Red Alert Restart raises awareness of economic crisis

by Shay BARUFFI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

We are well aware by now that most live events across the nation have been completely immobilized due to the current pandemic. The success of the live-event industry is based on large gatherings and was one of the first industries to be locked down in March of 2020. It will likely be one of the last to also make a reappearance.

The live-event industry in North America employs over 12 million people and includes thousands of businesses with an overall economic impact of over $1 trillion, according to WeMakeEvents.org. Since March of 2020, thousands of events have been cancelled. Within our own community, the Utah Shakespeare Festival and Utah Summer Games were cancelled due to COVID and this has had a significant negative impact on several businesses and livelihoods.

According to WeMakeEvents.org, “77% of the people in the industry have lost all of their income, 96% of companies have cut staff, 97% of 1099 workers have lost their jobs. Businesses are failing due to a lack of income and economic pressure and the supply chain has been devastated under the weight of cancellations and unknown futures.”

That’s where the RESTART Act comes into play. Currently moving through congress, this bill seeks to help provide economic relief for those live-event businesses and employees impacted financially by this epidemic.

In order to raise awareness and gain support for this bill, a widespread event was organized by WeMakeEvents.org. Cedar City’s own Southern Utah Museum of Art, Utah Shakespeare Festival, the Cedar City Visitors Center and Southern Utah University participated by lighting up their buildings in red. Over 60 cities in America also participated to help raise awareness about the economic crisis facing the live-event industry.

Suspect arrested in fatal hit and run

from Sgt. Clint POLLOCK

CEDAR CITY POLICE DEPARTMENT

On September 7, 2020, Cedar Communications received a 911 call regarding a pedestrian that was hit in the Home Depot parking lot and the vehicle fled the scene.

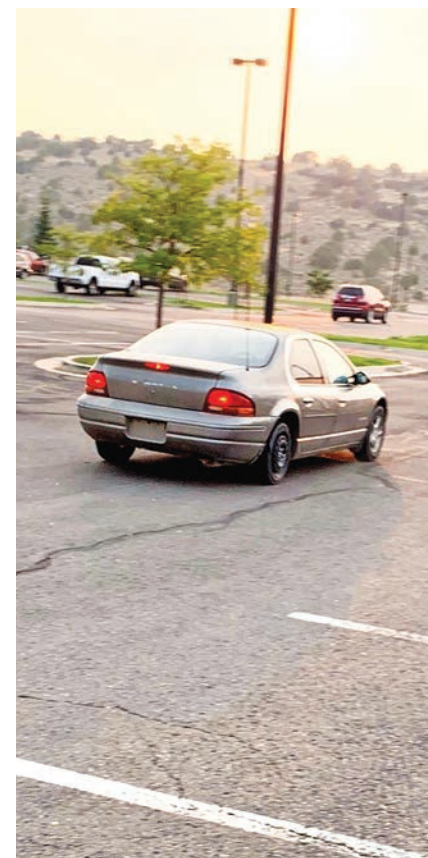

Officers arrived on scene and provided medical help to the victim before EMS arrived. The victim was transported to the Cedar City Hospital where he succumbed to his injuries. The victim is a 37-year-old male and a Cedar City resident. His identity will not be released until family notifications are made.

The suspect was driving a gray/silver older model Dodge Stratus, with no license plates, and the passenger rear tire is either a spare tire or missing the hubcap.

On September 8, 2020, the vehicle was reported by a citizen as abandoned just West of Cedar City on a dirt road hidden behind a tree. Investigators gathered evidence and information from witnesses and the vehicle that led to the identity of the suspect, 25-year-old Jacob Schmidt, a Cedar City resident.

On September 9, 2020, Jacob was taken into custody during a traffic stop. Jacob was booked in the Iron County Jail and charged with Murder, a first-degree felony.

HOMICIDE SUSPECT IN CUSTODY AFTER PURSUIT

from Sgt. Clint POLLOCK

CEDAR CITY POLICE DEPARTMENT

On July 31, 2020, the Cedar City Police Department was dispatched to the area of the 500 South block of Cedarwood Terrace, regarding a welfare check on a 73-year-old woman, Kay Gosewisch, who hadn't been seen in several months.

On August 18, 2020, the Cedar City Police Department received a call regarding suspicious activity involving Mrs. Gosewisch's bank account. Her son, Joshua James Glover, a 32-year-old male, was attempting to withdraw several thousand dollars from her account. It was also reported that he had used the account numerous times. Officers went back to the home and observed Mrs. Gosewisch's vehicle in the driveway, but no one would answer the door. Contact was made with neighbors and they were told that Mrs. Gosewisch was possibly in Washington state or Nevada tending to a family member.

Since that time, Cedar City Police Investigations division has followed up on the suspicious information and found that Joshua James Glover had been using her bank account since April.

Investigators worked with the Iron County Attorney's Office to draft a search warrant for the property. During the search of the property, investigators located buried human remains believed to be Kay Gosewisch. The human remains were sent to the state medical examiner's office for identification and cause of death.

On September 5, 2020, at approximately 10:35 a.m., Cedar Communications received a phone call regarding Joshua Glover being observed at Smith's Grocery store in Cedar City. The witness reported Glover was leaving in a white car. Officers arrived and viewed Joshua leaving in a white four door sedan. An officer conducted a high-risk traffic stop on the vehicle and started giving commands for Joshua to exit the vehicle.

JOSHUA GLOVER

After a short pause, Joshua put the vehicle in gear and sped off at a high rate of speed. Officers pursued Joshua through the East side of town at high rates of speed. Joshua crashed into a police vehicle on Highland Drive. The crash resulted in his vehicle being disabled. Joshua fled on foot behind a residence where officers pursued and took him into custody.

Joshua was booked in the Iron County Jail on the following charges:

Felony evading, reckless driving, resisting/interfering with arrest, no proof of insurance, possession of a firearm by a restricted person, possession of controlled substances, and his warrants for possession of a firearm by a restricted person, possession of controlled substances and possession of stolen credit cards.

The homicide investigation is still ongoing, and charges may be forthcoming. The Cedar City Police Department would like to thank all of those that provided us with tips in this case.

To the Editor

Stand for U.S. now or lose it

19 years ago, America promised to never forget, yet today, the New York City Police Department finds itself being at least partially defunded while the city is under siege by anarchists. The Minneapolis Police Department has been completely defunded. And communist rioters continue to occupy the streets of many other Democrat Party-run cities, burning and looting in an internal rebellion that in some ways comes close to the shock and horror of 9/11 and is tearing this country apart.

America is the greatest country in world history, and just as we refused to be intimidated by al Qaeda, today we need to stand up and have the same resolve against the Antifa rebellion. But if we fail to stand united against lawlessness and political violence, the idea of America may fall. We are a nation conceived in liberty, where all are created equal with certain unalienable rights. On this day, I encourage every American to read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, which in 272 words, encapsulates the sacrifice, the vision and the reason that was needed to preserve the Union. Keeping America great is not just a slogan, it's what each of us must commit ourselves to, lest we lose not only our freedom but the shining city on the hill that every human longs to emulate.

Rick Manning, President, Americans for Limited Government

PC Paranoia

Few would dispute that the concept of "political correctness" has gotten completely out of hand. When it first reared its ugly head it was not, by and large, taken seriously by the average individual and provided humorous material for late-night comedians and others of that ilk. Now it has morphed into an insidious poison that is infecting this nation at virtually every level of society. Academia is soaked in it, commerce is adversely influenced by it, Hollywood is completely immersed in it, politicians use it as leverage against their opponents and even the military is forced to waste time and resources on it, severely affecting its warfighting capabilities.

From Pepsi-Cola to a plethora of public and private enterprises, "political correctness" permeates every pore. One of its most ridiculous and ominous manifestations has recently surfaced at Sandia Laboratories. First established in 1947 under the National Security Administration, Sandia Laboratories consists of three primary facilities along with at least seven other subordinate installations. Sandia and its satellites are the most secret and vital entities in the United States and are responsible for development and testing of the national nuclear arsenal.

They are also engaged in a wide range of highly technical, scientific and downright weird projects including everything from self-guided "smart" bullets to mind boggling programs in interplanetary and interdimensional research. Recently, it was revealed by one Chris Rufo, an investigative journalist for "City Journal," that Sandia personnel were forced to attend a three day "seminar" (at taxpayers' expense of course) in La Posada.

