Community gathers to support those battling breast cancer

by Kylie Leavitt

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

On October 22, 2022, at Canyon Creek Park, the community gathered together to walk or run a 5K to support those battling with breast cancer. The event was put on by Power in Pink-Iron County, a local non-profit, whose mission is to raise funds to help support the women and families of those who are battling with breast cancer, as well as raise awareness.

At the event was cancer survivor and Swig founder, Nicole Tanner. She shared her own story about surviving breast cancer, and talked about how when she went in for her mammogram, she had no signs or symptoms of having breast cancer. She was 37 at the time, and decided to get screened because her friend had asked her to. When she got the mammogram, they told her that they found something and would need her to come back for an ultrasound.

She said, "I knew something was wrong. The next day, they did an ultrasound. They went right to it. It was a very rare, aggressive cancer that if not caught early, will kill you, because it does not respond to chemotherapy and radiation. Mine was caught early because my friend felt a prompting to tell me to go. And because I listened, I am here today."

She continued, saying, "My message to you to today is listen to your bodies. Listen to your intuition. Listen to the promptings. Listen to your friends. Go get that mammogram. Do your self-checks. Breast cancer is 99% treatable if caught early. If it's not caught early, it's a killer. Be proactive! Do what you need to do to save your life."

Tanner then continued on to talk about how when all of this was happening, she was uninsured, her husband was in between jobs, and they had no money to cover the medical debt they accumulated through her treatment. However, there was a program that she qualified for that paid off all of her medical debt, only asking her to pay $100.

She shared, “Flash forward to 2020, we decided to give back in the exact same way. At Swig, we pay for woman’s medical bills that are fighting for their lives with breast cancer.”

With that generosity, all throughout the month of October, all the money Swig makes through their fundraising goes to paying off the bills for women battling with breast cancer. You can continue to donate to this cause throughout the year by going to swigdrinks.com/savethecups/ and donating. You can also apply or nominate someone you know who is struggling with breast cancer to receive help with their medical bills at this website, powerinpink-ironcounty.com.

You can also donate on the website and they will use every cent to help those in our community with their battle. Over the last 10 years, they have raised $40,000 in donations that have all gone to helping women and families who are fighting with breast cancer.

As a community, we can make a difference in the lives of those struggling with breast cancer by contributing in the ways that we can, whether it’s donating to a non-profit, volunteering our time, or participating in a 5K to show our love and support to these families. To take the words of Nicole Tanner, let’s be proactive, and let’s fight for those who need our support.

Cedar City Business & Innovation Center clients win big at statewide pitch competition

by Tessa Douglas

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Startup companies working with Cedar City's Business & Innovation Center beat out 35 other businesses from all over the state to win six of the eight finalist spots at the One Utah Summit State Bank Business Challenge.

The pitch competition is open to any Utah startup and winners can receive thousands of dollars in funding, professional mentorship and other prizes to support their businesses' success. Another benefit of winning is exposure to potential customers and investors.

The competition process requires applicants to "pitch" their business multiple times to groups of judges. This year, 43 startups applied. Of those, 32 made it to the second round of judging and only eight made it to the finals. Judges are selected from a broad group of state business leaders, educators, investors, and economic development agencies. The judges' panel for the final round included Governor Spencer Cox, Lt. Governor Deidre Henderson, successful entrepreneur Rich Christiansen, State Bank of Southern Utah VP Michelle Tullis, and other business VIPs.

Burke Adams, co-owner of Antler Tech and one of the finalists, won funding and mentorship from the competition. He said, "We're gaining so much momentum since we launched last month, and this is only going to help us get better. The Business and Innovation Center has helped us in so many ways to start our company strong. Coming in as a finalist in this competition just reinforces that we're headed in the right direction."

Isaac Askeroth, Cedar City Business & Innovation Center Manager, could barely contain the pride he felt for those who pitched. "Our clients have been working incredibly hard on launching their businesses, giving so much time and energy and resources. To have so many come through this competition as winners speaks to the tremendous people they are and the amazing successes that are still to come for them. I couldn't be more excited for all of them."

As the competition sponsor, State Bank of Southern Utah was also thrilled to have so many local businesses do well. Cordelle Morris, Chief Marketing Officer for State Bank, said "It's wonderful to support and take part of the entrepreneurial spirit in Utah. It's exciting to see individuals succeed by using the Innovation Center to develop and prototype products into functioning, profitable businesses."

The Office of the Lieutenant Governor hereby publishes the following notice for Constitutional Amendment A which will appear on all ballots for the November 8, 2022 General Election

Shall the Utah Constitution be amended to change a provision relating to special sessions of the Utah Legislature that are convened by the president of the Utah Senate and speaker of the Utah House of Representatives:

- to exclude from that 5% limit:
 - an appropriation of money that the state receives from the federal government to address a fiscal, public health, or other emergency or crisis; and
 - an appropriation that decreases the amount of money previously authorized to be spent.

FROM THE EDITOR

Scary times ahead?

I'm not just talking about Halloween. I know there are concerns about the upcoming elections on all levels of leadership. Even in our comparatively cozy communities, we still face our share of adversities that require the devotions and diversities of both leaders and followers to overcome.

By leaders I don't mean dictators and by followers I don't mean robots. Yes, any worthwhile and dependable vehicle requires someone responsible and capable at the wheel, but that doesn't make the tires, brakes or gas tank less vital and valued.

That being said, we must not let our (or other people's) boos, booboos and boohoos,

COREY BAUMGARTNER

cause us to live in and work in fear. Yes, it's okay to fear, but not as the dominant and depressing demotion of our emotions.

Fear can be the fuel, even the spark that can ignite greater proactive action (prior to the polls and beyond the voting booths), not to paralyze our potential, but to spur us forward to greater unity and pro-action (not just reaction) in our communities. And unity, not blind conformity, is what will create the stability and ability to not only get us through difficult times, but make us better people no matter where we live.

Because ultimately, no matter what happens during this and future elections, true change begins with leadership in the home. Whether we're single, a single parent, or have a full house, and regardless of who's in office, in charge of our cities, states and nation, we each have the personal responsibility for civility and accountability to help create and improve our spheres of influence to be the best they can be.

