routine traffic stop could frustrate an anxiety-filled, trigger-happy patrolman. None of their children have to worry about being shot repeatedly during a simple arrest for selling untaxed cigarettes on a New York street. Their daughters would never be refused service like Oprah Winfrey was at an expensive jewelry store. Their wife would never think she would be shot inside her house because a nervous policeman saw a shadow.

The police aren't the enemy here. The enemy are the men and women who couldn't care less about racial justice and fair play as long as it doesn't impact them directly. Another black man gets killed...Who cares when we can watch a rerun of "Friends"?

Utah Jazz star Donovan Mitchell was correct when he said that Hansen should probably sell the Real to someone who really cares about the community. Hansen may have offered a mea culpa but his initial supporters want one thing: quiet. They are happy in their status quo bunker. But being quiet won't heal the embedded racial scars; as John Lewis said, sometimes a little "good trouble" is necessary to advance a society. Even it if inconveniences the majority.

Want racial justice? Start with filling out your census

by Suzanne MCCORMICK

U.S. PRESIDENT OF UNITED WAY

Those living in our nation's poor and minority communities have historically gone undercounted in the U.S. Census. For instance, nearly one million Black Americans went uncounted nationwide in the 2010 Census.

Fortunately, there's an easy step you can take that will go a long way towards ensuring everyone in our communities gets the representation and resources they deserve. By completing the 2020 census questionnaire – online, over the phone, or by mail – you can add your voice to the conversation and make yourself and your family heard.

Here are five ways your census response will help you and your fellow Americans:

Advances racial equity

In recent months, millions have taken to the streets to call for racial equity and justice. These protests have helped amplify the voices of underserved communities. But real change will only take place when these demands become public policy. For that to happen, our government needs to see you. And that can only happen if you stand up to be counted.

The racial inequities that undermine our nation can never be addressed unless you fill out the census and join the fight for social justice.

Directs funding to programs that save lives

As the COVID-19 outbreak continues to ravage the country, it's critical that we direct our emergency resources to those who need them the most. Black and Latino Americans are disproportionately impacted by the virus and are twice as likely to die from COVID-19.

Wealth also factors into the survivability of COVID-19. Adults with an annual household income below $15,000 are nearly 15 percent more likely to contract a serious illness following infection compared to those with annual incomes over $50,000.

Your census response helps essential workers identify at-risk communities and directs resources to these vulnerable populations.

The coronavirus won't be the last time certain communities are disproportionately impacted by a natural disaster. Accurate census data will prepare first responders, nonprofit relief organizations, and government officials to respond to future crises.

Funds everything from public housing to school breakfasts

This year's census will determine how trillions of dollars in federal spending are allocated over the next decade. In 2017 alone, over 300 federal programs relied on 2010 census data to allocate $1.5 trillion of funds. That money pays for everything from public housing to school breakfast programs, new roads to trash and recycling schedules.

Federal dollars won't reach the communities that need them most unless the government has a precise picture of your local population. You must paint that picture by letting them know you are there.

Ensures fair political representation

Ever wonder why Ohio has 16 seats in the House of Representatives, while Georgia has only 14? The number of representatives a state gets increases with its population – and the census determines its population. You pay taxes, right? Well, don't you want to be fairly represented?

The results of the 2020 census will shape the Congressional map for the next decade. If you want a Congress that represents your community and serves your interests, make sure the government accounts for you and your family.

Creates jobs

Census data doesn't just help government officials. Businesses consult the census when making hiring and payroll decisions, or where to locate a new office, or when determining how best to serve their communities.

For instance, understanding the demographic of a particular neighborhood can help a local grocer determine which items to stock. This knowledge helps her business grow and creates jobs in your neighborhood, while delivering needed items to the marketplace.

At United Way, we fight for every person in every community to be seen and heard. But we can't do it alone. Join us and help stand up for your community by being counted. You have until September 30th to fill out the 2020 U.S. census. Change doesn't happen without you.

local restaurant in Cedar City, and I mentioned I was in town to present this award to Eric. It took me back a bit when the response from our server was, 'Oh yes, Cedar City Hospital! I love our hospital! It's so great. All my family and friends have used that hospital and have had a great experience!' It was a testament to me about how significant this hospital is to the community. To have this unsolicited testimonial from a community member reflects the hospital's standing here, and was to me one more data point that this award is going to the right person."

About Eric Packer:

Eric Packer has served as Intermountain Cedar City Hospital's CEO and administrator since April of 2016. Prior to that Packer served as the administrator at Bear River Valley Hospital in Tremonton for 12 years.

Eric was raised in Fillmore, Utah, and moved with his family to St. George as his father became the assistant administrator at Dixie Regional Medical Center. Packer graduated from Dixie High School in 1983 and then attended Southern Utah University where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a minor in Marketing. He went on to earn his master's degree in business administration from the University of Phoenix. Other accomplishments include obtaining a Health Facility Administrators License, completing the FEMA Healthcare Leadership Course and a Health Management Academy GE Fellowship. He was also instrumental in working with the State of Utah to bring a mammography outreach program to rural Utah, serving Piute, Beaver, Garfield and Kane County.

Eric started his career with Intermountain in 1989 when he was hired to serve as the Director of Outpatient Services for Evanston Regional Hospital. From that time, he has been the CEO and administrator at Garfield Memorial Hospital and Clinics, Administrator of the Bear River Valley Care Center, CEO of Bear River Valley Hospital, and now CEO of Cedar City Hospital. Eric is very committed to the community and serves on the Iron County Children's Justice Center Board, Southern Utah University College of Science and Engineering Board, the Utah TeleHealth Network Advisory Council and the Southwest Technical College Board.

Eric and his wife Sandy have been married 33 years and have four daughters and seven grandchildren. Eric enjoys camping, hunting, especially duck hunting, mountain biking and fishing.

Post Office employees receive appreciation from community

IRON COUNTY TODAY

A group of grateful citizens led by Dale Rood and his wife Karen Ann Rood, gathered in front of Cedar City's post office to show their appreciation for our post office workers. Dale Rood, a former mailman, recounted some of his experiences while being employed by the USPS in various states for over 32 years. Many of the circumstances he found himself in were cases that would require a substantial amount of courage to face frequently. "Post office employees throughout the nation face difficult situations and we want to show our appreciation," said Rood. A book was available to sign and state your appreciation for the employees of the Post Office. Many passersby wrote a short token of gratitude for our postal workers.