High level secret conference? Hardly. The largely unwilling audience was subjected to something called "Critical Race Theory." The most outrageous and odious aspects of this "reeducation camp" were conducted in the classic communist style of indoctrination; the culmination of which was that the attendees were ordered to "confess their sins" and write letters of "apology" to blacks and women in order to "deconstruct white social culture" by breaking down "white male identity." It should be noted that Sandia's personnel are among the most brilliant and talented minds in the country, so much so that salaries can reach $2,000,000 or more.

As absurd as the present Director's (James S. Peery) airy-fairy attempts at social engineering, the possible compromise and outright theft of secrets (which has occurred at least a few times thus far) of CNWDI (Critical Nuclear Weapons Design Information) is the stuff of nightmares.

There have been some attempts by Special Forces types to penetrate the supposedly "airtight security" at Sandia. Although details remain highly classified and somewhat murky, the attempts were successful and, for the most part, not all that difficult to accomplish. So, what does this mean other than another laughable manifestation of "political correctness?" Consider the instability of too many "social justice" groups; Antifa, Black Lives Matters, Muslim jihadists. What horrors could be unleashed if some of these anti-social, anti-American groups, managed by stealth, infiltration, computer hacking or other such means, penetrate any of these highly sensitive installations and steal their secrets?

OPINION

Who wants to be a millionaire?

The opinions stated in this article are solely those of the author and not of Iron County Today.

Cyclops

by Bryan GRAY
COLUMNIST

In 2009, a 23-year old cowboy, homeless and living with his parents in an aged camper since being evicted from their house, bought a Powerball ticket...and he won more than $231 million. He opted for a one-time lump-sum payment ($88.5 million) and with the proceeds purchased a 50,000-acre ranch on a windy, cold South Dakota plain. He now has the ranch and its four houses on the market for $41 million.

The winner, who is relocating to the balmy Arizona climate, adjusted well to his instant millions, but not everyone does. In 2002, for instance, a West Virginia contractor who was already a millionaire won $315 million after buying a $1 ticket and a bacon biscuit at a convenience store. His lump-sum was a heady $113 million, much of it squandered within 10 years.

A wealthy friend of mine understands. "It's easier to make money than to keep it," he said. But unless you are a complete imbecile, I cannot fathom how any man or woman could plow through a mega-millions check.

What would you do if, like the cowboy, you were presented with $88.5 million and a whole group of new friends? This is what I would do.

In the first place, I'd pay the taxes on the $88.5 million. That still gives me $51.3 million; I wouldn't have to worry if my Social Security check was late in posting.

My wife and I would give three of our grown children $500,000 each, enough to purchase or pay off the mortgage on their existing homes. The fourth child would be more ($1 million) since she lives in a high-income city where $500,000 buys you a shack in need of repair. I would also give my son's girlfriend $300,000 to pay off her student loans. Granted, I could give more, but I don't want to give them an excuse for not pursuing their careers.

I would give $750,000 each to two charities (Utah Food Bank and St. Jude's Children's Cancer Hospital) which have been punished by the pandemic. My wife would convince me to purchase a $1 million bungalow in Salt Lake's Avenues district – as we get older we might have a more difficult time climbing stairs – and her $3 million dream of a tiny, but charming brownstone on New York's Upper West Side.

With $43.2 million remaining from my winnings, I might splurge on two new luxury automobiles ($100,000 total), and make a political donation ($500,000), and contribute $1 million to my wife's favorite arts organization seeking a roof for its amphitheater. Take another $500,000 for incidentals – a good bottle of celebratory beverage, a few filet mignon dinners at Ruth's Chris Steakhouse and new furniture for our two new homes – and I still have some $41 million remaining.

My financial advisor, Scott Cheshire, might recommend I invest the rest in a very low-risk municipal bond fund, giving me tax-free income equivalent to more than $85,000 each month without ever touching the principal.

I don't know how you would spend your Powerball winnings, but I suspect you could comfortably live on $85,000 per month. If not, I advise you to seek financial counseling.

Again, I am perplexed at those lottery winners who end up broke. Even a few stupid decisions would only put a nick in your bank account. If a 23-year old cowboy and a 72-year old columnist can figure it out, anyone can.

From the Editor

I want to be one

In response to this week's "Cyclops"...yes, I want to be a millionaire. I also think it would be a worthy experiment, perhaps even a litmus test, of what I would do with millions. The first part of the plan that comes to my mind (and heart) that makes sense is to invest it. First, I would invest in myself. I would get completely out of debt and to find a home of my own. Then, with stronger, more stable foundations in my life, I will be able to invest the rest more wisely into supporting, stabilizing and funding the foundations of others.

Cyclops shares many ways he and his "winnings" would part ways. He talks about investing in his wife, their children and charities. He also discusses distributing the wealth into cars, homes and celebrating. Even with my two eyes, I cannot rightly judge his one eye.

However, as for me and my house and heart, without having a home with a wife and children of my own (yet), I would seek to invest in this community, my home. I would support current places/businesses and create additional ones where children can go to experience good things in life and discover their talents and share them with the world. I would create places of refuge and relief for single mothers (and fathers) to get the support they need so they can have a better life.

I know good and great people who need better housing and healthcare. I know those who have experienced and who are experiencing homelessness, who feel they can no longer contribute to society. I disagree. Whether I have one dollar or millions, I will still believe in the value and goodness of people, even if they don't see it in themselves, yet.

With a little more assistance, confidence and education, there are people right now lost, stuck in the shadows, valleys, alleys, gutters and prisons who can help change our community and this world for the better.

No, it shouldn't have to take money and millionaires to change lives for the better, but if/when it happens, I (we) will do all I can with all of it, for all of us.

How about you? I'm curious what you would do with a million dollars. Let me know. news@ironcountytoday.com.

Rotary Club donates 1,100 dictionaries to local 3rd Graders

from Tessa DOUGLAS

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Cedar City Rotary Club purchased and donated 1,100 dictionaries to third graders in Iron, Beaver, and Garfield counties as one of their ongoing annual projects.

Each fall the Cedar City Rotary club meets together to label the inside of each dictionary with the Rotary Four Way Test, which asks the reader to evaluate their thoughts and actions by the criteria of: (1) Is it the truth? (2) Is it fair to all club donates the books. Covid-19 prevented Rotary members from taking the dictionaries to the schools this year, so the districts will distribute them instead.

Caroline Brown, a Cedar City Rotarian who has participated in the dictionary project for several years, said "I love taking the dictionaries to the third-grade students each year. It is fun to talk about what the Rotary Club in Cedar City does and to give them a brief introduction to using a dictionary. I'm sad that we don't get to deliver them in person in 2020, but I'm happy that the students will still have the dictionaries to use in their classes and at home this year!"

Tessa Douglas, another Cedar City Rotarian, said "This is such a great service opportunity to be a part of. Last year was the first time I took the dictionaries to one of our local schools, and it was so neat to go into the classrooms and teach the kids how to use the dictionaries. You can see it on their faces when it clicks, and it is just so fun to be a part of."

Rotary brings together a global network of volunteer leaders dedicated to tackling the world's most pressing humanitarian challenges. They connect 1.2 million members from more than 35,000 Rotary clubs in almost every country in the world. Together, they work together to promote peace, fight disease, and to provide clean water, sanitation and hygiene. They also work to support education and grow local economies. # SUU Celebrates grand opening of the Sorenson Legacy Foundation Center for Hope

by Shay BARUFFI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Kathy Wyatt, Steering Committee Chair and SUU First Lady, began the ceremonies for the Sorenson Legacy Foundation Center for Hope; an on campus childcare center which presents student parents the option for childcare while they attend university courses. Traditional childcare can range anywhere from $600-$800 per month, explained Kathy Wyatt, which is unaffordable to many parents attempting to further their education. Therefore, presenting the need for this on campus childcare opportunity.

Alayna Johnson, SUU Alumna, personifies the population served by the childcare center. Johnson graduated in 2017 with a bachelor's degree in accounting, she began her degree at 38 years old, as a single mother of three children, pregnant with her fourth. "Daycare was $550 per month and as soon as my daughter was born, she came to class with me. I needed help with childcare and none was available. I was not alone in this need, many of my classmates brought their children with them as well," Shared Alayna.

Although the road was rough, she made it through, many of her other classmates didn't. Alayna continued, "I noticed many of my fellow non-traditional students were not with me graduating. I daresay this childcare center can be the difference between success and failure for parents who are choosing to further their education. On behalf of myself and all non-traditional students, I would like to thank Kathy Wyatt for taking the baton and seeing this project through to the end."

Donna Law with Southern Utah University gave congratulatory wishes from the Emma Eccles Jones Foundation who funded the beautiful Emma Eccles Jones Preschool in the new childcare facility. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Foundation expressed their excitement to contribute to the lovely new resource available to children and families as well.