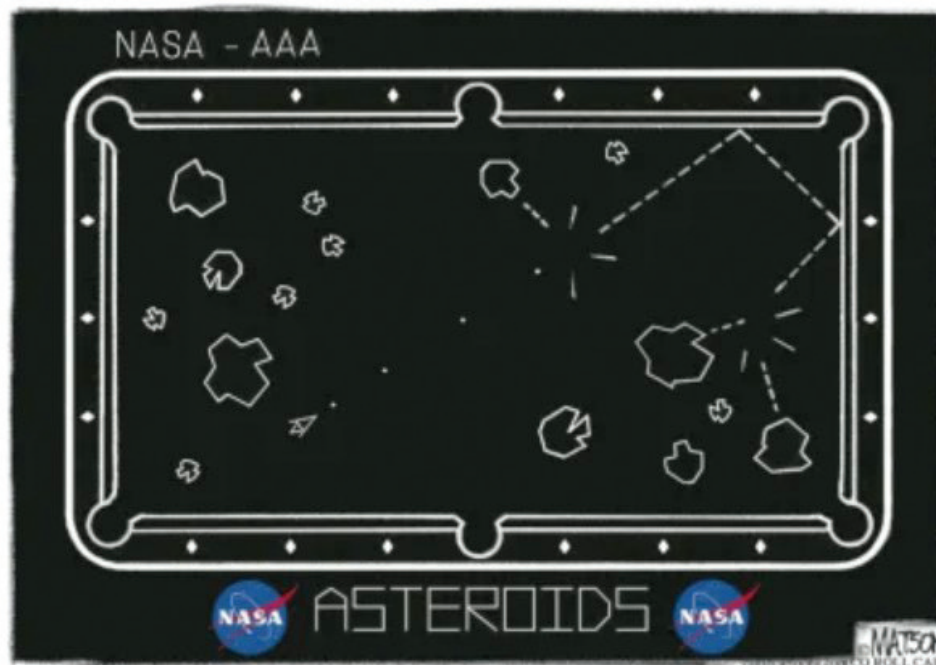

Not being willing to work together for the betterment of our homes, neighborhoods, communities and nation, is truly the scariest scenario.

Bullets and books and bannings. Oh, my!

Bryan Gray is a syndicated contributor, not an employee. His opinions are solely his own and not those of the Editor, Staff or Iron County Today.

When it comes to a son's or daughter's reading choices, now is a difficult time to be a teacher, a librarian, or a parent. Utah is typical of many other states where books are being challenged in libraries and schools, some 1,600 individual titles nationally.

The movement to ban or censor reading is usually couched as a "parent's rights" issue, more engaging to conservative Republican legislators than to the public as a whole. In an American Family Survey, only 12% of Americans thought books should be removed from public school libraries and only about one-third thought parents should have the final say on what books are taught in an English class.

The conservatives have a point. Parents should be in touch with what their child or student is reading. If you see a 17-year-old thumbing the pages of the 1960s "How to Build a Bomb" handbook or an instruction book on painless suicide, there is ample reason for concern. The problem, however, is that book-banning usually stems from a viewpoint that a parent dislikes. It might spare a child a feeling of "guilt" or stop him or her from feeling anguished. Unfortunately, it also keeps your son or daughter ignorant.

We all can agree that books in public libraries or classrooms should be "age appropriate" and that parents have the right to decide which books their children should read (although good luck with policing that in the internet age). But no parent or legislator should have the right to dictate what someone else's child reads.

You don't want your daughter to read a novel about a gay child?

Explain your opposition to homosexuality in your living room, but don't stop other children from reading about the challenges at least one student in your child's classroom is facing. You don't want your child to be ashamed of how America treated Native Americans or other minorities? Fine, just admit then that your child should not learn history and discover that the Ku Klux Klan wasn't merely a patriotic tea social.

The book banning movement isn't concerned with "dangerous books", but just books that provide a different insight into how people live and think. Parent groups are raging against "Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets", "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn", "To Kill a Mockingbird" and any

What are some common mistakes when returning ballots?

- » Failing to sign the affidavit.
- » Swapping ballots with a spouse or family member.
- » Mailing the ballot too late. Return envelopes must have a postage mark with the day BEFORE the election to be counted. In this cycle, that is Monday, November 7th.

What if I make a mistake when marking my ballot?

It is okay! Simply write "This one" by the choice you want, and "Not this one" by the choice you do not want. We adjudicate all such ballots and appreciate the clarity.

How do I know there is not fraud in the election?

Throughout the country, there are over 10,000 election jurisdictions which administer elections. Each of those election officials and the small army of workers have sworn to uphold the constitution. By being decentralized and through sworn defenders of democracy, elections in America are free, fair, and the gold standard for the world. These two facts often get overlooked when discussing fraud but are key to election security. Why? Because being decentralized means a bad actor would have to infiltrate not

1 but 10,000 systems. Also, I have never met an election official or worker who does not feel the weight of their duty.

After those fundamental protections is voter roll maintenance. In Iron County, this is a 12-month per year undertaking. Each day, voters come and go from our voter rolls. Each day, my deputies carefully register voters who provide sufficient evidence of citizenship and residency. Each day, databases from the Department of Drivers Licenses to the Department of Vital Records are consulted to ensure that those who move, and who move on from this life are properly removed from the voter rolls. We regularly check for any duplicate voters. Voters are ultimately responsible to let us know of changes so we may maintain a faithful voter roll. This means you!

As an election draws near, we begin programming a ballot. We ensure the races, districts, precincts, spellings, etc. are correct. Once we have a final ballot, we mail the ballots according to our voter rolls. Each ballot contains a code that is unique to that voter. That code is what we use to check that ballot in once it has been voted and returned. For any ballot to count, its code must match. We also check every signature on every ballot. There is no sampling. It surprises me that some folks are still incredulous of this.

The design of the return envelope accomplishes 3 purposes. First, it contains an affidavit that must be signed and where a voter may include contact information in case of a problem. Second, the affidavit is designed to be removed without revealing the ballot. Third, the envelope remains sealed until it is placed in batches with other ballot envelopes to be counted, thus maintaining ballot secrecy. This process is more robust than most folks imagine. I invite you to come take a tour of our facility and we will show it to you.

Please call, email, or come in if you have any questions:

University of Utah President invites citizens to join compact with Utah

by Taylor Randall

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH PRESIDENT

This summer, as the University of Utah tour bus pulled into St. George, I couldn't help but feel part of me was home. My mother's family lived and ranched in Washington County along the Arizona Strip. My uncle taught me to ride a horse (not very well). Twice a year, we'd head south to build rainwater catchment ponds and round up the cattle.

During this visit I didn't get to ride, but I did get to meet and visit with some fantastic people doing great things in your communities and for the state at large. Like U presidents before me, I'm travelling around Utah to redefine and rededicate our university's unique role in the state. The University of Utah has a lot of reach, but also tremendous responsibility. It's an obligation we share with all our sister institutions in the state, including Southern Utah University, Utah Tech, Dixie Technical College and Southwest Technical College.

On the two-day tour of Southern Utah, I got to see firsthand how our partnerships with sister institutions are flourishing and came home with dozens of ideas for new partnerships not only within higher ed, but also within the local communities and in the health care space. I got to see the latest U telehealth technology in action at Beaver Valley Hospital; eat lunch in Cedar City with elected officials and new SUU President Mindy Benson; tour SkyWest's headquarters; dine with alumni; eat breakfast with St. George community and educational leaders; tour the FORGE (Frontier Observatory for Research in Geothermal Energy) site in Milford; and finish up with stops in Sanpete County.