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Don and Margi Cowles are active members of the Church and they have been members of the Cedar City community for over 15 years. They desperately need help as they were recently released from the hospital after becoming very sick from COVID-19.

Margi already had congestive heart failure, COPD and diabetes prior to contracting the Coronavirus. She then had a stroke while she was in the hospital and is now unable to walk, talk, think, see or operate her left arm and hand correctly.

Don is a truck driver and is unable to go back to work since he is the only one who is able to care for her. Their only source of income is his Social Security and they cannot survive solely off of that.

The goal is to raise enough money to pay off their fifth wheel trailer that they live in so they can

Survey to help assess community risk and protective factors

The work of Canyon Creek is near and dear to my heart and they need input from the community. The results will be anonymous and it's about "Community Risk and Protective Factors." They have a goal to reach 1,000 responses. Please go to the address below and take just a few minutes to fill out this survey. It will be a wonderful show of support of our local domestic violence and sexual assault services. <https://forms.gle/9oDYbmbg9dekBVDW7>

Canyon Creek Services (CCS) is 25 years old and has a powerful legacy involving many amazing individuals and organizations that have sacrificed and built the organization into what it is today and what it will become. Canyon Creek has typically been identified as an emergency shelter for women and children fleeing domestic violence. While that was true in our early years, we have become much more than that and have seen significant expansion in our services and activities over the past few years.

Our organization provides free and strictly confidential services to any victim of domestic violence as well as sexual assault. We offer our services to any victim, regardless of age, gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation and so on, whether they are in current crisis or seeking other support and guidance. Our current services include 24 hour crisis intervention, a 24 hour hotline, sexual assault hospital response, emotional support and advocacy, legal advocacy, medical advocacy, systems advocacy, housing assistance, emergency shelter, support groups, classes, case management, programming, and other life-situation support and advocacy with the goal of helping survivors achieve emotional healing and financial independence.

Importantly, CCS is also providing and expanding sexual assault and domestic violence prevention and education programming, presentations, and materials to individuals, groups, organizations throughout our service area.

Not too late to respond the 2020 Census! The last day is Sept. 30

The 2020 Census has been underway since earlier this year, but if you haven't responded yet, it's not too late to respond and shape your future. You can still complete the questionnaire yourself online at 2020census.gov, by calling 844-330-2020, or by returning the paper form you received in the mail. Respond using the address where you were living on April 1, 2020 and include anyone who was living with you at the time.

Census takers have been knocking on doors in an effort to count households that haven't responded so far. If you respond on your own now, it is less likely that a census taker will visit you in person to help you complete the questionnaire. However, if someone from the Census Bureau does visit you, please cooperate with them. You'll know they are a Census Bureau employee by their identification badge, which will have their photograph, a U.S. Department of Commerce watermark, and an expiration date. All census takers have been trained on social distancing protocols, will be issued Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) and will follow local guidelines for its use.

Governor Gary Herbert encourage Utahns to fill out their 2020 census forms. During a previous monthly news conference, he highlighted the importance of answering the questionnaire and how it impacts the state of Utah. Your response matters – as does that of your friends, family, and neighbors – because the results of the 2020 Census determine how many seats your state gets in the U.S. House of Representatives. The once-a-decade population count is mandated by the U.S. Constitution. Responses to the census inform planning and funding decisions for emergency and disaster response, healthcare and hospitals, schools and education, roads and bridges, and other vital community resources. Census responses shape the future for everyone, whether you live in a city or a small town, a rural area, on a boat, or in an RV. It impacts children, college students, and adults of all ages. That's why everyone should respond and be counted.

If you're not able to verify if someone else in your household has already responded, such as a roommate or family member, go ahead and respond and include everyone in your household in your response; the Census Bureau eliminates duplicate responses when processing the questionnaires.

Your answers to the 2020 Census questionnaire are strictly confidential and protected by law. Your census responses cannot be used against you by any government agency or court in any way. Responses are only used to produce statistics. You can view your state, city, or county's response rates via our online interactive map.

So far, Utah ranks 10th in the Nation with 68.5%. We are .1% below the 2010 self-response rate which was 68.6%. Over 820,000 of households have responded online, by phone, or by mail. But we need help in some areas of the beehive state. Rich County, home of the enchanting Bear Lake, is lowest county in self-respond rate, reporting 12.9%. Among cities and towns, the highest mountain town in Utah, Brian Head, is reporting the lowest self-respond rate at 3.7%.

COVID-19/Legislative Update

Dear friends and neighbors,

Even in the midst of a pandemic, Utah continues to lead the nation. Our unemployment rate is 4.5% – the lowest in the nation. Our COVID case fatality rate is .0079 – also the lowest in the nation. These two statistics show that our balanced approach is working.

For the 13th consecutive year, Utah has also been recognized as the best state in the nation for economic outlook. Achieving and maintaining the balance has not come easily. A Forbes Magazine article, What Utah Can Teach Other States About Surviving A Recession, explains part of how this balance was accomplished.

From the beginning of the COVID-19 health crisis, the Utah Legislature has taken swift action to carefully manage the state's budget. As part of this careful effort to keep our budget stable, last week in a special session, we passed, H.B. 6002, Supplemental Budget Balancing and Coronavirus Relief Appropriations.

H.B. 6002 generates savings by eliminating double funding for a training program and rolling-back certain salary increases. These savings, along with $11 million in excess health insurance reserves, will restore funding to budget hot spots.