Gary and Ann Crocker with the Sorenson Legacy Foundation also expressed their appreciation for the Child and Family Development Center. "This project so beautifully integrates two major aspects of our foundation mission: enriching lives through education and early life instruction and care for children. My mother, Beverley Sorenson, was passionate about being able to bless the lives of children and particularly exposing them to early art instruction," said Ann Crocker. "She would've been so pleased today to see them in this setting. Gary Crocker also shared that. "This center really does reflect a realization of a shared vision of hope and is a tremendous reflection of the commitment of one of our founders, Beverly Sorenson. She was committed to arts education and I think she's here today. She believed in this mission."

Scott Wyatt, Southern Utah University President, gave the final remarks. He reminisced about his undergrad days and discussed the difficulties he experienced during those years. He stated it never occurred to him the barriers that affected others which, "exceeded mine by a factor of 1,000." Wyatt went on to explain, "This facility helps the university in three separate ways: Number 1, it is going to help us break the cycle of intergenerational poverty. Number 2, this center helps our students by employing 23 college students who need jobs. Number 3, the facility helps the children who come in for childcare and education; the hope for the world."

After the lovely statements were made by the key members of this project, they moved on to reveal the temporary sign for the Sorenson Legacy Foundation Center for Hope. Alayna Johnson's daughter, Hope, was the inspiration for the name of the center and the sign was a beautiful surprise for Alayna, the poster child for the facility. Following several ribbon cuttings, visitors were able to tour the facility and COVID friendly snacks were available to feast upon.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENTS

Utah Shakespeare Festival holding storage sale

How much stuff, how many bits and pieces, odds and ends, and treasures can a theatre company accumulate in sixty years? The answer, without being precise: a lot.

The Utah Shakespeare Festival has storage units packed to the ceiling with thousands of items, from prop furniture to children's costumes, from event décor to seasonal décor. And they are cleaning out, organizing, and having a huge storage sale!

The public sale is scheduled for Saturday, September 26, from 9 a.m. to noon on Shakespeare Lane between 200 and 300 West, just south of the Beverley Center for the Arts and the Festival complex.

"We are very excited about this sale," said Donn Jersey, development and communication director. "The Festival has never had a sale of this size and scope; so, it will be fun to see the variety and the amount of items available—and to offer an enjoyable and safe community event during this summer and fall of canceled theatre."

The thousands of items on sale will include toys, children's costumes, housewares, lawn décor, seasonal décor, interior decorations, jewelry, Festival memorabilia (posters, keychains, programs, books, CDs, etc.), baskets, glassware, journals, clothing, cards, artwork, prop furniture, tassels and fabric trims, baskets, china, event décor, and lots more.

"And everything will be priced very inexpensive, even cheap," said Jersey. "Our goal is not to make a lot of money, but to clean out our storage and provide a fun community event at the same time."

Because of COVID-19, health restrictions will be maintained: masks are required, and social distancing is encouraged. "We hope everyone will be aware of others at this event and will help us keep it safe," said Jersey.

"Then, come and find the perfect item," he concluded, "gifts, Halloween costumes, décor for your home, souvenirs, and so much more. We can't wait to see you there."

Area Agency on Aging invites seniors to walk towards better heath

The Area Agency on Aging has scheduled a Walk with Ease class beginning on September 21st at 10:00 am Iron County Visitor's Center, back patio. This free class will allow seniors to share experiences and teach them how to safely make physical activity part of their everyday life.

No matter if you need relief from arthritis pain or just want to be active, the Arthritis Foundation's program will help you to develop a walking plan that will meet your needs, stay motivated, manage your pain, and learn to exercise safely. Walk With Ease is proven to reduce the pain and discomfort of arthritis, increase balance, strength and walking pace, build confidence in your ability to be physically active, and improve overall health. The six week Walk With Ease program includes a guidebook and a walking schedule to get you safely moving toward better health.

"Comprehensive studies demonstrate that Walk With Ease reduces pain, increases balance and strength and improves your overall health. The program will help motivate seniors to get in great shape and allow them to walk safely and comfortably," said Kristina Raner of the Area Agency on Aging, "well-being is at the forefront of what we're working together towards. Our programs and activities are designed to be a catalyst that helps seniors in our community reach their goals and fulfill their potential."

Walk With Ease group sessions meet three times per week for 6 weeks. Trained group exercise leaders begin each session with a pre-walk discussion covering a specified topic related to exercise and arthritis, followed by a 10- to 40-minute walk that includes a warm-up and a cool-down.

Cedar High invites all to Homecoming game, parade

Cedar High School is excited to invite the public to celebrate with them in their Homecoming 2020 activities this year. The football game, where the Homecoming Queen and King will be crowned, will be played on Friday, September 25 starting at 7:00pm at the SUU Coliseum against the Canyon View Falcons. SUU has cancelled their games this year and has invited the Reds to play on their field in their stead. This is a rare opportunity for the high school, and all are eager to step onto the field to add to the Homecoming celebration. With crosstown rivals playing on the college field it promises to be an exciting game.

Last year, CHS reintroduced their annual Homecoming Parade and are eager to keep the tradition going. Join us for the parade on Saturday, September 26 starting at 10:00am. The route (as detailed in the map) will begin at the SEA (near Cal-Ranch), will circle around the west side of the high school, and end at the parking lot near the baseball field (approximately 515 W 600 S).

The parade features many of the teams, clubs, and groups at CHS including, the entire football team, cheerleaders, band, FFA, Mohey, the Studio Reds theatre group, and the French Club among over two dozen others. Candy will be thrown, so be sure to bring bags for the kids! For both events, masks and social distancing are required. Please help keep our students and athletes healthy and able to participate in their schooling and activities by respecting this mandate.

COVID-19/Legislative Update

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

As we reflect on the terrorist attacks that shook our nation 19 years ago on September 11, 2001, may we remember the thousands of Americans who lost their lives, including many first responders who sacrificed their own lives to save others. Let us never forget that fateful September day – not in anger or vengeance – but with determination to protect and teach those values that have made and kept this nation great. Determination to see that we pass on to our children a place that is better and offers more freedom and opportunities than ours. Determination to live a life worthy of the greatness of this nation, handed to us through the sacrifices of others. May we never forget.

I saw a post with a picture that said, “To best honor the people we lost on 9/11, let us be the people we were on 9/12.” It was beautiful to see our country come together after 9/11, united in patriotism and a desire to preserve our freedoms and heritage. I would hope that we can also unite in the face of the many troubling things we face in the United States today and work together to find reasonable solutions looking back on the pattern than we ourselves established just 19 short years ago.

COVID Numbers and Statistics Update

On Friday, September 11, the Utah Department of Health reported 887,314 total COVID-19 tests administered, 56,675 total positive cases, 48,021 estimated recovered cases, 3,288 total hospitalizations, 123 current hospitalizations and 431 total fatalities. The Southwest Utah Public Health Department reported 3,808 total positive cases including 3,424 total recovered cases, 7 currently hospitalized and 29 total fatalities. Iron County has 691 cases and Washington County has 2,965 cases.

Yesterday, the state presented the Unified Response Scoreboard; a new data dashboard that shows how Utah will measure its progress toward public and economic health. The public health goal is to keep a case-fatality ratio of less than 1 percent. The economic recovery goal is to maintain or lower the unemployment rate of 4.5 percent between now and the end of the calendar year.

The Utah Health and Economic Recovery

(Hero) Project released their Phase-One findings after collecting data from 8,500 Utahns aged 12 and older from Davis, Salt Lake, Summit and Utah counties. The main findings from Phase-One of the study are included below.

An estimated .96 percent of the population has COVID-19 antibodies, meaning 1 in 100 residents showed evidence of prior infection.

For every case that was detected, approximately another 2.4 cases were not detected, suggesting that COVID-19 testing was comparatively comprehensive during the early months of the health crisis.

Roughly 30 percent of participants who had COVID-19 antibodies reported having a prior positive COVID-19 test, indicating more people have had COVID-19 infection than clinical diagnosis, contact tracing and screening indicate.

Utah's infection fatality rate was approximately .29 percent, and the case fatality rate was approximately 0 percent in Utah.

When one member of a household has antibodies, the proportion of other household members getting COVID-19 was 12.4 percent.

The above findings largely reflect infections that occurred up until the beginning of June.

This week, the Utah Department of Workforce Services began to send the Lost Wage Assistance payments to eligible claimants for the weeks of August 1, 8 and 15. Eligible claimants will receive an additional $300 for each of these weeks. Learn more about the Lost Wages Assistance program here.