Everywhere we visited, we saw proof of the partnerships and collaborations of Southern Utah's government and education leaders, entrepreneurs and corporations, regular citizens and community and religious leaders who have contributed to making our state the incredible place that it is to live, learn and work.

As president of the University of Utah, I recognize the responsibility our university has for making the lives of every Utahn better. During my first year, I've focused on three numbers: 40,000 students, 3.4 million Utahns and $1 billion in research funding. These goals help guide every decision I make.

These numbers tell the story of the university's statewide impact

- » More than 5,300 U alumni call Southern Utah home.
- » U of U Health patients last year came from every single Southern Utah ZIP code—totaling more than 10,300 people served by U clinics and physicians.
- » The U manages 550 buildings totaling 16.5 million square feet of space in 14 counties and 33 cities across Utah.
- » The U confers more than half of the advanced degrees awarded to Utah graduates
- » The university is the state's largest employer with 39,300 direct jobs, and directly and indirectly supports a total of 83,100 jobs.
- » The university trains 2/3 of Utah's physicians.

But our renewed compact with the state around us is more than numbers. The state invests heavily in us, and that carries with it an obligation to teach, to advance knowledge and to

As an English teacher in the 1970s, I saw this first-hand. A parent objected to my selection of "The Great Gatsby" since it included a few paragraphs about social drinking. Another parent objected to my teaching "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" because one humorous incident involved breast-feeding. SUU leads enrollment growth in state university system

SUU DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

CEDAR CITY — Spurred by an increase in the enrollment of online students, Southern Utah University led all other institutions in the Utah System of Higher Education (USHE) in year to year growth. According to third-week enrollment data released by USHE, SUU experienced a 5.28 percent enrollment increase and now has 14,330 students in both on-campus and online programs.

"We are pleased that so many students are choosing SUU to continue their education," said SUU President Mindy Benson. "Taking into consideration the impact of on-campus growth on the Cedar City community, we made a concerted effort to increase our online degree enrollment and it paid off. Our robust online programs give greater access to students, especially non-traditional students looking to earn a college degree."

SUU has 2,437 online students, that's 17 percent of the University's total enrollment. Online enrollment grew by 5.5 percent year to year.

SUU saw increased enrollment from international students (19.7%), graduate students (9.8%) and undergraduate students (4.7%).

"We are fully committed to providing increased access and affordable degree options to students looking to further their education," said Stuart Jones, SUU vice president for advancement and enrollment management. "We have frozen tuition for four straight years and created innovative programs like the $9,000 Bachelor of General Studies online degree to give greater access for people to earn a college degree."

Over the past decade, SUU has been one of the fastest growing regional universities in the country, according to data released by the Chronicle of Higher Education. SUU also ranks second in the Western United States for students graduating with the least amount of debt.

Celebrating its 125th anniversary, SUU offers more than 150 undergraduate programs, and 32 graduate and certificate programs. With the start of the 2022 academic year, SUU also offers its first doctorate degree program, a Doctor of Psychology in Clinical Psychology (Psy.D.).

me and admitted it was the only book her son had ever read.)

As columnist Leonard Pitts noted, "Why is it that so many people who want to ban books are the same ones who have no problems letting guns in? They're terrified that a book will put an idea in their child's head; why aren't they terrified that a gun will put a bullet there instead?"

If you are concerned about a book explaining the challenges of a different lifestyle, you are not protecting your son or daughter. You are only delaying their maturity in understanding a diverse, changing society. Your children won't turn to Satan by reading a Judy Blume novel, and you can't keep them safe from reality by dictating they read "Rebecca from Sunnybrook Farm" instead.

I've worked hard for Rural Utah. I'm a strong conservative voice, who continues to watch out for our lifestyle and culture. I'll push back against Payson/Dickson Line bills, that are not good for Rural Utah. I ask for your vote on November 8th. The ballots will be mailed out on October 18th.

I'll always stand tall for our 2nd Amendment Rights, the Right to Life, and Multiple-Use of our Federal Lands. I grew up in Rural Utah and spent most of my career in the energy business. As Chair of the Public Utilities, Energy and Technology Committee, I've made sure Utah does not fall into the same trap on energy as some other states have. RED ROCK FILM FESTIVAL

Even though the first section of the festival came to a close earlier in the month, festival enthusiasts now have access to some of the films virtually until October 31. For decades virtual screenings at major festivals have been available to industry and filmmakers; but in recent years some of these films from festivals are becoming available to the public for a short time.

Being that these films are new and won't be released until 2023 and some not until 2024, the films are all considered premiums and windows to see them and where are restricted. In Utah for instance viewers will have some extra films they can see.

Some of these films in the "For Utah Audiences" include the feature dramedy "In Her Name" which plays with the short "Bird's Eye View", the Irish music documentary "Where's the Craic?" which plays with the dance short "A Feast that Never Comes", the adventure documentary "Bancoco" with the Utah short "The Man in the Tree", the topical documentary about Civil rights legend James Meredith called "Mississippi Messiah" playing with the animation short "Aurora", and the much talked about "Lovely Jackson" about America's longest wrongfully held exonerated prisoner.

Other high profile films from the festival only had the in-person screening and off to their next festival screening in other parts of the world such as another favorite at the festival "Wild Beauty", the falconry film "Overland", "It's Spring...", the Festival opener "Sound of the Surf", and some films from Utah such as "Undiagnosed", "Scraps", "Prolycifyk" and "Erin McGrady".

There are some local filmmakers still in the Virtual Festival – viewers can still see Dan Fowlks' "Shred of Decency" and Caleb Sean Hatton's "La Plata del Real".

Caleb said, "Southern Utah is a great place, I lived in Cedar City for many years and have always loved the area."

There are even two horror films appear in a double feature just in time for Halloween in the vein of "Twilight Zone" or "Night Gallery": Joshua Morgan's work in progress "Children Of The Pines" about a young woman returning from college to discover a supernatural practice among her parents and Jacob Staudenmaier's "Double Blind" about a young woman dying of cancer who is offered an experimental new trial drug which may be causing paranoia.

The Virtual portal is open until October 31 at <https://watch.eventive.org/redrockfilmfestival>. Virtual passes are $40 online at <https://redrock-filmfestival.eventive.org/passes/buy> and viewers can see one feature-length program at a time for $10. The Red Rock Film Festival also announced a second section coming at the beginning of Winter.