Some of the priorities funded with this bill are:

- » $490,000 to sustain the operation of some state-run health clinics until after the next General Session;
 - » $1.1 million to give teachers at the Schools for the Deaf and Blind a statutorily required and much-deserved pay raise;
 - » $500,000 to provide expanded legal defense for those who are unable to afford it themselves;
 - » $1 million for pre- and post-conviction services and supervision at the local level; and
 - » $1 million for additional job training and retraining through Utah State University and the Utah Industrial Alliance.
- H.B. 6002 also completes the third and last round of appropriating the $688 million in Federal Coronavirus Relief Funds the state received under the CARES Act.
- The bill funds among the following:
- » $25 million for broadband internet access in eastern and northern Utah;
 - » $4 million for WiFi access to residences in San Juan County;
 - » $15 million for classroom supplies, equipment and enhancements – including personal protective equipment. The $15 million is in addition to the money schools directly received through the CARES Act;

- » $4 million for additional PPE to help with charter school enrollment increases;
- » $40 million for additional economic support to our hardest-hit industries, including $7.5 million for arts organizations and $5 million for mining;
- » $3 million for outreach and direct services in multicultural communities;
- » $7 million to provide much-needed respite services for those who care for individuals with disabilities on the waiting list;
- » $15 million to add equipment and a night shift at state medical labs to build capacity and improve Coronavirus test turn-around times;
- » $750,000 to add intensive care unit beds, especially in smaller communities.

Additionally, we were able to restore some of the cuts made during the previous special session, we authorized $138 million in unemployment benefits and $1.7 million in administrative costs to provide an additional $300 a week to Utahns who find themselves without work due to COVID-19 (Utah was one of the first states in the nation to do this.) And we eliminated state income tax on COVID-19 funds that Utahans received.

Our consistent, near decades-long proactive management of the state budget has put us ahead of the nation in terms of recovery and stability. Currently, Utah ranked first for economic growth, we have the lowest unemployment rate (4.5%) and the best economy in the nation.

Our goal, throughout this COVID-19 challenge has always been to achieve an equitable balance between protecting the health and economic well-being of our citizens. While the results have not been perfect, we have again set an example for other states to follow.

Extending the State of Emergency:

I have received many emails wondering about the need and process of emergency orders. Please know that we are working through the legislative process to manage the problem. Members of the Senate were united in NOT extending the Governor's current emergency powers. Here are a few facts:

Under the previous state of emergency outlined in March, the governor issued 47 COVID-19 related executive actions the past five months. 56 total actions in 2020 thus far.

There were 14 executive actions in each of the previous two years (2019, 2018)

Utah has been in a state of emergency for over 150 days.

A typical state of emergency, usually for a fire or earthquake, lasts about 30 days.

Our state has made great strides in working to overcome this health crisis. Utah has the lowest fatality rate in the nation and the second-lowest employment rate.

However, regardless of whether the current state of emergency was extended the Governor could simply reissue another one. Here is the Governor's response as to why he felt an additional State of Emergency needed to be instated.

Education:

Education is still the number one priority in Utah. Education options will be as flexible as possible this year to accommodate individual family needs. Davis School District has done the best job possible to manage and mitigate the problems COVID-19 has imposed upon us.

Saying that 2020 has been an interesting year would be an understatement. But it is not an understatement to say that, once again, Utahns, including our southern Utahns, have shown that our level of preparedness and our willingness to work together allows us to flourish during unexpected challenges. It's been heartwarming to see the kindnesses shown and the greatness of our people even when times are difficult. At my pharmacies, I routinely see people picking out masks they know their loved one would like, with a design or color they would enjoy, and purchasing that for them, to try and make wearing a mask easier for them.

I've been to wedding receptions, church, and neighborhood gatherings, where people are still coming together, and despite wearing a mask, these wonderful community members make the gathering a happy one, where everyone is enjoying getting to see one another and connect. Our schools and how they have responded during this time, despite the enormous challenges, has been nothing short of extraordinary. Teachers and school leaders, we want you to know: our entire community sees how hard you are working, how much you are sacrificing to do everything possible for our students during COVID, and we thank you!

Even with protests we've had in southern Utah, it's been powerful to see on both sides of an issue how people have had their voice be heard, and still be respectful, and not cause harm or damage.

I am so proud to be from southern Utah. As we continue to work together and support one another we will get through this pandemic. Thank you for continuing to bring your very best to our communities so that we will stay strong and move forward in a positive way.

My best to you and your family,

Evan Vickers, Utah State Senate

August has come and gone, with it another art walk offered by the Cedar City Arts Council has passed. Several beloved musical groups performed at August's art walk, including; Bill and Lorretta Westbrook, Mountain Top Sound, MB3 Jazz Band and The Washburn Family Band. It was great to see old friends singing along with each other and cheering one another on. An impromptu jam session between Steven Swift of Mountain Top Sound and Paul Washburn entertained the growing crowd.

In addition to these talented musicians, many fantastic artists presented displays of beautiful artwork. Hanna Dawson brought her cyanotypes, Larry Laskowski displayed his watercolors, Amalia Wells and her Tole paintings, Michaela Crismon's beautiful paintings, including many other wonderful community artists. Be sure to attend the Cedar City Arts Council's last art walk of the season in September.

SIMONFEST ARTISTIC DIRECTOR STEPS DOWN

from SIMONFEST THEATRE COMPANY

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Peter Sham, SimonFest Theatre Company artistic director since 2017, announced recently that he will be stepping down from his position as artistic director in order to focus on other creative areas of his life.

"I hope I have opened up a future at SimonFest for all young artists to begin their professional careers by being challenged with featured roles, early directing/designing experiences, professional responsibilities, and much more," Sham said. "My goal as artistic director was always to raise the bar of our overall artistry by changing the prevailing culture while creating a sense of family, professionalism, and enjoyment of the craft to all I have been a part of at SimonFest. I hope these sensibilities have begun to take root and will continue to grow for many, many years to come."

"This new phase of my life will be geared toward gaining a deeper understanding and development of the writing aspects of my life both nationally and internationally, continuing to expand and achieve my creative goals at Southern Utah University, and endeavoring to give greater focus to the needs of my beloved family," said Sham. "I am excited and eager to embark on this next adventure. And though I say goodbye to this amazing little professional theatre company, I shall continue to support its many talented and passionate artists and volunteers in their future work."

"I was saddened to receive this announcement from Peter," said SimonFest Board President Neal L. Smith. "We had established a great working relationship."