Gov. Herbert issued an executive order declaring a State of Emergency due to the severe windstorm that passed through our state Monday night, September 7, and Tuesday morning, September 8.

Recently, 24/7 Wall Street ranked Utah as having the best economy in the nation. Our state is taking calculated steps to restart the economy and protect individuals' health while planning for an even stronger future.

Starting this week, it is the Legislature's September interim. Due to COVID-19 health concerns, the Legislature will continue to hold interim committee meetings electronically and will take public comments remotely. However, a new process for public comment has been set in place. Now, members of the public may join the electronic meeting without providing notice and watch committee meetings live.

I will be providing these COVID-19 updates from a legislative perspective weekly. I want to hear from you and get your feedback, thoughts and ideas on what's happening in our local communities. Please contact me anytime at evickers@le.utah.gov. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Evan Vickers, Utah State Senate

World Class Pawn renovates, to hold grand reopening

by Shay BARUFFI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

World Class Pawn has been in business in Cedar City, Utah since 1998. The shop has been in their current location since 2007. Michael Hill, owner of World Class Pawn, is from Blackfoot, Idaho. He has lived in Cedar City for 23 years. World Class Pawn also has four employees; Stephanie, Win, Ed and Hill's son, Greg. They have plenty of guns, musical instruments, jewelry, handbags, tools, electronics, videogames and so much more. Hill, the owner, says he is trying to bring in more items to interest a wider audience.

On July 14, 2020, a small electrical fire erupted in the back room of the shop. Although this was unfortunate, it gave them the opportunity to renovate their location. The revising and revamping of the location has been transpiring throughout the past months and they have a date for a grand reopening party. On September 19th, World Class Pawn will have a large customer appreciation sale. "The plan is to have a big party," expressed Hill. "We'll just have a great time with a bounce house and smoked hot dogs. We just want to see our customers we haven't seen in a while."

When asked, "What is the most interesting thing you've ever seen pawned?" Hill revealed an unexpected answer. "The most interesting thing I have ever seen pawned has been dental work; someone pawned a grill (teeth jewelry); which can totally be pawned because its gold. It's just kind of uncomfortable (gross) removing fillings from teeth and such." He added that, "The most popular thing in Cedar City are guns. I've seen many very cool and very old guns."

For more information you can visit their website at: www.world-classpawn.com. World Class Pawn is located at 1014 S Main St. Cedar City, Utah. They are open M-Sat 9:30 am to 6:00 pm. Be sure to attend their customer appreciation event on September 19th, 2020.

One brawl for it all!

by B.J. HAWKINS

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

For those of you who don't know, there is pro-wrestling in Southern Utah, aptly named Southern Utah Championship Wrestling. For those of you who DO know about SUCW, I hope for your sake you didn't miss last Saturday's event!

Let me start off by saying that I've been to every event SUCW has had from the very beginning. However, this event was different for a number of reasons. The first reason is because this event was standing room only! Second, there wasn't one, but 2 championships up for grabs! The first was the brand-new U.S. Championship.

Hoping to bring home the belt were three incredible athletes: 24 Karat, (The Man) Kenny Ka$h, and (my personal favorite) Vincent Black. It was utter chaos as each wrestler tried to gain the upper hand and, hopefully, be crowned champion. At one point in the match, it looked like Vincent Black would come away with the win as he smashed a guitar over 24 Karat's head, aka Honky Tonk Man, or Jeff Jarrett if you prefer. But, despite Vincent's and Karat's efforts, Kenny Ka$h proved why he's The Man by becoming the inaugural U.S. Champion of SUCW.

Judging by the crowd's reaction to the second match, it was their favorite. It was a tag team match between The Skywalkers vs. Black Diamond Brad Landen and his tag team partner, Princess Reyes. The Skywalkers lived up to their name with their high-risk, high-flying maneuvers. But it was by no means easy for The Skywalkers as Landen and Reyes had strength on their side. There were several close pinfalls on both sides, but with some help from a few kids in the crowd, The Skywalkers were able to walk away with a win.

The last match, and main event, of the night was Exotic Xanadu, Jr. vs. Heavyweight Champion, Urban Counselor. Xanadu earned his title shot last month by winning the Gold Rush Tournament. His opponent to be, Urban Counselor, had defeated previous champion, The Time Bomb Draco Alexander, nearly a year before to win the belt.

The match was stipulated best 2 out of 3 falls. Should the wrestlers tie, the third round would be a Cedar City Street Fight. This means weapons of all kinds are allowed to be used, without disqualification. To win the first fall, the wrestler who pinned his opponent would win that round. It seemed Xanadu wasn't confident in his ability to pin Urban Counselor, seeing as how Xanadu duct taped Urban Counselor to the announcement table hoping for a win by count-out. Urban Counselor was prepared for just such an eventuality, by concealing scissors in one of his wristbands, which he used to great effect, freeing himself just in time to make it back into the ring right before the 10 count. It was all for naught though as Xanadu pinned Urban Counselor.

The second round of the main event was a submission match. Whoever made their opponent tap out would win. Urban Counselor made quick work causing Xanadu to eventually tap out.

The last round of the main event was the most violent: The Cedar City Street Fight. There was a laundry list of weapons used: table, ladders, chair, mop, trash can, push broom and Legos. Yes, I said Legos. For most of the round, Urban Counselor had the upper hand. I almost felt bad for Xanadu. Almost.

Xanadu got his second wind though, doing his utmost to have his hand raised as the new SUCW Champion. But Xanadu's hopes were dashed to pieces as Urban Counselor pinned him for the 1-2-3.

What surprised me most (and I'm certain the fans as well) was after the match, when Kenny Ka$h savagely attacked both Urban Counselor and Exotic Xanadu, Jr. turning heel in the process. What does this mean for SUCW's event next month? I've no idea, but I'm looking forward to finding out, and I'm hoping you are, too. Join me, and the rest of the SUCW fans next month, to support Southern Utah as the championship of all pro-wrestling!

IT WAS URBAN TURMOIL AT THE RAMADA INN LAST SATURDAY. In the end it would be Urban Counselor who retained his World Championship title and belt by beating his rival, Exotic Xanadu, Jr.

COURTESY CELEBRATION X

Regional concert celebrates string music

by Sara PENNY

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

As part of a statewide series of concerts, string students will gather for a regional Celebration X on Saturday, Sept. 26, at 5 p.m. in the Heritage Center (105 North 100 East) in Cedar City. The concert is sponsored by the Suzuki Association of Utah and is part of a year-long celebration of music. You are invited to this free concert. No tickets are required, but facial coverings are required in keeping with the effort to keep everyone healthy.

Fourteen area teachers have prepared 50 students in music for violin, viola, and cello from around the world, as well as Suzuki repertoire pieces like the famous Minuet in G by Beethoven and the popular Hungarian Dance No. 5 by Brahms. Music by Bach, Mozart, and Paganini is also featured. Each instrument will also showcase a different country through music; America, Israel, England, Persia, Sweden, and Rhody Around the World are all on the program. Students range in age from preschool through high school. Four pianists are lending their talents to the concerts.

Dr. Keith Bradshaw has written an original composition to showcase these young musicians. The Takeda Lullaby allows every level of student to participate with an interesting musical challenge. This lovely piece uses all of the instruments as a grand finale. Dr. Bradshaw teaches at SUU and has composed over 100 pieces.

Amy Gold directs the Celebration X concert with a large team of helpers. These statewide concerts are modeled after performances begun in Japan in 1961 as a way to bring students together for an exciting musical experience. The Utah concerts started in 1989 and have been held at the State Capitol Building, Abravanel Hall, Huntsman Center, and the LDS Conference Center. As the numbers of students have expanded it was decided this year to have several regional concerts rather than the monster massed concert. As it turns out, that was a good plan given the health challenges of the times.

"The culmination of each SAU Celebration X Concert brings us together in victory, over the separation caused by the coronavirus and the uncertainty of the future. Our love for great music, and for each other, holds our hearts together. By developing and sharing our talents, we change the world we live into a happier, more positive, more beautiful place. Music is truly our "Passport to a Better World," said Ruth Godfrey, SAU President.

"Some days there won't be a song in your heart. [Play] anyway," wrote Emory Austin.

"Music is a joy every day. The beauty of what we do together makes the hard days of practice worth it. 2020 has brought the unexpected. We are here to play beautiful music anyway. For most of us, this is our first concert in many months. We are thrilled and love that we are here and can share this experience with you. May you continue to look for and share love and beauty each day. Thank you, Dr. Suzuki, for teaching us: "Where love is deep, much can be accomplished," said Gold.