Arts Council to honor Lisa Cretsinger with Art Award

by Sara Penny

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Cedar City and Iron County, you are cordially invited to the Cedar City Arts Council Social on Tuesday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m., in the upstairs Conference Room at the Heritage Center. This free public event showcases local artists and there will be refreshments provided by Pastry Pub.

This year's Art Award will be presented to Lisa Cretsinger for her many years of service in promoting art and music for our area. Lisa Cretsinger is the owner of Groovacious Records, Cedar City's very only independent full service record store.

Lisa Cretsinger has been at the forefront of promoting art and music from Portland to Cedar City and beyond.

This is her 33rd year selling music, a career that began in Portland, Oregon where she met Tim Cretsinger. They were soon married and opened their store in the Salem/Keizer area and moved the entire operation to Cedar City in 2000. She helped Tim with Groovefest for many years and continues to host art exhibits and music events at her store. Groovacious has always been a gathering place for music exploration and learning. She is also on the Board of the Iron County Acoustic Music Association.

Mini-grant recipient Laura Hall will also present her work for "Call Me Clay Z". She is an artist that loves creating in all mediums, in fact, She has had her sculptures, and her ceramic works on display in many different student exhibits at SUU, and at the Southern Utah Museum of Art. With this creativity and curiosity, Laura has created an educational ceramics organization in hopes that she will be able to develop an atmosphere of positive creativity that nurtures growth in the ceramic arts, while also empowering generations to come.

Liahona Barraclough, a proud member of Cedar City's music community, has been involved with and has volunteered at Gateway, CMS, CHS, SUU, Tuba Christmas, Cedar Valley Community Theatre, Orchestra of Southern Utah, and Cedar City Community Band. In the past, Liahona has had the opportunity to perform as a soloist with OSU and has had the privilege of being a Southern Utah Music Sterling Scholar Winner. Recently, Liahona and her husband DJ have moved their brass lesson studio and band instrument repair business, Brass Duo LLC, to Cedar City and are excited to be serving the excellent music programs here. She received a CCAC mini-grant and will be performing music for the social.

Also joining in the celebration and social is J.R. Jaramillo, who owns Deal Galaxy Guru Collectibles and Gifts. Thirty years ago, as a young entrepreneur, opened and closed what he thought was his dream shop, First & Goal Sports Cards & Comics. He never gave up the dream to open again, someday. After a 20 plus year career in Telecommunications & IT JR Jaramillo, wife Kathlyn, kids and grandkids now all call Cedar City home.

Fast forward to today, Deal Galaxy Guru recently completed its first Art Contest and celebrated its one year Anniversary! The dream of reopening a collectibles shop, once again, has come true, made even sweeter this time around with the support and partnership of JR's son, Joshua.

The Arts Council Socials are an opportunity to learn about local artists. This is a free public event. Easiest entry is the 2nd level of the parking terrace at 105 N. 100 East. The entrance is marked Festival Hall. Come and celebrate our local artists and arts community.

Gigs for even non-pros here

by Mary Anne Andersen

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

I don't know what you were doing on the evening of Thursday, October 13th, but let me tell you where we were. We were watching teachers, lawyers, students, accountants, mothers and fathers, doctors, and others play in a concert at the Heritage Theater. The occasion was the opening of the season for the Orchestra of Southern Utah, and it was a singular event. It was the world premiere of Braveship, a multi-media composition by Los Angeles composer Matt Cook. While the orchestra played beautiful movie music, illustrations of the narrative of a boy and his companions were projected on a large screen behind. It was a fantasy adventure of a recognizable genre, complete with flying ships, monsters, and close calls. Michael Bahr read the narrative in his best actor-trained manner. We were quite entertained.

The piece has a studio recording but Cook had not seen a live performance before that night. He was there and conducted one of the sections, and, we happen to know, was very pleased with the orchestra's performance. He even sprang for donuts for everyone in the orchestra.

Now as important as the premiere was, in our eyes the most important thing about the evening is that our respectable community orchestra provides opportunity for all of the above-named citizens to play their instruments. After years of lessons and practicing on the instruments of choice, non-pros have a place to join with others and do what they love.

And the chance to work with conductor Carylee Zwang is a real bonus. She is masterful—communicative and confident. It was community music at its best.

If you stayed home to watch "Midsomer Murders", too bad. It was a rerun.

The same type of thing happened two days later when we attended some of the showings of the Red Rock Film Festival. It wasn't Sundance, but directors were provided with a venue in which to show off their art of choice: film-making. We talked to one of the directors of a mini, animated short, and she smiled and nodded when I told what I felt about her work "Aurora". There is room in our world for those who just want to share their passions, their skills and experience, and we are privileged to support those concerts and showings.

If you stayed home to watch "Vera", too bad. It was a rerun.

Earlier in the day, we had been out to Red Acre Farm to see what local artists created in the way of scarecrows, both stuffed and living. The participants weren't professional designers or make-up artists, but the sunny autumn day, being around children who yelled, "Look! Ducks!", and eating Sara's warm cinnamon-sugar donuts were worth the 20-minute drive past harvested fields and shimmering yellow trees.

Our daughter talks about the peace and quiet of the stable where she boards her horses. I said it is because there is no evil there, just nature and innocent creatures. Same for Sara's farm. Although I'm not sure about that pig; he is really scary.

HALLOWEEN

by May Hunter

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

“When witches go riding, and black cats are seen, the moon laughs and whispers, ‘tis near Halloween.”

It’s nearing the end of October, and you can hear the sound of Halloween approaching. The crunch of fallen leaves as you step outside and the wind whistling just a little louder each day are the only signs you need. But we wouldn’t even be surprised if you heard the meow of a black cat (or two) as we creep closer to the creepiest holiday of them all.

Today, Americans and other people around the globe all celebrate Halloween joyously. Officially known to have started in the 18th century, the event still holds great significance. However, when it comes to the history of Halloween, Halloween history has been forgotten by many, most of whom never found it in the first place. At present, the event is more like a chance to trick-or-treat children and wear spooky costumes to frighten the people close to heart (as a joke). Originated as a spooky event, it is now full of fun and mischief thanks to the people who kept this tradition going!

The word “Halloween” comes from All Hallows Eve and means hallowed evening. Hundreds of years ago, people dressed up and went door-to-door, which is the origin of Halloween Costumes and “Trick-Or-Treating.”

As the leaves turn vibrant autumn shades, temperatures drop, and you start to pull out sweaters and jackets, it’s time to deck out your porch with pumpkins and get into the carving. Halloween celebrated on October 31st, is literally just around the corner, which means an evening of fun filled costumes, spooky treats, trick-or-treating, Halloween parties.

Halloween is thought to have roots in Christian beliefs and practices. Originally celebrated in Ireland and Scotland for centuries, Irish Immigrants took many Halloween customs to North America in the 19th century and then through American influence Halloween had spread to other countries by the late 20th and early 21st century, including mainland Europe. In Ireland and Scotland, the turnip has traditionally been carved during Halloween but immigrants to North America used the native pumpkin, which was both much softer and much larger, making it easier to carve than a turnip.