Sham, a principal company member and playwright for the Tony Award-winning Utah Shakespeare Festival for 12 seasons, has acted, directed and written for SimonFest since 2015. He was hired as associate-artistic director by SimonFest Founder, Richard Bugg in 2016, and promoted to artistic director in 2017. "While we will miss Peter, we are grateful for his work ethic, professional standards and his amazing work ethic," added Neal L. Smith, SimonFest Board Chair.

Sham will remain in Cedar City as associate professor of theatre at Southern Utah University, where he and his wife Kirsten have devoted their lives to the education and emotional well-being of students in the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance.

CELLOMANIA USA

by Nina HANSEN

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Thanks to the Frontier Homestead Museum, the local cello ensemble, Cellomania USA, was able to present their Fall concert.

Cellomania USA is directed by cellist Nina Hansen and is a service she provides for her students who want to go beyond the classroom, school orchestra or Suzuki studies. There are currently 11 students in the group ranging in ages from 12 to 16 with a variety of skill levels. Hansen provides music that is challenging but fun and coaches the students in ensemble skills, technique and leadership skills.

The current pandemic has made it difficult to find places to perform, however they have rehearsed each week throughout the past year while practicing social distancing. While other places turned Cellomania down for a performance venue, the Frontier Homestead Museum was willing to work with them and follow state pandemic guidelines at the same time. The museum is full of historical treasures and a perfect place for photos and music performances.

This concert was the first concert for this group of students in Cellomania USA. In 2007, Hansen formed Cellomania USA and had 17 students in the group. They played all over Southern Utah and in the Disneyland Heritage Festival where they were awarded top honors. In 2010 Hansen guided her group to China where they performed on the Great Wall of China, in the Xian Conservatory of Music, and Changsha, Hunan Normal University. Those students have all grown up and moved on in life.

Today's Cellomania USA is a whole new group of students. This concert, at the Frontier Homestead Museum, was the beginning of a new generation for Cellomania USA. "The pandemic did not keep us from our music," stated Hansen. "This new group of students is the result of dreams, work and resilience." Good things are yet to come for Cellomania USA. The variety of music that is available today gives these kids the chance to find the fun in their instruments and follow the advice of Beethoven and Plato.

"Don't only practice your art, but force your way into its secrets; art deserves that, for it and knowledge can raise man to the Divine." – Ludwig van Beethoven

"Music gives a soul to the universe, wings to the mind, flight to the imagination, and life to everything" – Plato

Find out more on their Facebook page: @CellomaniaUSA.

WHILE PLAYING OUT OF TUNE WON'T GET A CELLIST TOSSED INTO JAIL, the Frontier Homestead Museum is a fun place to experience life beyond the stage.

The gentle sounds of summer

by Mary Anne ANDERSEN

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

We have a small deck on the second floor of our home, where we love to eat as soon as the weather allows. The space is part of our summer rituals: in the spring I “open the deck,” hosing off the floor, wiping down all the railings, moving the table and chairs from their place of relative shelter against the house to the center of the deck, and uncovering and wiping down those. Summer can begin! In the fall, the furniture is covered, the little plants thrown away, and we move inside.

I eat breakfast out there, where I am charmed by the sounds of summer all around. Over the years, the trees in the neighborhood have grown and I can no longer see into my neighbors' backyards. But I can hear sounds that speak to me of summer almost as much as the warm sun on my back. For instance, why is it so lovely to hear the sound of clinking dishes from next door? I hear a few soft words occasionally, but usually it is just the comforting sound of a household waking up. I envision someone in pajamas with cups and small plates or bowls enjoying their own wake-up comfort foods. I don't call out to them; neither of us wants conversation just now.

I have always loved the sound of a small plane overhead. The gentle drone speaks to me of a season when nature allows small man in a small machine to escape into a space of light and calm and I always wonder who it is and where he is going. The helicopters that I often hear now don't talk to me of that same peace and privacy—too thumping loud, too purposeful.

Earthbound again, I almost always hear the sound of a lawn mower somewhere in the neighborhood. It is far enough away that it isn't that painful roar when it is in your own yard. I think of a person in shorts wanting to get this chore done before it gets hot. What other sound is so exclusively tied to this wonderful summer season? I send mental congratulations for being up and at it so early. “Thanks for caring about our neighborhood.”

And the birds and other live creatures go about their business, grateful for such gentle weather, totally unmindful of me. The crickets are oblivious to my presence, and the birds are quieter than they were earlier. I do usually hear a sad mourning dove, often perched on the chimney of the house next door. My grandson once thought their lamenting was “annoying” but it fits my mood these days.

Speaking of birds, I was a block from home the other day just as it was barely light and I think I heard an owl! It wasn't a birdsong or the two-note sigh of the dove. It was a single-pitched call repeated three times. It seemed to come from a tall evergreen tree. I couldn't see him but I'll bet he could see me. Good morning, sir.

Iron County Care and Share:

Providing continuous services in uncertain times

by Shay BARUFFI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Providing seamless services can be a challenge in rural Utah let alone during a pandemic. The Iron County Care and Share has been able to keep the majority of their services active despite COVID-19, they have quickly developed plans to keep their services available to the public and clients. It takes an innovative and passionate crew to reach those in need of resources. Peggy Green is the Executive Director of the Iron County Care and Share. She has an amazing team of talented colleagues who have helped the Care and Share

Clients are then tested and may be moved into a community dorm when they come back negative. Masks are required when in a common area and social distancing is encouraged by staff members. Jetton added, “We try to provide as many physical barriers to the virus as possible to keep everyone safe. I’ve noticed the most helpful thing is to share as much education as possible about what is going on about the situation and keep those in the shelter aware. Our goal is to keep clients and staff as safe as possible.”

and Share’s Food Pantry has a plethora of food items available to clients. According to Simms, the Utah Food Bank delivers to the pantry three times a month and many businesses in the community donate to the Care and Share Pantry. Prior to COVID-19 clients could come in to shop in the Pantry’s storefront, now volunteers pre-bag food and hand it out. “Literally within a couple of days this amazing team developed a safe system to get food to these clients without putting a hitch in our services,” says Green.