Come and enjoy live music and help celebrate these young people's accomplishments. For more information on the concert, contact Gold at amygold0019@gmail.com.

It's just not the same

by Mary Anne ANDERSEN

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

I was hoping for something with an on-and-off button. Teaching at Southern Utah University has been one of the joys of my life here in Cedar City. As each fall semester approached, I was excited to read my new rosters, assemble my syllabi, order my textbook, buy new clothes. Our family of teachers all looked to this time of year with a sense of anticipation matching Christmas; we all had what we call our "back-to-school" dreams. And then things changed, maybe forever.

I can teach music and piano skills but mastering the technology to provide the required online communication has proven my downfall, I'm afraid. I went to the required training and didn't even have the vocabulary to ask questions. During the one-on-one training I arranged for, I mentioned the on-off-button thing and she laughed. I said, just show me the minimum I need to know about Canvas and Zoom and forget all the toots and whistles available to me should I want to try something fancy in the way of communication with those students who don't come to class. I practiced many times prior to the first day.

The first day was a blur of freshmen so excited to be there, crowding around to ask me questions. "Back off, don't breathe on me; let me follow my plan." I managed to log in and set things up: check the microphone, adjust the camera, start the recording.

"Don't sit down yet! We need to space you around the room for now." We talked about splitting the class in half, so that there would be adequate spacing among the 20 pianos in my electronic piano lab. Half of them, disappointed, were told to come back the next class day. I assigned seats, so that I could tell at a glance who might be absent each day. "You really need to come to this class in person, but DON'T come if you feel sick!"

I began with my usual opening line: "The reason you are here is because you wouldn't practice when your Mom told you to." That usually gets a few knowing chuckles, but how could I tell? I couldn't see their faces for their masks. And speaking of masks, how will I ever learn their names if I can't see them?

Moving on, we looked at the pianos themselves, but I had to first give a rather specific demonstration of how to clean the keyboards and headsets before and after every use. Time was used up with business. I've got to get better at managing or they won't learn anything.

A really cool high school senior lives across the street from me and we met a couple of weeks ago at the ends of our driveways. He seemed okay to talk. Huzzah! "How is school going?" I asked. "It's okay. Masks are no big deal, but everything, everything is harder." Boy, you got that right, Keegan. And so far, the joy is not there.

Great American Stampede

SUU Rodeo returns to Cedar City

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Lions roared, horses reared and Thunderbirds soared last Friday and Saturday night during the Great American SUU Rodeo in Cedar City. The two-night college rodeo featured cowboys and cowgirls riding and roping as they competed from the backs of broncos and bulls. Rodeo Royalty was on hand during the annual Stampede which also included Steer Wrestling, Goat Tying, Miniature bucking bulls and Mutton Busting for the younger cowpokes who braved the lights and dirt of the Iron Rangers Arena. Announcer Brent Kelly and rodeo clown Randee Munns kept the crowd informed and entertained, while also assisting the bullfighters keep the riders safe.

HELPFUL VOLUNTEERS, ALONG WITH THE ICRW and Iron County school board candidates, restore and protect Park Discovery.

Iron County Republican Women, School Board Candidates revitalize Park Discovery

from Tessa DOUGLAS

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Last week, the Iron County Republican Women, three local school board candidates, and other volunteers braved the wind and cold to refresh Park Discovery's wooden structures in continuation of a service project the group began last year.

The group was able to repaint and seal the majority of the park's fence line, as well as some of the playground equipment. After the work was done, the volunteers enjoyed a quick barbeque before retreating home from the cold.

Becki Bronson, ICRW president, said, "We were so grateful for the volunteers who came out for this project, especially since the weather didn't cooperate. It was also great having some of our school board candidates there serving the community with us. Thank you to Jeff Corry, Tiffney Christiansen and Tessa Douglas for coming out, working hard, and letting us get to know you better!"

Yvonne Simonds, project coordinator and ICRW member, said, "It was so fun to do this project. I loved getting to know the volunteers who came out and helped. It's especially rewarding to see the results of everyone's efforts when you look at the park and can see how much better it looks."

Iron County Republican Women meets the third Wednesday of every month. They are affiliated with both the Utah Federation and the National Federation of Republican Women. The goal of their organization is to educate and empower women who esteem the conservative principles and values set forth in the Republican platform. They also help elect Republican candidates to office. They desire to motivate more women to become involved in the on-going quest for good government. # How to begin and manage food storage

It is with a bit of hesitancy this topic is being covered during a pandemic. Why? Because there seems to be a current misconception as to what is considered food storage (or emergency preparedness supplies) vs. what could normally be considered hoarding. In short, food storage and “prepping” have always been associated with purchasing, growing and sometimes preserving foods that one’s family enjoys eating on a regular basis or storing staples that can be used to create many home-prepared/baked food items.

On the other hand, in recent months there are individuals who, for reasons known only to them, begin to stockpile food, supplies, or equipment they may not currently need or use but they want to have it on hand, just in case.

To name a few, we have seen or currently see a shortage of fresh beef products, canned tuna, potatoes, bananas, and some fresh/frozen produce. These are just a few of the eatable items and doesn’t include any of the other familiar shortages of paper and/or cleaning and sanitizing supplies and most-recently home canning equipment and supplies.

Now the facts – Accumulating food storage in many homes is common practice. Why else would gardening and case lot sales be so popular?! However, for a person trying to decide if food storage is right for them and if so where does one start are important questions to answer. There are also questions about what to store, how much and for how long.

Is food storage right for you? For many, the answer is a resounding, “Yes!” This practice is viewed as part of emergency preparedness touted as a very desirable practice by disaster specialists everywhere. Consider whether your family could be self-sustained during a natural or economic disaster. Being self-sustained or self-reliant relates to a family or individual having sufficient enough food, shelter, fuel, and light to survive for several days or several months. If I-15 were to shut down and trucks couldn’t deliver fresh or packaged food; if high winds or earthquakes damaged power lines or natural gas lines; or if the major wage earner in a family became disabled or ill, would your family be able to make it on your own for three days? How about three months? Longer?

There are several approaches to building a food storage program. It is referred to as a

Kathy's CORNER

UTAH STATE UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

program because it should be established, actively used, and replenished regularly. Some people build their food storage around menus their family uses regularly to prepare breakfast, lunch, and dinner while others may focus on accumulating staples first like wheat, rice and beans. However, if you don’t know how to prepare foods from staples, it may not be the best place to start.

If you need to start somewhere but have no current budget to purchase food, then start with the most important item to have in your storage – drinking water. Water can be stored in clean used beverage containers such as 2-liter plastic soda bottles or even empty canning jars (Residue left in milk jugs or juice containers make them unacceptable for water storage). Additional good news is that if you fill containers with tap water from municipal water sources (meaning a tap inside your home; not well water), no purification treatment is needed. The local Extension office has recommendations for purifying water from other sources.

How can you begin making affordable purchases for food storage that make sense for your family? You may begin by preparing a double batch of a favorite main dish and freezing one for later; you may buy two extra cans of tuna when you only need one for this week. You may also wish to simply start saving $10-$20 per month and then when next year’s case lot sale comes along, you can buy a case of something you use on a regular basis like Mandarin oranges, for example. A case of commercially canned goods normally stores well and comes in handy time and again. Don’t try to make the giant leap to getting 3 to 6-month food storage all at once. That can be overwhelming to your budget and you may not have the space! Start simple.

What if you are trying to build a food storage based on home preserved foods from your garden or local farmer’s market? The items you decide to preserve should be foods you know your family will enjoy eating – e.g. just because your neighbor preserves pickled beets doesn’t mean you should. Be sure to follow up-to-date researched and tested recipes available from the National Center for Home Food Preservation, USDA, your local USU Extension office, or Ball canning guides.

When establishing a food storage program, don’t forget:

» Store only those items you will use. If you do not currently include a food in your diet it is not likely you will use it in an emergency.

» Do not purchase more than you will rotate and use within a 2 to 3-year period of time to reduce waste.

» Ensure that the quality of the item you purchase is acceptable. Quality does not improve upon storage for most foods. Pay attention to “Best if use by” “Do not use after” and “Expires” dates.

» Select a location where foods can be stored at or near room temperature. Ideally, temperatures should be 60-70 degrees F or cooler in a dry, dark room away from sun and moisture. If you do not have designated basement space, consider dedicating a closet shelf or filling a tote and placing it beneath a bed.