The American tradition of carving pumpkins is recorded in 1837 and was originally associated with harvest time in general, not becoming specifically associated with Halloween until the mid-to-late 19th century. Halloween history dates back to about 2000 years ago. Initially started in what is now known as Ireland, the festival rapidly spread to other parts of the globe, as a highly “Fantastic Event”.

One of the earliest works on the subject of Halloween is the from Scottish poet, John Mayne, who, in

ICSD NEWS NUGGETS

from LeAnn Woolstenhulme

IRON COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Parowan Elementary

Wow! What a beautiful Fall season. The Kindergarten, Third and Sixth Graders at Parowan Elementary took advantage of this wonderful weather for some amazing outdoor activities. On Thursday, October 13th, the third grade traveled to the Dutch Cowboy Dairy for one exciting adventure to learn about the agriculture of Iron County. With nearly 5,000 cows at the dairy, students had an exciting learning opportunity about our milk industry in Iron County. Students loaded the bus and headed to Brian Head Point and the Ashdown Gorge Wilderness Trail for an exciting hike. Mr. Burton decided he is getting too old for this, but he made it. Students learned about the different life zones and the changing of seasons, as well as the geography of the area.

The Kindergarten, Third and Sixth Graders also enjoyed a fast trip to Hidden Haven. It was the annual visit to Hidden Haven. Students in Ms. Adams, Mrs. Contrys, Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Johnson, and Mr. Burton's classes teamed up to have an exciting adventure into the beautiful outdoor classroom up Parowan Canyon. Mr. Blauer, and Mrs. Cecil's Sixth grade went on their own. Hidden Haven will always be a special place for students at Parowan Elementary. If you go to hike Hidden Haven, please be careful, the rains in July and August once again washed out much of the lower trail and path to the waterfall. Thank you Third and Sixth Graders. You are incredible.

Iron Springs Elementary

Every month Iron Springs Elementary holds an IRON Assembly where we focus on learning how to show Integrity, Respect, Ownership and acting promptly (Now). This year the focus is on respect and the different areas in our life where respect is needed. This month the focus was on respect in the classroom. Students learned that being aware of the environment around them, evaluating how their own actions affect others, being on time and listening all play an important role in showing respect. As students show these various behaviors they earn punches on an IRON card and the cards are entered into a monthly drawing. As part of the IRON Assembly students' names can be drawn to win a prize for their classroom, lunch with the principal and an IRON shirt.

Three Peaks Elementary

Many of our Three Peaks Elementary classes have enjoyed visits to the Judd Pumpkin Patch this fall. The Pumpkin Patch is 2.5 acres and is full of different varieties of pumpkins, located in the small town of Paragonah nestled next to a beautiful mountain range. Students learned about how pumpkins grow and were able to choose a "just right" pumpkin to pick off the vine to take home. The students enjoyed a wagon ride driven by a restored 1944 Farmall H tractor. The ride lasted about 30 minutes and gave a tour of the hay fields and neighboring farms.

Students also got to visit and pet some farm animals if they wanted to; pigs, cows, goats, and horses. Class pictures were taken in front of a giant pumpkin at the end of the trip. Thank you for this fun and educational opportunity for our students.

The PTA is sponsoring a Trunk or Treat (weather permitting) on Thursday, October 27, from 6-8 pm. Costumes are encouraged.

East Elementary

We hope you had a great fall break! Last week 4th grade Dual Immersion classes at East Elementary enjoyed wonderful autumn weather at Snow Canyon while they learned about geology, plants and animal structures, habitats and roles in the environment. They had a great time and came away with a lot of learning and fun memories.

This week we are celebrating Red Ribbon Week and embracing the theme of, "Celebrate Life! Live Drug Free!" Many thanks to our fabulous PTA for their help in ensuring our students have the knowledge to make decisions that will enable them to live successful and healthy lives!

Next Monday we will be holding our annual Halloween parade on the 2nd and 3rd grade playground. The parade will begin at 2:30. Parents are invited to attend. Please ensure that your child's costume meets the following requirements: No full-face masks, gore, weapons, oversized costumes that would prevent your child or another from participating in a typical school day, or costumes that don't meet the student dress code.

As the weather is turning colder our lost and found is being overwhelmed with coats and jackets. Please make sure that your child's outerwear is labeled with his/her full name.

Enoch Elementary

Enoch's 2nd graders visited Staheli Family Farm. They learned about the characteristics of plants and animals, like what a pumpkin seed needs to grow. They also explored agriculture and where food comes from. The teachers were so appreciative of the support of Staheli Farm in offering hands-on, exciting learning experiences for students.

Fiddlers Canyon Elementary

We are in the middle of Red Ribbon Week at Fiddlers Canyon Elementary and are having a great time seeing all the fun theme days. Don't forget that students can wear costumes on Monday for our Halloween parade from 9:30-10.

Entries for the Reflections art contest are due Friday, November 4. Head to utapta.org/ref for more information or contact Marianne Porter (marianneporter@gmail.com) if you have questions.

Our next PTA meeting will be Wednesday, November 9 at 2:30 pm at the school. We hope to see lots of parents there to help us keep making school fun for students.

Watch for more information coming about Career Day November 22. You can stay up-to-date on all the events and highlights from our school by following the Fiddlers Canyon Elementary PTA page on Facebook.

Escalante Valley Elementary

Our 4th grade scientists at Escalante Valley Elementary were asked to design a model that would demonstrate how light can travel around a corner. Students were placed in groups and given a box (which simulated a maze), mirrors, and a laser beam. From there, students tried to figure out how they could shine the laser into a hole at one end of the box and make the light exit the hole at the opposite end of the maze. The lesson concluded as students reflected in their science journals about their experience and provided evidence of knowledge gained through this hands-on activity.

South Elementary

South Elementary has had many grade levels take advantage of the perfect weather we have been having lately, and have enjoyed it through field trips they have taken. The fifth-grade classes were able to tour Mammoth caves last week and enjoy the pretty leaves along with their field trip. Many of the first-grade classes were able to visit a pumpkin patch this week and were able to bring home a pumpkin just in time for Halloween. This first quarter of school has really flown by. It is hard to believe we are already a week into the second quarter. South Elementary students are looking forward to their Red Ribbon week starting next week and all the fun activities that they get to participate in to help them remember to stay away from harmful drugs. With all the fun activities going on at South, it is also fun to know that the students and teachers are having fun trying to accomplish the academic goals they have set this year in each of their subject areas.