Ann, a consistent volunteer at the pantry, helps bag groceries for clients. The average food bag weighs about 9lbs. and the average food box weighs about 50lbs. Jeremiah Betcher, the Pantry Coordinator is knowledgeable in dietary restrictions. When clients can’t have gluten or dairy, he creates food boxes and bags suited to their needs. “The pantry serves 700 to 800 families per month,” says Simms.

In addition to the invaluable services provided by the Iron County Care and Share, there are multiple options for funding assistance. “We want to help people become self-sustainable,” says Green. “We have dollars to keep people in their homes if they are about to lose theirs, for people coming directly out of shelter, or for someone who just lost their

Choose the right

Heading west on Center Street, in the small rural town of Milford, Utah, you will come to an intersection at 300 North. If you choose to turn right, you will pass Milford High School, (Go Tigers!) and find your way to the quaint city park and pavilion. It's a great place for family reunions and for cheering each other on during friendly family contests. Should you decide to turn left instead, you will find yourself at the city cemetery. I've been to both places, for very different reasons and thankfully only to visit. One place brings cheers, the other place brings only tears, for now.

During the journey of your life there will be many intersections, or crossroads, that you will encounter. Each day you must make decisions that have the potential to lead towards dead-ends, or towards your destiny. They can take you to places of peace or of pain. Sometimes, you will choose the wrong road, the ruts most traveled. Sometimes, you may not even realize it until you hit the dead-end or the drop-off. It's a normal part of life. However, just because you hit a dead-end doesn't mean you have to stay stuck. Just because you wanted to enjoy the park, but ended up at the cemetery, doesn't mean you have to dig a grave. It means you have to be willing to turn around, make better (not just different) decisions and move forward, not downward.

Sometimes we're so hard on ourselves when we make mistakes and dead-end decisions that we get so discouraged and figure we might as well give up instead of getting back up and finding another, better direction. No, not every decision is life or death or will lead to a dead-end, but those that lead you to places you'd rather not be or become don't need to ruin your whole journey. Learn to

As for mistakes you've already made and are learning to leave behind; keep in mind that your rear-view mirrors—the ones in your car and in your mind—are meant to glance in, not glare in. You won't reach the parks, perks, and peaks of life if you're always focused on your failures (or those of others). I'm not saying every day will be a walk in the park, but bad days don't have to be another nail in your coffin. Yes, daily decisions are critical to your success and happiness but remember that dead-ends are not the end, unless you choose to not turn around.

Someday, I will make that final left turn. Until then, I'm not going to let wrong turns and mistakes etch my epitaph early. My tombstone can wait. I'm going to keep choosing the right turns and not let the fear of wrong-turns keep me from enjoying my life. I hope you won't either. I'll see you at the park.

MATTHEW 18:23-35

Last week we discussed the parable of the king who forgave a billion-dollar debt to a servant who could not forgive an $8800 debt. The king rescinded his mercy and the servant was sent to the tormentors (jailors) until he repaid every cent. I ended by saying that Jesus (the King of Kings) not only has the answer for our debts (sins and sorrows), but that He is the answer!

There is also a hidden treasure in this parable. It's not only about our forgiveness or forgiving others; it's that no matter the depth (cost) of our debts, Jesus Christ has already paid them! It's why He came. (John 3:16-17) As impossible as it is for us to believe it; if we receive Him and follow Him, we can/will be forgiven. Our debts are paid through the Atonement of Jesus Christ. He became our Creditor and took our place in the Garden and on the Cross because He loves us.

If you could put a dollar amount on your sins or sorrows, what would they cost? 4.5 billion dollars or $8800? Maybe higher? The point is, no matter the price of our pain and suffering, we may wonder/doubt how we can ever fully "pay" for our sins and ever be or even feel forgiven? We can't! Not by ourselves. We may also wonder how we can ever feel happiness or love ever again after the sin(s) we've committed. Or, how can we possibly forgive someone else for what they did to us? These feelings become our merciless tormentors. Thankfully, the King of Kings, our Savior, Jesus Christ, does not want us to be sold into the slavery of such misery and martyrdom for the rest of our lives. His tender mercies and sacrifices set us free, if we receive them. Here are some scriptures to help get you started with hope on your way to healing. Ephesians 4:31-32, 1 John 1:9, 2 Corinthians 5:17, Romans 12:9-13 and Isaiah 1:18.

How do you know when you've been forgiven? That's between you and the Lord and those He has chosen to help you get back on and stay on the Covenant Path. I feel the peace of forgiveness as I change my behaviors but also my desires to not only stay out of "debt" but to help others get out of and stay out of debt, also. Another "sign" is when we have our burdens (sins) lifted in our lives, we rejoice and we want to help lift the burdens of others.

Today, let the Lord give you peace of mind and heart (John 14:27). You may not understand it or feel as worthy, but if you have faith to receive it and get on (stay on) the path of repentance, through the Atonement of Jesus Christ, you can be forgiven, no matter the dollar amount. May we each strive to live and become more merciful to ourselves and others and not be unforgiving servants.

BIBLE 101.4 The law, ordinances, regulations, and covenants

by Edy MEREDITH

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Some Iron County Today readers have read many of my articles which have ranged from pioneer times to the growth of human civilization along with the use of resources like salt and yeast. In the article about yeast, I mentioned my granddaughter. Today I'll explain how she relates to the Law. From the time she was young she was a ballet dancer until about 4 years ago when she made an abrupt turn and decided to become a lawyer. She completed her undergraduate degree online. She then studied for the LSAT, passed it among the top 3%, received many scholarship offers at top universities for full tuition. She was ready to go to the law school of her choice in September 2020 and then the Great and Scary Virus occurred, delaying her plans to study Entertainment Law. Many other young people have also had to put their plans on hold.

We, however, do not have to wait and will now study Biblical law and recognize first that it is sacred writing that outlines God's commands (binding agreements) with His covenant people. A covenant is a contract or agreement between 2 or more individuals. It can also be a one-way agreement with only one person making promises toward another or a dual agreement with requirements for all parties. Biblical law comes in several forms: 1) Moral Law about how to live for all people in all times; 2) Ceremonial Law about the tabernacle and Jerusalem temple for the Israelites; 3) Civil or Judicial law that governs, preserves, and protects society.