If you have specific questions regarding food storage, food preservation, or gardening, please reach out to your local USU Extension Office.

The Bald Eagle Chapter of The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) met for their monthly meeting at the Cedar City Library on September 8th. Utah State Regent, Kathryn Jensen Asay, was an honored guest at this month's meeting. She has been a member of the DAR for over 43 years and is now serving as the Utah State Regent for 2020-2022.

Corey Baumgartner, the Iron County Today's Managing Editor, received an award of appreciation for his commitment and support of the Bald Eagle Chapter of DAR. "Corey has brought much attention to this chapter of the DAR," expressed Sandy Ball, head of the Bald Eagle Chapter.

In accepting the award on behalf of the Iron County team he shared, "Kathryn talked about being one in a million and each one of you here is a one in a million value to this commu-

After the swearing in of new members and a celebration of members who have been with the organization for 10 years, they moved on to business matters. Aliene Overly and Mary Gillespie, members associated with Wreaths Across America, stated they have 1,025 wreaths for the remembrance of fallen veterans in Cedar City, Paragonah, Summit and Enoch. They are also grateful for State Bank of Southern Utah pledging to donate $1,000 to the project and all donations are welcome for the mission.

There's still time to purchase wreaths. Each wreath is $15.00 and if you buy 2 wreaths for $30 then Wreaths Across America donates the 3rd wreath. If you would like to make a donation please make your check out to Bald Eagle Chapter NSDAR and mail it to Bald Eagle Chapter NSDAR,

FAITH

Seeing through God's eyes (part 2)

1 SAMUEL 16:7

With a clearer version of God's vision of our individual worth—seen through the love and sacrifice of our Savior, Jesus Christ—there is another ability, responsibility for our eyes, hearts.

Speaking boldly to the Sadducee trying to trick Him, Jesus answers that the first and great commandment is to love God and the very next commandment is to love others—including ourselves (Matthew 22:35-40). Jesus explains how to love greater and enhances the value of the vision to see and love others three chapters later. When we do something to love, serve, improve another's life, we are doing the same unto our Savior (Matthew 25:34-44). However, if we do nothing, being blinded by pride or fear, Jesus adds we are not doing it unto Him (v.45-v.46). Perhaps a more active Christian catchphrase should be, "See something do something."

In learning to not only see God but to love Him and to believe in and receive His love for us—including learning to love ourselves—how then should we also seek to see the worth and value of other people? First and foremost, the key to seeing someone (including ourselves) through God's eyes and heart, is not through the passport of their past—their convicting stamps from every stumble and tumble—but the itinerary of their heart (1 Samuel 6:7) and to where (to Who) their future footsteps are headed. This is not easy (for humans), especially when it seems easier, quicker to judge someone by their temporal track record, race or religion.

Do we forget that we are each a child of God and all have access to His love, mercy and forgiveness? Is not this one of the greatest deceptions of the devil—that transgressors and sinners are no longer worth God's time or love? Not only unworthy of His love, but "worthy" of our persecutions more than our compassions (Matthew 7:1-5)?

Speaking of persecutions; ever heard of Saul of Tarsus (Acts 22)? His life included persecuting, imprisoning and executing Christians. Yet, Jesus—not justifying his wickedness—saw his heart and the good he could still do with his life. You know Him better now as Paul, Jesus' Apostle.

Do we each have to travel our own Road to Damascus before we realize the value of every soul?

Whether your roads lead to Damascus, Gethsemane, Golgotha or down the street to a neighbor in need, may we each reach for and turn to the Lord today; to help us not only see through God's eyes and heart, but to have our eyes and hearts transformed through faith and by God's greater love for ourselves and others (2 Corinthians 5:11-21). May the Lord blind each of with His light of love as he did Saul, to open our eyes and hearts that we may see and learn to love as God loves, that we may bless each other in all we say and do; no matter where we courageously travel.

BIBLE 101.5

Poetry and wisdom literature (part 1)

by Edy MEREDITH

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

I hope you have stayed with me through the previous Bible 101 sessions of Bible 101.1-4. A friend of mine told me she did not enjoy Bible 101.4 Part 1, The Law. Do you have a favorite Bible 101 lesson? Hopefully, she will enjoy this study of Biblical Poetry and Wisdom Literature. To fully appreciate the scope and fullness of the Bible, I think it is necessary to understand each genre and category of Biblical writing, and we only have six more categories left to study, including today's lesson.

Just a little bit about the types of poetry which are used in the Bible: 1) Blank verse (no rhyming but with a consistent meter, usually iambic pentameter with a du-DUM-rhythmic effect), 2) Free verse (without rhyme, meter, or other restrictions) and 3) Rhyming poetry. Biblical poetry is also full of symbolic language, metaphors, word pictures, and expressions of feeling. While the Book of Psalms makes up the majority of Biblical poetry, poetry can also be found in the Song of Solomon, Lamentations (the sorrows of Jerusalem), and several Old Testament narratives, such as the triumphal Song of Moses in Exodus 15, Numbers 21:17-18, and the oath of Moses in Deuteronomy 30:19-20.

Psalms has several authors although King David (the man after God's own heart) is the most well-known author. Psalms also has at least 9 different types: 1) Laments (asking God for help in troubling situations), 2) Thanksgiving and praise, 3) Celebrations of God's good and wise laws, 4) Wisdom, 5) Confidence, 6) The Davidic monarchy and the coming Messiah, 7) Historical psalms, and 8) Prophetic psalms. We are also including the wisdom literature (Solomon's two books of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes along with Job) to our study of Biblical poetry, to add a layer revealing the collected wisdom of generations of godly people who also make mistakes and sin in their lives; allowing us to identify with them.

This week we have focused on what I call the big picture. Next week we will look at specific and memorable Biblical poetry. We will end today with the lesser known Psalm 30, from the New King James Version. Can you put it into a category or type of Biblical Psalm?

"I will extol You, O Lord, for You have lifted me up, and have not let my foes rejoice over me.

O Lord my God, I cried out to You, and You healed me.

O Lord, You brought my soul up from the grave,

You have kept me alive, that I should not go down to the pit.

Sing praise to the Lord, you saints of His,

And give thanks at the remembrance of His holy name,

For His anger is but for a moment, His favor is for life;

Weeping may endure for a night, but joy comes in the morning.

Now in my prosperity I said, "I shall never be moved."

Lord, by Your favor You have made my mountain stand strong;

You hid Your face, and I was troubled. I cried out to You, O Lord...and made supplication;

Hear, O Lord, and have mercy on me; Lord, be my helper!"

You have turned for me my mourning into dancing;

You have put off my sackcloth and clothed me with gladness,

To the end that my glory may sing praise to You and not be silent.

O Lord my God, I will give thanks to you forever.

The Eye of the Storm (Part 1)

Typically, Hurricane season runs from June thru November—September being the worst. For those people living in hurricane prone areas, they are already dreading, preparing, and praying, for the safety of their families, homes, and cities. Over decades of devastation, hurricanes—and their wrecking relatives, tornadoes—have displaced and destroyed many homes and lives.

While we don't need to worry as much about such destructive storms here in Southern Utah, the storms of life can strike anywhere, anytime. They seemingly come out of nowhere; unannounced and unavoidable—fast and fierce. Thankfully, most physical storms can be predicted, or at least discovered in enough time to warn people to prepare and/or evacuate. However, spiritual, emotional or mental hurricanes cannot always be predicted, or prepared for as adequately.

They can come in the form of an illness, injury, loss, or even the untimely death of a loved one. These emotional storms can be as destructive, even more so, than physical hurricanes. Sadly, the damage from emotional, mental, or spiritual storms can often go unnoticed, untreated, or can feel like it's unrepairable. In today's world, the need for storm-healers outweighs the need for storm-chasers. There are too many who don't know where to find refuge from their storms.

No matter the nature of the storms in our lives, they are destructive as deceptive. Their potential pathways of peril cannot be predicted with much, if any, certainty. That's why people in hurricane danger prone areas are cautioned to evacuate as a life-saving precaution. But how do you evacuate from an emotional storm? Unfortunately, some survivors turn to drugs, alcohol, abuse, or pornography, as escapes. These are only temporary shelters; unable to fully withstand the high winds and damaging debris from their storms. They only provide a false sense of safety, a façade that they have evaded, or escaped the storm altogether. This is where they can become trapped in (deceived) by the eye of the storm. Like the eye of a hurricane, the weather inside seems less chaotic. The winds are not as powerful, and the weather can appear calmer. They will soon realize their demise of falling into this dangerous deception. They will not only discover that the storm is still there waiting for them, but that it is fiercer than ever. In fact, they'll realize that when they turn to worldly addictions to help them endure their afflictions, they are cast into storms more powerful and destructive than a hurricane.