Community event features important information for parents

from Shauna Lund

ICSD COMMUNICATIONS & FOUNDATION COORDINATOR

Parents are invited to learn more about important topics like internet safety, suicide prevention and mental wellness during the community night featuring Chad Hymas on Oct. 26.

Community partners including Iron County Care and Share, Southwest Tech, Southwest Behavioral Health and Southern Utah University STEM will be providing important information and answering questions from parents beginning at 6 p.m. at Cedar High School, 703 W. 600 South. The event is free to the public and includes handouts from those community partners and a prize drawing for all who attend. Prizes include Apple AirPods,

Chad Hymas

COURTESY CHAD HYMAS

Apple Watch, Chromebook, Beats headphones and a Google Nest.

Chad Hymas will begin speaking at 6:30 p.m., following the community partner open house. Hymas shares his story of overcoming difficulties and moving forward with a positive attitude. On April 3, 2001, a one-ton bale of hay changed Chad Hymas' life. On that night Hymas became a quadriplegic. But he did not let that moment paralyze him.

Hymas' message that night includes how to have a happier family life with mental awareness. He considers his greatest accomplishments to be remaining a devoted husband and father of four children. Additionally, he continues to run a 5,100 acre elk farm in Rush Valley. His message will inspire all who hear it.

"What you tell yourself every day will either lift you up or tear you down," Hymas says.

1780, made note of pranks at Halloween. "What fearful' pranks ensure", as well as the supernatural associated with the night, "Bogies" (ghosts), influencing Robert Burns "Halloween" 1788 element of autumn seasons, such as pumpkins, corn husks, and scarecrows, also are popular.

Homes are often decorated with these symbols around Halloween. Halloween imagery includes themes of monsters, black cats, which have been long associated with witches, also a common symbol of Halloween. Black, orange, and sometimes purple are Halloween's traditional colors.

Halloween is the time of year to look forward to. There is a lot to anticipate, from planning spine-tingling parties to spooky decor.

Regardless of your age, or your stage in life, the "October Holiday" does not get old. No matter how many times you have had the opportunity to celebrate the spooky day, you still don't want to miss out.

Halloween is celebrated across North America by the majority of (candy-loving, costume-wearing) people. And this year, once again, we'll all be enjoying our favorite candy and admiring our neighbors decorations on October 31—and the only spooky spirits we'll be talking about are the witch and ghost costumes our friends are wearing. Halloween is just plain fun, and that's what it should be. "Halloween is not only about putting on a costume, but it's about finding the imagination and costume within ourselves."

A Boy's Life

As promised, here is a Rockwell rut just for the boys, guys, men, etc. Last week Rockwell and I attempted our best combined efforts and covered about .001 percent about what life is like for a girl. This week, we'll cover .002 percent. I'm confident about the increase because I think I know more about being a guy—for the most part—though I'm still learning how to be the best man I can be. Thankfully, I've had some very good examples to follow. Even the bad ones have taught and helped me not just to be a better man, but a better person.

Isn't that the point of life, to keep learning and becoming better? As is often quoted, it's not the destination, it's the journey. And no matter who you are, the greatest journey of life—with all its ups and downs—is not just to be yourself, or find yourself, but to become your best self by creating your best self. Don't just improv your way through life, improve your life each day.

Alright, so as boys (no matter the age) how do we improve ourselves? Rockwell provides a good idea of where to start—at home. He covers the necessary basics of rest, hygiene and breakfast...including the iconic dog—everybody needs a true friend to provide comfort, encouragement and accountability/responsibility in life.

As the day progress, Rockwell illustrates what frustrates young boys (and older boys too!) and that includes homework (school) and home work (chores) which used to have to be done before watching TV, but with technology today, one can do both simultaneously. Though the jury is out about the benefits vs. burdens of added distractions. And of course dating is a difficult time for boys (and girls) as they attempt to navigate the waters of romance and responsibility. Again, much more difficult today with the internet providing counterfeit “short-cuts” to skip the Birds and Bees conversations and view the world's version of virtue acted out—sleaze with the ease of a point and click. Sadly, lewd lessons lead to complexities and casualties from casual dating to marriage.

Another arena of both triumph and frustration for boys (girls) is sports. I've experienced memorable victories and agonizing defeats on both basketball and tennis courts. Yes, I've even got a few video games that kept me up a few nights learning to beat the boss, triumph over the record time, or discover the hidden treasure. I know some girls that are great at video games too!

The bottom line is that you can apply almost every charge and challenge to both boys and girls. The point isn't to point out every prospect specific to certain genders or genres, but to remind each of us that life is not defined by oppositions, failures or successes, but by striving to live the best life we can together—complementing, not competing. What better legacy to leave in life than knowing you loved and were loved.

LET IT SNOW

mom's
CORNER(ED)

by Weslie Stratton

CONTRIBUTOR

We saw the first snowflakes of the season Sunday afternoon and, naturally, my kids wanted to run outside and play. Four years wise, my oldest girl thought ahead for shoes and socks. Her older brother was in too big of a hurry for such details and left the house in shorts, a t-shirt and bare feet. To his credit, the two lasted the same amount of time before coming inside to beg for cocoa.

This storm didn't produce enough to stick for longer than a few minutes, but when it does I will be prepared with full snow gear for my little snow bunnies. Outfitted with bibs, insulated coats, thick socks under waterproof boots, mittens and warm hats, toddlers are more work during winter months than any other time of year!

Whether they're eating it, rolling in it, throwing it, mixing it or building with it, snow is about as much fun as a kid can stand. For 10-15 minutes at a time.

In my experience, parents spend more time prepping for snow play than a kid actually spends playing in the snow!

The last couple of years have taught me a thing or two about the whole concept that I will gladly share.

The following are Weslie Stratton's rules for smooth winter fun:

- » Start with a good solid meal. Think warm mac and cheese or oatmeal (if they will eat it).
- » Prep a good snack for when they come in starving (this will free you up for all the time it takes to strip off and care for a pile of wet snow clothes).
- » Make everyone take a trip to the restroom before dressing for cooler temps. Even if they just went! Trust me on this one.
- » Dress in warm, flexible clothes as a base layer. This creates the ability for the uncoordinated to run and jump without being bound up by jeans under the heavy outer layer.
- » Be prepared to adjust the many discomforts that arise by this situation. (My mitten came off, my sleeve is bunched up, my socks are wet, my knee itches, I can't twist the doorknob, etc.)

There are endless other tips that will be unique to your kids but these few will help your days of snow play run just a little smoother.

Enjoy the beauty of the season and the many memories made!

He created them male and female prophets (Part 4)

by Edy Meredith

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Hebrew word for "prophet" is nabi from the verb naba meaning "to call". A nabi is called by God to speak for God and to warn humans about future events, but more importantly to bring God's people out of sinful living. The feminine form is nebiah, meaning female prophet or prophetess. Prophets (plural) is nebiim.