It is important to note that the law was given through Moses after God redeemed and brought the Israelites out of Egypt, showing grace to the people He had chosen. Although the law was designed to be used by governing authorities, individuals were expected to obey the Biblical law which is found in the books of Leviticus, parts of Exodus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy. Consequently, a person cannot take the law into his or her own hands to make decisions and take actions against another party or parties. Although self-defense is recognized, the Judicial system must be respected and utilized.

There are some law school professors that contend that our current law has no relationship whatsoever to the Biblical law or that the Biblical law was copied from other ancient codes. For more understanding, please go to Wikipedia: List of Ancient Legal Codes in chronological order. While there are similarities, the differences are much more significant as follows:

» Sanctity of human life: The Code of Hammurabi (H) for example represents a lower view of human life. In H's code a thief could be executed if unable to pay back ten to thirty-fold what was taken.

» H's code favored the free and wealthy and not the oppressed.

» Justice: much of H's code is eminently unjust.

» Mercy: it is rare in H's code but regularly appears in the law presented by Moses from God.

» Focus: The vast majority of H's code focuses on money, property, and business transactions while in God's Biblical Law the moral laws of loving and honoring God and humanity's relationship to God are strongly emphasized as Moses presents the Biblical Law.

H's code represents man's best effort at justice, but it is largely affected by Hammurabi's self-promotion and self-interest while the Law which comes from the true God in the Bible is inspired and reflects God's just and unchanging nature. H's law has more in common with Draco of the 7th century BCE/BC in Athens from which we get the word draconian which describes laws that are harsh and repressive.

Next week, we will explore the content of the Biblical law and the use of the Ten Commandments in American courts. Please return to understand how we all benefit from Biblical law even today, and please share these articles with friends and family. Looking forward to next week.

Lantern Festival brings light and laughter

by Shay BARUFFI
IRON COUNTY TODAY

Cedar City presented their second annual movie and lantern festival at The Lake at the Hills last weekend. The event was sponsored by Mountain Lighting and Design. Candle lit paper lanterns were given to visitors, who were then instructed to let the lantern go on the water while making a wish. The beautiful glowing lanterns on the lake were a spectacular sight.

The previous year, attendees watched Tangled and were able to color the lanterns, this year due to restrictions, the evening was wonderfully planned to keep everyone socially distanced. After the lantern lighting ceremony families gathered in their spaces to watch Kung Fu Panda.

AS PART OF THIS UNIQUE FESTIVAL, paper lanterns are created and launched along with the person making a wish in the process.

OBITUARIES

Phyllip Gillespie

Behind a million smiles, you can hide your darkest pain.

Phyllip Paul Gillespie, age 42, passed away the night of August 25, 2020. A blond hair, blue-eyed, little firecracker was born on the 4th of July 1978 to Bonnie Reese and Glen Gillespie in St. George, Utah. Phyl was raised together with his only brother Robby in Enoch and Paragonah.

Phyl married Nichole Syndergaard and had 3 children Morrigan Kelly, Peter Thomas, and Rianna Mackynzie; they later divorced. In June 2012 he met the absolute love of his life Candy Judd and after a 5-year courtship, they married July 24, 2017, and joined families with Candy's children Elena, Morgan, and Rene. They began building a beautiful life together in Paragonah, Utah.

Phyl attended Southwest Applied Technology in 2001 where he became an electrician and used that knowledge for years to help family members and friends with some home improvements. He was currently employed at Robison Rental where he enjoyed working with his uncle Larry and family and was learning small engine mechanics. He was a great asset to a small family business and will be greatly missed.

Phyl had a passion for knives and had quite the collection that he was proud to share with everyone and you could see the excitement in his eyes as he talked about them and making sure they were always in perfect condition and sharp. Another passion he had was for plants, rocks, and anything outdoors which included fishing, camping, and hiking. He learned to love fishing from his Grandpa Paul. He was the happiest when he was out in nature whether that was in his yard or up the mountains hiking; he found it to be healing. He would be considered a child of nature.

Phyl was a philosopher and was known for his deep, very deep conversations and love for knowledge, especially science. This passion for knowledge started at a young age. In high school, some of his friends called him "Phyl Nye The Science Guy." In his spare time, he would research to further his knowledge and for entertainment. If you ever needed information on a specific topic, he was the person to go talk with and you would leave having a greater understanding or be completely confused due to his in-depth knowledge. He never did things partially; it was researched, planned, and then put to work. He was a very hard worker whether at his job or in his home and yard.

Phyl also spent a great deal of time in the yard gardening and was excited for the yard and home he was creating with Candy. They would walk the yard together every night holding hands while looking and admiring each new leaf on the plants knowing they were successful. Then kneeling together, Phyl would go into depth on the knowledge he had on each plant, tree, or bush. They were dreaming of the self-sufficient garden and yard they would create together. For day-dates they would go mushroom hunting in the mountains being excited to see what they could find and create back at home in the kitchen. This was a great passion for them both.

Phyl is survived by his Wife Candy Judd Gillespie, Paragonah; children, Morrigan (Aaron), Cedar City, Peter (Courtney), Cedar City, Rianna, Cedar City, Elena, West Valley City, Morgan, Cheyenne WY, Rene, Cheyenne WY. Parents, Bonnie Reese, Paragonah, Glen Gillespie, Price, Brother Robby (Kenzie) Brown, Paragonah; Grandchildren Annika and Roman, Grandmother Audria Elmore, Grandfather Roger Reese, Nieces, Nephew, Aunts, Uncles, and Cousins. He is preceded in death by Grandparents, Paul Elmore, Phyllis Chase, Charles Chase, Darryl Gillespie, Nita LaRue Stewart, Aunt Nina Kunz, Uncles Allen, and Andy Reese.

It is never goodbye; it's only we will see you later. For we will forever have you in a tender spot in our hearts.

Collins Benson Mitchell

Collins Benson Mitchell, 89, passed away peacefully in the afternoon of August 25, 2020, in Cedar City, Utah.

Collins was born January 5, 1931, in Parowan, Utah, the oldest of three sons born to Ralph Orton and Lorna Benson Mitchell. He was the first child born in Iron County that year.