No, we cannot avoid every storm—they are a part of our lives—but we can learn from them to help us prepare for future tempests. Some storms also cause delays and damages, but we don't have to let them completely destroy our hearts, homes, or our integrity. Next week I'll share some ideas on how to remain grounded even when we're being pounded by the storms of life. May we learn more about how to weather the challenging weather of life, together.

Theon Thorley

Theon Macfarlane Thorley was born November 16, 1928, in Cedar City, Utah; the second of three children born to William (Bill) Rowntree Thorley and Virginia Macfarlane Thorley. He passed away on September 6, 2020, in Cedar City at the age of 91.

When he was two years old, Theon's mother passed away shortly after giving birth to his younger sister. His father, being left with three small children, sent them to live with various family members until he married Bardella Shipp approximately four years later. Theon was taken in by George and Leona Grimshaw who had never been able to have any biological children. They were thrilled to receive him and raise him as their son. When Bill married Bardella, he brought the children back into his home. However, by that time Theon had bonded so deeply with the Grimshaws that Bill consented to have Theon live with them. Theon thus grew up as a member of both the Bill and Bardella Thorley family and the George and Leona Grimshaw family on Main Street in Cedar City, two doors apart.

Theon had a beautiful voice and sang at weddings, funerals, and church meetings during his high school and college years. He spent his summers tending Grandpa Bill's sheep on Cedar Mountain with his older brother, Howard. He met JoAnne Rollins, who was two years younger, while they were in high school. She waited for him while he served two years on a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Central States Mission from 1948 to 1950. In June 1951, they were sealed for time and all eternity in the St. George Temple.

Theon graduated from the Branch Agricultural College (BAC) and then earned a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from BYU. He served for two years in the Air Force, stationed in Korea and Japan. In 1956 Theon and JoAnne moved to Southern California where they lived and raised their family for 30 years. Theon worked for Bank of America and later Hughes Aircraft. During their time in California, he served in the LDS Church as Bishop, counselor in a Stake Presidency, and as Stake Patriarch. After retirement in 1986, Theon and JoAnne served two missions for the LDS Church in Cebu, Philippines and in the Oakland, California Temple Visitor Center. After their missions, they settled in Hurricane, Utah. For the past four years, they have lived with their daughter JoLinda and her husband Mark in their home in Cedar City where Theon passed away.

Approximately 25 years ago, Theon and JoAnne built a cabin on their family ranch land which has become a lodestar for their children, grandchildren, and a rapidly increasing number of great grandchildren, all of whom love and honor Theon and JoAnne. Theon set a standard of Christ-like living that will bless the lives of his posterity for generations to come. He has now joined his birth mother and both sets of beloved parents in the Spirit World where he is anxiously engaged in the missionary work occurring there in preparation for the Second Coming of Jesus Christ.

He is survived by his wife of 69 years, JoAnne Rollins Thorley, and their six children; Matthew Thorley (Janice), Las Vegas, NV; Rollin Thorley (Pam), Las Vegas, NV; Steven Thorley (Kennedy), Orem, UT; JoLinda Reynders (Mark), Cedar City, UT; Paul Thorley (Lynne), Lindon, UT; Rodney Thorley (Jana), St. Louis, MO; 27 grandchildren; 44 great grandchildren; and his siblings Howard Thorley, Virginia Thorley Olds, Larry Thorley, and Jim Thorley. He is preceded in death by all of his parents, his sister Eleanor Grimshaw Heywood, and a great grandson, Samuel Welker Levie Thorley.

Because of Covid-19 concerns a public viewing will not be held. Funeral services will be held at 12:00 pm on Saturday, September 19, 2020 at the Southern Utah Mortuary, 190 North 300 West, Cedar City. For those who cannot attend, the service will be live streamed on Facebook via the Southern Utah Mortuary website, there will be a link at the bottom of the obituary. All are invited to an open house celebration to be held immediately following the funeral services. Please visit the "Theon Thorley Memorial" group page on Facebook for more information. Arrangements are under the direction of Southern Utah Mortuary. Online condolences can be sent at www.sumortuary.com.

MUSTANGS STAMPEDE PAST FALCONS

PAROWAN SHUT OUT FOR SECOND STRAIGHT WEEK

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Jake Garrett returned to action for the Canyon View Falcons on Sept. 11. The Crimson Cliffs Mustangs used a not-so-secret weapon of its own to run away with a big victory.

Creed Leonard rushed for four lengthy touchdowns and Crimson Cliffs cruised to a 40-7 rout over Canyon View that gave the Falcons their second straight loss after a 3-0 start. After a home loss to Cedar a week earlier, the Mustangs got 110 rushing yards from Leonard on his scoring runs alone as they raced out to a 26-0 third-quarter lead before the Falcons could get on the board.

Tyler Brown added a 62-yard touchdown pass to Gunner Orr that got the Crimson Cliffs offense started in the first quarter and Orr added a 5-yard catch that finished the scoring early in the fourth quarter.

For Canyon View, Garrett threw for 179 yards and a 6-yard touchdown to Tyler Maine in the third quarter, but also his first two interceptions of

Balanced Panthers roll over Reds

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

ST. GEORGE — The Pine View Panthers had exactly one minute to travel 80 yards if they wanted to add to a one-touchdown lead over the Cedar Reds before halftime.

Brayden Bunnell succeeded with the challenge and the Panthers took off after that.

Bunnell threw four touchdown passes, including two to Dominique McKenzie in the second quarter, as Pine View went on to rout Cedar, 55-21 on Sept. 11 and improve to 2-0 in Region 9 play. While Bunnell's second connection with McKenzie capped off the drive that pushed the Panthers up 28-14, his 11-yard TD to Tyson Moten started a 20-point fourth-quarter burst that put them firmly in control. The drive started when the Reds were unable to convert on fourth down.

Cedar fell to 1-1 in region play, and head coach Josh Bennett said the Reds' overall effort was absent on both sides of the ball.

"You can't turn the ball over the way we did and we didn't put any pressure on a good quarter-back," Bennett said. "That drive was tough and our kids kept fighting, but we just couldn't recover after halftime. The bottom line is we have to get better."

Pine View got the ball first to start the second half and Bunnell connected with Christian Bailey on a 1-yard touchdown to push the Panther lead to 35-14, but Cedar kept the game within reach after Jaron Garrett hit Kolby White on a 21-yard touchdown in the final minute of the third quarter to cut the lead to 35-21.

2017 WORLD CHAMPION RYDER WRIGHT rides Cut Throat to claim the first-place check of $3,043 at this year's PRCA Rodeo in Parowan.

Ryder Wright grabs win, closes gap in saddle bronc

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The opportunities for PRCA rodeo competition have been limited by the COVID-19 pandemic. With the regular season nearing the end, every chance to compete and every dollar earned means that much more.

Ryder Wright seized his opportunity Sept. 7 and grabbed a winner's check at the perfect time.

The 2017 saddle bronc world champion scored 86.5 points aboard Cut Throat and it was good enough to claim the first-place check of $3,043 at the PRCA rodeo held at the Iron County Fairgrounds. After money leader Wyatt Casper of Pampa, Texas, failed to score on his Day 1 ride, Wright came through with a strong performance and pushed his season total to $108,971. The Beaver resident cut into Casper's lead and trails by $35,507 with three weekends remaining in the regular season.

On a busy weekend that had an increased prize pool and several top-15 cowboys looking to secure spots at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, the end results were helpful for the other Wright family members who competed.

Defending all-around champion Stetson Wright tied for fourth in saddle bronc with Lefty Holman, earning $913. When the full weekend of competition was recorded, Stetson moved ahead of Spencer Wright into 15th place by just $502.

Stetson also finished fourth in bull riding with an 85-point ride, good for $1,127. He's 18th in the standings in that event ($41,732) and third in the all-around with $67,224.

In bareback riding, Texas cowboy Tilden Hooper saw his 85.5-point ride aboard hold up for a winner's check of $2,992. Hooper sits fifth in the standings with $66,428, trailing fourth-place Jamie Howlett by only $164.

Zack Jongbloed of Louisiana won twice, sharing first in steer wrestling and winning outright in tie-down roping. The total combined payday of $4,228 helped him stay fourth in the all-around standings with $39,294.