Because ancient Hebrew is a gendered language and in a mixed group even when only one male prophet is present, grammar demands that the plural noun be masculine, it is difficult to identify all of the female prophets in the Biblical scriptures. Estimates of their number range from seven to nine with both male and female prophets possessing the same spectrum of special God-given gifts.

The frequently repeated phrase, "Thus says YHWH" identifies the prophets as men and women who had access to God and spoke on God's behalf to direct, chastise, prophesize, and predict the future in explaining God's plan to and for His people and His creation. The calling of prophet was a respected place and position in ancient Israel (although even the respected and beloved Isaiah by tradition is believed to have been killed by being sawed in half). It could also be a dangerous job when God's word chastised the powerful. I will not attempt to name all the prophetesses, but here are some of them.

Miriam is the first women to be given the title of nebiah/neviah when the Bible records her song in Exodus 15. Miriam was the older sister of Moses the lawgiver and of Aaron the high priest. All three were prophets and leaders. In Micah 6:4 for reminds Judah of their leadership: "For I brought you up from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slavery; and I sent before you Moses, Aaron, and Miriam". Miriam is mentioned in five books of the Hebrew Bible where she is recorded as a highly respected, prophetess, and leader even if all her prophetic actions and messages are not recorded.

Deborah is the only female judge and prophetess in the book of Judges. "Now Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, was judging Israel at that time...And the children of Israel came up to her for judgment." She said to Barak, "Has not the Lord God of Israel commanded, 'Go and deploy troops at Mount Tabor; take with you ten thousand men ... and I will deliver him into your hand?'" (Judges 4:4-8). Obviously, Deborah was not a fearful female in speaking for God to military men. For additional prophetesses, please refer to 2 Kings 22:8-20 and 2 Chronicles 34:1-28 to read about Huldah who was well known and respected by Josiah, a godly king, who asked her to inquire of the Lord for directions. Noadiah, another prophetess, is also mentioned by name in a short prayer uttered by Nehemiah in an incident recorded in Nehemiah 6:14.

In the New Testament in Acts 2:17-18 on the Day of Pentecost Peter emphasized the ministry of prophecy: "And in the last days, God

He Always Wins (Matt Hammitt)

Whether you play sports, video games, board games, currently compete or have competed in other competitions, when was the last time you were undefeated? Are there athletes (or teams) that are currently considered undefeated? Will they remain so forever?

Regardless of records, scores and wins, winning doesn't get easier and neither does the agony of defeat. It's always heartbreaking when a hometown team loses a big game. It's tough to know that all your hard (and heart) work you put in to win seems to have ended. You wonder how you'll ever endure the off-season until you get another shot to reclaim your reign. It's especially difficult for individual sports because the burden of the loss may fall harder upon the bat, racket, arm, hands or foot of a friend.

Nevertheless, you are never alone in your victories and certainly never in your individual defeats. Whether they are physical, emotional, educational, parental, marital, or spiritual, etc. know that the Lord, your Redeemer is also your Rescuer (Psalm 34:18-19) and Comforter (2 Corinthians 1:3-4, Psalm 147:3). You really can relay your worries and fears to the ears and heart of God and your Savior. And really rely upon Their tender mercies to bring peace to your broken pieces (1 Peter 5:7).

GOD'S playlist

Also, while I couldn't find a specific verse to verify the familiar phrase, there are songs and sermons that talk about laying (or casting) our burdens at the foot of the cross. May I humbly, and firmly affirm that Christ is not on the cross anymore. He is not in the tomb, or the Garden of Gethsemane. As Matthew 28:6 declares, "He is not here. He has risen, just as He said!"

And because He has risen, He conquered the greatest opponent, Death—which was also undefeated until that miraculous moment! And because Christ won the victory of sin and death, we can win, too (1 Corinthians 15:55-57)! Thus, because Christ is undefeated, He is the only one who can promise us, "Come unto me ALL who are weary and burdened and I will give you rest (Matthew 11:28, Psalm 55:22).

So, if you feel like a loser today, or if you feel like you are losing the fight and perhaps have been for so long, keep fighting, (2 Timothy 4 7, 16-18), keep pressing forward. Even if you feel like you've already lost and the cost is too great to overcome, the game of life isn't over yet! Christ will give you strength (Philippians 4:13).

If you're still breathing, there's still time left on the clock. (James 1:12) counsels you to remain steadfast (not perfect) and (Galatians 6:9) promises you will reap a harvest if you don't give up. If you feel like you have given up, look up and reach up to God. He is reaching out to you. We all stumble but His hands are ready to steady us, or pick us back up, even turn our soreness into soaring (Isaiah 40:30-31).

"HIS HAND IN MINE"

"These poems capture who I am. They are written with a prayerful hand, and are inspired from above. It is my hope that all who read them will be edified, find comfort, and feel God's love."

My Day

by L. Brent Jones

*The clock rolls 'round to six A.M.,
I wake up to its beep.
I try to turn it off in vain,
To catch some added sleep.*

*I force myself to start my day,
And then I wonder why.
What choices will I have to make,
And should I even try?*

*Then wisdom fills my conscience mind,
As decisions become bright.
I need to choose what brings me joy,
So I can sleep at night.*

*I cannot choose the easy path,
All filled with downward slopes.
For life should build my confidence,
To succeed in all my hopes.*

*I realize that in my day,
Many crossroads will I find.
And when I choose a certain road,
There are consequences that bind.*

*So when I come to choose which way,
I listen to my inner voice.
And if I heed its whispering call,
I'll make the proper choice.*

*And when the day is over,
And I lay down to my rest,
I can take pride in what's accomplished,
Because I've done my very best.*

Cedar City Episcopal Church calls all to come walk the labyrinth

by Kylie Leavitt

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Once a month, the Cedar City Episcopal Church opens their doors to anyone who wants to walk their indoor labyrinth, regardless of their religion. The church is located on 70th N and 200 W. The next walk will be held Saturday the 29th (Noon to 2pm).

Labyrinths can be found all around the world and have existed for nearly 4,000 years. They represent the walk of life, and many who walk them are seeking an escape from their daily lives. They have been used by many different religious groups in many ways, including as a solar or lunar calendar.

The Episcopal Church says that the labyrinth, "Offers us a way of journeying inward, to a sacred, quiet place in our own minds and hearts. It is a place to journey inward, to abandon the busyness of modern life, and (for a time at least), to escape the pressures of the world we live in."

The labyrinth is used as a form of meditation. As you walk it, you will never come to a point where you will be asked to make a decision, like a maze. Instead, you will follow a path that has been carved for you, and there is no right or wrong way to proceed. As you come upon the turns in the labyrinth, it is up to you to decide how to navigate them. You will find that while you find your way to navigate these turns, others, who are on the same path as you, will navigate them differently, much like how we navigate changes and trials in life.