He graduated from Parowan High School in 1949 and also attended the University of Utah and BYU where he earned an Associate's degree in finance.

He married Luna Diane Smith on October 30, 1953, a marriage that lasted 60 years until Diane's passing in November of 2013. They were blessed with 5 children and their marriage was later solemnized in the St. George, Utah LDS Temple.

Collins spent his younger days growing up in Parowan and working at the family sawmill near Brian Head. He had a never-ending supply of stories to tell of his days on the mountain working with his father and many relatives at the sawmill as well as his time with all his family in Parowan and the many adventures they shared.

He was drafted into the United States Army and served in the Korean Conflict in a mortar company. He never spoke much about his time in Korea other than to say that the people he served with were "the best bunch of guys I ever knew." While serving he reached the rank of Sergeant First Class and was honorably discharged. After returning home he married and worked construction and spent some time employed by a few different financial institutions.

Realizing he wanted a better and more stable employment for his growing family, he applied for both the US Postal Service and the Utah Highway Patrol at the same time. He was offered both jobs but decided to become a trooper with the Highway Patrol. Shortly after, he was transferred to Weber County so the family moved and spent a few years living in the Ogden and Roy areas. In 1965 Collins was transferred back to Cedar City where he worked in the communications center and continued to do so until 1979 when he transferred to St. George to finish his career at the Utah/Arizona Port of Entry, retiring from the Highway Patrol in 1983.

LADY REDS HOLD ON, EDGE MUSTANGS

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

After starting Region 9 play with 1-0 scores in back-to-back games, it was a welcome sight for Cedar head coach Scott Kamachi when the Lady

Reds had two goals on the board in the first 15 minutes of its home match Aug. 27.

When all was said and done, the jolt of added offense proved to be enough for a victory.

Jacey Messer and Sydney Craft scored early, and the Cedar defense survived a late goal and held on for a 2-1 win over Crimson Cliffs on a warm, windy afternoon. The Lady Reds improved to 2-1 in Region 9 (3-2 overall), maintaining the two-goal lead through most of the match.

When Kelci Oldroyd was moved to the midfield and Logann Laws replaced her in goal, the Mustangs (1-2 region) got their lone tally with just over three minutes left on a goal from Jantzyn Losee.

“The poor girl loves playing on the field. Always has,” Kamachi said of Oldroyd. “We got caught flat, they got a ball over the top and beat both of our defenders. Luckily, it happened late.”

LADY REDS FRESHMAN RYLAN TEBBS CLEARS THE BALL and sends it downfield to a waiting teammate.

“We possessed the ball so much better in the first half than we did in the second. It’s part of how our field is set up. Sometimes you think the wind will help, but it doesn’t always do that.”

Messer got the scoring started in the eighth minute when she booted a shot from 15 yards out that beat Mustangs keeper Ellie Nielsen to the top left corner, then Craft came through with a low shot six minutes later that settled inside the right post for a 2-0 lead.

“It helped to get the goal and get ahead a little bit, get more energy under our belts,” Messer said.

Cedar started the week with a 1-0 loss on the road at Dixie on Aug. 25. Hali’a Pelton scored the only goal for the Flyers in the second half and Katie Mills earned the clean sheet.

The Lady Reds traveled to Canyon View for the first of two rivalry meetings Tuesday that was too late for press deadline. They will play next at Hurricane on Thursday for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Falcons fly past Wolves behind Garrett

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Practice may not always make perfect, but that could be debated among those who watched the performance of Canyon View quarterback Jake Garrett on Aug. 28 against Enterprise.

Garrett carved up the Enterprise defense for five touchdown passes – all in the first half – as the Falcons beat the Wolves, 41-6 to complete its non-region schedule at 3-0 for just the second time in school history.

Senior Tyler Maine was a frequent target of Garrett as he caught three touchdowns.

“We’ve been looking forward to this all through high school,” Maine said. “We’ve struggled in the past, but it’s a new year. It’s a lot of fun already. Jake’s getting more varsity time now and he’s really starting to develop, understand his position.”

The visiting Wolves (1-2) took the opening kickoff and drove 85 yards in nine plays, capped off by a 1-yard run from quarterback Tyler Hiatt. The drive was highlighted by a 59-yard run on third down from Braxton Messersmith that put Enterprise in business at the CV 20.

Once Garrett started getting the ball to Maine, the Falcons responded, going on an 80-yard drive finished off with a 13-yard touchdown pass. Unofficially, the sophomore was 19-of-21 for 245 yards in the opening 24 minutes.

“He’s always had the ability to throw the ball well,” Canyon View head coach Chris Sawyers said of Garrett. “Did I think he was going to go 18-for-21? No, but we helped him out with a great game plan, a lot of short passes that allowed our guys to make runs after the catch. We also have the deepest group of receivers we’ve had in school history.”

The Falcon defense got an interception from Brayden Floyd to put them in business again, and Garrett’s second scoring connection with Maine covered 1 yard on third down that made it 14-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Even after he was forced to the sidelines for a play following a blind-side sack from the Enterprise pass rush, Garrett wasn’t deterred. He found Kody Callister in the back of the end zone, who made a diving catch on a 25-yard touchdown that put the score at 20-6 with 8 minutes, 16 seconds left in the half.

When the CV defense forced a fumble and got the ball back near midfield, the offense – more specifically Garrett and Maine – completed the surge and turned the game into a rout. Maine’s final connection with Garrett covered 8 yards with 42 seconds left, and CV took a 34-6 lead to the halftime break.

With Garrett able to rest on the sidelines for most of the fourth quarter, Gunnar Hatch got in on the offensive party with a 13-yard run that finished the scoring with 8:28 to play in the game.

About the only issue CV had was with 20 penalties issued against them, including two 15-yard calls on one third-quarter drive that put Enterprise in business, but Matthew Ramos would miss a 37-yard field goal.

Reds back on track, rout Warriors

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Jaron Garrett threw four touchdown passes and ran for another score as the Cedar Reds started fast in the first half and didn't let up on the way to a 51-19 road romp over the Taylorsville Warriors on Aug. 28 to finish its pre-region schedule with a 2-1 record.