Idaho cowboy Roscoe Jarboe shared the top spot in bull riding with Sage Kimzey, scoring 87.5 points aboard Goose and earning $2,715. Both cowboys strengthened their holds in the standings as Jarboe – who rode on Day 1 – moved from 12th to 10th with $51,804 and Kimzey improved his season total to $86,054, trailing only leader Ky Hamilton by just $558.

Full results from the event are available online at prorodeo.com.

Lady Reds slip past Warriors

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Logann Laws scored twice and Emily Schuh added a goal near the end of the first half as the Cedar Reds beat Snow Canyon, 3-1 on Sept. 10, snapping the Warriors' three-game winning streak.

Laws opened the scoring for Cedar (4-3 Region 9) just 45 seconds into the match when she fired a high shot that settled in the top right corner of the net. Schuh delivered her goal with three minutes left in the half on a rush past two Warrior defenders for a 2-0 halftime lead.

Jadyn Reber got Snow Canyon (3-4 Region 9) on the board in the second half, but Laws added her second goal of the game and helped Cedar secure the victory.

The Lady Reds opened the week with a 2-0 shutout loss at Desert Hills. Jaynee Hinton and Lulu Harris scored for the Thunder in the second half, while Kenna DeCastro earned her fourth clean sheet of the season.

Cedar started the week with a road game at Pine View on Tuesday and they'll face Canyon View at home Thursday in a 4 p.m. kickoff.

Bergener lifts Falcons over Thunder

by Tom ZULEWSKI

IRON COUNTY TODAY

For 80 minutes, the Canyon View girls soccer team found itself still in the fight against its opponent. Through rough plays, missed chances, and questionable non-calls, the game remained scoreless.

With one good pass near midfield from teammate Addie Newman, Brylee Bergener helped the Falcons bury another remnant of bad seasons past.

Bergener beat her defender and beat Mikenna DeCastro for the winning goal with two minutes left in overtime as Canyon View defeated Desert Hills, 1-0 on Sept. 10. Not only did CV hand the Region 9 leaders their first loss (6-1), they stopped a 19-match (17 losses, two ties) winless streak to the Thunder that dated back to Sept. 8, 2009.

"Addie gave me a great ball and everyone gave 110 percent, all there the whole time," said Bergener, who extended her goal-scoring streak to five games. "I'm happy with our team because we've been practicing hard and we really wanted this."

Even with calls at each end of the field that went against the Falcons, head coach Steve Newman was impressed with how his team played through the distraction.

"It's fun because all the girls are starting to gain confidence, something we haven't had in a long time," Newman said. "They're playing for each other and caring about each other. They're starting to believe they can do this, and it's a lot of fun to see."

"Our biggest plan was to survive and not get embarrassed, but after that it was just to play the best we can. We don't have a lot of tricks. We just play as a team and hope we can do well."

Bergener had a chance to put the game in the win column for the Falcons in the closing seconds of the first overtime, but her shot from 15 yards sailed just over the crossbar. CV goalie Aspen Bergener had to come off the field for a few minutes in the second half after a collision with a Desert Hills player.

In the end, Addie Newman said the team was ready for the challenges.

"We've been conditioning for this all season and it helped us through," Newman said. "We made sure to keep our energy up and stepping to the ball. Brylee made a great run and I knew where she was going."

CV started the second half of region play against Snow Canyon on Tuesday and will travel to face Cedar on Thursday for a 4 p.m. kickoff. The Falcons beat both teams in the first round.

Canyon View won its first game of the week Sept. 8, 4-2 at Dixie. Addie Newman scored twice while Bergener and Maizie Hallows each added a goal in the victory over the Flyers.

Rock crawlers return for Grand Nationals Competition

by Corey BAUMGARTNER

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The World Extreme Rock Crawling Grand Nationals were held in Cedar City’s backyard last weekend. The Three Peaks Recreation Area has always been a popular location for W.E. Rock competitions. If you’ve never seen a rock-crawling event, it’s quite a sight to watch custom-built machines conquer extreme obstacles at angles and with expert maneuvers one wouldn’t think possible. Competitors face boulders, rock ledges, cones and the clock as they literally crawl through courses designed to push man and machine to their limits. With their trusted spotter, the driver navigated the course as safe and as quickly as possible. Drivers earned points (not a good thing) for hitting cones, reversing and not finishing in the ten-minute time limit. That sounds like a lot of time, but when you’re trying to avoid getting stuck between boulders or tipping over and tumbling down the hill, ten minutes seems like the blink of an eye. For a complete list of winners and upcoming W.E. Rock events visit werocklive.com.

THE TOUGH TERRAIN AT THREE PEAKS pushed man, woman and their mighty machines to the extreme during this year’s Grand Nationals.

The Panthers would empty the bench in the fourth quarter as Byron Cullison scored on a 5-yard run and Daniel Leung-Choi finished off the win on a 2-yard run with 2:32 left.

Garrett helped Cedar rally from an early 14-0 hole with a 14-yard touch-down pass to Jack Cook and a 1-yard scoring run, but he also threw four interceptions that Pine View was able to convert into 13 points.

“This was a wake-up call for us,” Bennett said. “We didn’t have a good week of practice and I told the guys at halftime, ‘we’re playing the way we practiced.’ It wasn’t a good week. We’ve got a lot of soul searching to do.”

The Reds will travel again Friday to play a game at Dixie against the Flyers, who shut out Desert Hills, 13-0 last week. Kickoff is at 7 p.m. at Walt Brooks Stadium.

Play through challenges, get results

As the second half unfolded in Canyon View's girls soccer game against Desert Hills on Sept. 10, head coach Steve Newman admitted he was "panicking," pacing the area around the team's bench and wondering when – even if – a breakthrough moment would come.

Two plays that involved hard tackles within the 6-yard box, one at each end of the field, resulted in silent whistles from the officials. Newman and the rest of the coaching staff voiced their displeasure as play continued.

Then came the two 10-minute overtime periods. With the arrival of the RPI system for playoff seeding, it introduced a new rule that eliminated ties from the already-complicated math. If the game was still even after 100 minutes, penalty kicks would be needed to decide the winner.

Even with the distractions that surrounded them, the Falcons weren't bothered in the least. Addie Newman and Brylee Bergener made sure the team wouldn't need to go to the very unpredictable penalty-kick shootout.

After Bergener took a pass from Newman in the midfield area, she won a foot race and beat Mikenna DeCastro with two minutes left in overtime. It gave Canyon View another historic win over a region foe they hadn't come close to beating in years, and with the first half of play in the books, here's what the Falcons have achieved.

» They beat Desert Hills for the first time in 20 matches (17 losses, two ties). The last win happened Sept. 8, 2009.

» They beat Cedar for the first time in 19 matches (17 losses, one tie). The last win over the Reds happened Sept. 17, 2009.

» They beat Snow Canyon for the first time in 30 matches (25 losses, four ties). The last win over the Warriors happened Oct. 7, 2003.

CV is No. 4 in the latest RPI rankings. They knocked Desert Hills off the perch of highest-ranked Region 9 team and would not only earn a first-round bye in the 4A playoffs, but host a second-round game if they can stay among the top eight teams.

At 6-3 overall, it's entirely possible that could happen.

In its last 20 years, Canyon View girls soccer has had a 12-win season in 2002 and 10-win seasons in 2008 and 2016. It's entirely possible this team can get to double digits because they play like a team and play for each other.

While the Falcons were getting ready for the second overtime period against the Thunder with the game still scoreless, Steve Newman knew motivational speeches weren't needed. His girls were able to take care of business and show the rest of the region they belong right where they are.

» Another casualty of COVID-19

came down this past week when the PRCA announced it would be moving the 2020 edition of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo out of Las Vegas. It will be held at Globe Life Field in Arlington, Texas, the home of the Texas Rangers, from Dec. 3 through Dec. 12.

After 35 years, holding the WNFR in Las Vegas without a full Thomas & Mack Center wasn't a viable option. It may only be a one-year deal (hopefully), but at least it allows fans to attend in a bigger space that allows for proper social distancing.

With only two weekends left in the regular season before the top 15 cowboys for each event are determined, Stetson Wright is making a run to compete for a gold buckle in saddle bronc. After moving into the top 15 following his run in Parowan, the defending all-around champion tied for first in Greeley, Colo. and added $3,282 to his season total in saddle bronc.

The PRCA will be in St. George this Thursday through Saturday for the Dixie Roundup, one of the last remaining chances to see potential WNFR qualifiers before they head off to Texas to go for gold.

While the tourism business took a big hit with the forced departure of the WNFR this year, at least we can take solace that it will return – pandemic permitting – in 2021.