Garrett connected with Jack Cook on two first-quarter scores – from 6 and 63 yards – sandwiched between a 20-yard touchdown run by Seth Brinkerhoff, and Braxtan Torres returned an interception 25 yards for a score as Cedar built a 27-0 lead.

The momentum continued in the second quarter as Edgar Hernandez hit a 32-yard field goal and Garrett added a 1-yard run for a 37-0 Reds lead. Taylorsville got on the board with 4 minutes, 49 seconds to play in the first half on a 24-yard touchdown run, but Garrett connected with Trey Payne for another 1-yard TD as Cedar led 44-7 at the half.

The Reds would finish their scoring early in the final quarter when Garrett threw a 27-yard touchdown pass to Torres. Wolfgramm threw two late scoring passes of his own for Taylorsville to complete the output on offense.

Cedar begins its Region 9 play Friday with a road game at Crimson Cliffs, with kickoff at 7 p.m.

Parowan picked up its first win for new head coach Ryan Heath as they used a big first half to shut out Layton Christian, 35-0. Hutch Miller threw four touchdown passes and the Rams did the bulk of the scoring by halftime, taking a 28-0 lead before cruising to the win.

Parowan will open 2A South play and start its home schedule Friday against Enterprise in a 7 p.m. kickoff.

Late goal costly in Falcons soccer loss

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

With time ticking down, Hurricane's Kendie Postma launched a shot that floated toward Canyon View goalie Aspen Bergener. Bergener had her hands ready to make the save.

It didn't work out that way as Postma's shot bounced off Bergener's hands and into the net for the only goal of the game in the 70th minute as the Tigers beat the Falcons, 1-0 on Aug. 25. Canyon View suffered its first loss of the season, and head coach Steve Newman said one misplay wasn't the reason.

"The defense needs to be better at standing in front of players and our midfield wasn't very good at controlling the ball," he said. "If you can't control the ball, it's not the goalie's fault."

CV had control of the play through most of the first 40 minutes, but missed two golden chances at putting the ball in a wide-open net toward the end of the half as the game remained scoreless.

"I've never seen a game where you miss two open

JR ROBINSON

WITH SOME DIFFICULT MOMENTS ON OFFENSE AND DEFENSE, plus a late go-ahead goal, the Falcons couldn't tame the Tigers from Hurricane.

goals," Newman said. "Everyone's too good in this region and if you can't take advantage of your scoring opportunities, you're not going to win."

It was the first shutout suffered by the Falcons on the season.

On Aug. 27, the CV offense found a groove early, but saw Pine View rally to wipe out a 2-0 deficit and beat the Falcons, 4-2, to earn its first Region 9 win (1-2). Addie Newman and Brylee Bergener scored in the first half for Canyon View (1-2 region, 3-2 overall), but the host Panthers rallied into a 2-2 tie at the break on goals from Emma Lloyd and Emmy Eide.

Cierra Barber broke the tie with a goal early in the second half and Mairan McLellan converted a header off a corner kick with less than 20 minutes left for the insurance goal that helped secure the victory.

The Falcons returned home to face Cedar on Tuesday in a game that was too late for press deadline. They will play at Crimson Cliffs on Thursday in a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Falcons starting to make serious noise

It's only happened one other time, but the Canyon View Falcons left no doubt they would create a second team in school history to start a football season with a 3-0 record.

Even after the visiting Enterprise Wolves used an 85-yard opening drive to score the game's first touchdown, CV had an immediate answer and poured it on from there, winning 41-6 on Aug. 28 and staying unbeaten heading into Friday's showdown at Snow Canyon. Both teams are among five in all of 4A who have that distinction after three weeks.

The only other time we've seen a CV team achieve these 3-0 heights was in 2015. That Falcons team beat Beaver, Emery and Cedar while scoring 139 points.

This year's team has 142 through three games. It's impressive, but the what it takes and have more maturity to go with the offensive system to back them.

With a chance to assert itself out of the gate in the region race, it won't be terribly shocking if the Falcons can find a way to beat the Warriors. Winning the mental battles will mean just as much as the physical ones for a chance at success.

—Some good news worth sharing here: the PRCA rodeo will be happening at the Iron County Fair this weekend — a Saturday night program that starts at 7 p.m. and wrapping up with a Labor Day show at 2 p.m.

Normally this is the point of the season where we talk about how the standings look in the race for the top 15 and spots at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo. It hasn't changed.

Heading into this weekend, defending all-around champion Stetson Wright is third in the money standings with $57,878, trailing 2017 champ Tuf Cooper by almost $30,000. Ryder Wright, the 2018 saddle bronc world champion, is second in the standings with $100,680, trailing Wyatt Casper of Texas by just over $43,000.

But here's where the bad news starts kicking in.

In an Aug. 19 press release, the PRCA stated "There is no question. The 2020 PRORODEO world champions will be crowned."

The problem is figuring out the status of the WNFR, which is normally held at Thomas & Mack Center in Las Vegas every December.

As of this moment, the PRCA said, "An event with fans isn't feasible." An option for running the NFR without fans in Las Vegas is being explored, but other options are also on the table, including moving the event to a different city for this year only so fans can attend and postseason honors can be distributed. A final decision is expected by Sept. 30.

Whatever is decided, it will only add to a year that will go down in history books as one of the strangest, most chaotic on record.

real work is about to begin.

Snow Canyon has been tabbed as a favorite to be on top when all is said and done in Region 9 play, but we can't assume the Warriors will be automatic favorites when they face the Falcons this week.

After beating Cyprus handily in its opener, Snow Canyon fell behind early against 3A power Morgan. They scored all of their points in the second quarter with the help of three Landon Frei touchdown passes in a 24-13 win over the Trojans.

Here's where things could get interesting. The last time CV and Snow Canyon met in St. George in 2018, the Falcons were a win away from clinching a spot in the 4A state playoffs. They allowed 28 points to the Warriors in the second quarter, but fell one fourth-down incompletion short in a 31-25 loss.

Canyon View didn't allow the home team a point in the second half. Sophomores who were on that year's team like Kody Callison, Brayden Floyd, Gunner Hatch and Kyson Parker have double the experience now. They know