Some people enter the labyrinth with a prayer or question in their hearts that they are seeking an answer to. Some come to practice breathing and clear their minds. The walk is deeply personal, and with each walk you will discover something new about life.

COREY BAUMGARTNER

The uniquely tiled floor in the Cedar City Episcopal Church contains a beautiful Labyrinth for all to walk within and gain peace and insight.

You may realize something about your own path and that everyone walks life differently. Whatever, the realization, there are no wrong take aways.

Volunteer Junior Warden for the Episcopal church, Jim Thomas, shared this experience he had while walking the labyrinth. He said, "While walking the labyrinth, normally, I just meditate quietly. On this one occasion, I decided to stop at each bend in the labyrinth and visualize healing for people I knew were sick or suffering. Each time I did this, I saw (in my thoughts), a flowing waterfall in that person's heart or chest. It was not any kind of vision, just a clear thought. After completing the labyrinth, I felt a sense of gratitude, as though I had been granted with a brief privilege that was very special."

The labyrinth is a beautiful place to come experience peace and gain personal insight. You can walk the labyrinth in whatever way is the most beneficial to you—barefoot, with shoes, slow, fast, alone, with others, and there is even an option for people who are unable to walk to trace a wooden labyrinth with their finger. There is something for all who choose to walk the labyrinth.

LUNT RUN PUSHES REDS INTO SECOND ROUND

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

It wasn't exactly an artistic masterpiece, but Koden Lunt knew his team had enough left in the defensive tank to hold on and advance in the 4A state football playoffs.

Lunt scored on a 6-yard run late in the first quarter, and the Cedar Reds made the stops when they mattered in a 7-0 victory over the Logan Grizzlies on Oct. 21. The Reds broke a three-game losing streak and improved to 4-6 overall.

"Our guys showed a lot of heart there and I'm super proud of them," Cedar head coach Josh Bennett said. "It came down to defensive stops, and we'll fix some things offensively. We're a lot better than we showed. We had a great game plan and the kids executed it."

Logan (5-6) had its best scoring opportunity late in the second quarter, but missed a 23-yard field goal. Cedar had its best chance to put the game away in the fourth quarter when they drove to the Grizzlies' 31-yard line, but Lunt lost two yards on fourth down to give Logan one last shot to tie with 2:37 left and no timeouts.

Behind the running of sophomore

Tytan Mason and junior quarterback Keaton Pond, the Grizzlies drove from their own 33 to the Cedar 8, but a fourth-down pass attempt was dropped and fell incomplete with 51 seconds remaining. When Lunt knelt twice, the Reds finished the win and advanced to the quarterfinals.

"I didn't play very well, but we'll get better (on offense) for next week," said Lunt, who overcame two interceptions. "Our defense played amazing today."

Cedar earned a rematch Friday with Crimson Cliffs, the No. 1 seed and Region 10 champion. The Mustangs beat the Reds, 48-24, in the regular-season finale on Oct. 14, but Bennett said the playoffs are a chance for his team to rebound.

"We're going to have to play a good game," Bennett said. "We're going to look at film and correct some things we need to fix. Everyone is 0-0 and on a level playing field right now. We get another opportunity and we've got a week to make the corrections we need to make."

The playoff win over Logan was Cedar's lowest-scoring victory since the Reds beat Hurricane, 6-0, on Sept. 20, 2013.

Close game challenges continue for T-Birds in home loss to Stephen F. Austin

by Regan Hunsaker
ASSISTANT AD, SUU SPORTS INFORMATION

CEDAR CITY — The Thunderbirds took to the field this Saturday for a conference matchup with WAC opponent Stephen F. Austin. The Lumberjacks and the T-Birds battled up and down the field but eventually the team from Texas secured a 41-38 victory.

The opening drive for the T-Birds started with a 62-yard rush by Braedon Wissler. The run led to a 1-yard touchdown pass from Justin Miller to Brennon Hutchings. SFA Answered back in the next drive with a fake punt that ran for 40 yards. The Lumberjacks capitalized on the big play, finishing the drive on a 3-yard touchdown run by Lance Rikel. After a couple plays in the following drive by the Thunderbirds, Jake Gerardi booted a punt 73-yards for a touchback to give the ball back to SFA. The next time that Southern Utah had the ball Justin Miller would find Steve Jenkins for a 37-yard touchdown pass to give the Thunderbirds back the lead but the extra point was blocked making the score 13-7 with just over two minutes to play in the first.

To begin the second quarter the Lumberjacks quarterback Trae Self Found Xavier Gipson on a 24-yard pass to tie it up and the extra point gave SFA the 14-13 lead. The Next drive for Southern Utah didn't go far and the tough wind made its presence felt as Gerardi's punt didn't travel much and gave SFA a short field. The Lumberjacks went 40 yards and punched the ball in on a 3-yard pass from Self to Moe Wedman.

Stephen F. Austin elected to onside the kick after the score and recovered it on their own 46 yard-line. The first play from scrimmage in the drive was a 54-yard touchdown pass from Self to Gipson. The Thunderbirds started the next drive on their own 25 yard-line and marched quickly down rush. The Lumberjacks defense looked to have Southern Utah stopped but, on a 4th, and 5 Miller scrambled and picked up a much needed first down. The T-Birds continued to march down but with time expiring had to settle for a Micah Pettit 24-yard field goal.

The Thunderbirds started the second half with the ball and despite losing some yards on the first play, Miller found Isaiah Wooden near the line of scrimmage at their own 24 yard-line. Wooden kick was true and gave the Thunderbirds a 32-28 lead. The Lumberjacks next drive went all the way down and into the red zone before stalling Chris Campos came on to hit a 37-yard field goal with the wind in his face.

Going into the fourth quarter the Thunderbirds held the 32-31 lead but the Lumberjacks were driving. The Southern Utah defense forced Stephen F. Austin to try for a 44-yard field goal which sailed just left of the uprights. The next time to score again with just under four minutes on a 17-yard end around by Isaiah Wooden. Southern Utah decided to try for two but Miller's pass to Marcus Phillips fell incomplete, making the score 19-28. When SFA got the ball back, once again with good field position, they tried for a long ball that was intercepted in the end zone by Quadir Lockett-Smith. Wissler got the Thunderbird drive started with a 30-yard broke several tackles and ran the ball 76 yards to the end zone. Pettit added the extra point giving the Thunderbirds the lead 29-28. On the following SFA drive the defense stepped up and forced a three and out. Because of the wind the Lumberjacks punt only traveled 5 yards giving the T-Birds a short field. SFA's defense held and Southern Utah was forced to send Pettit out to attempt the long 49-yard field goal. Pettit's

SUU's Braedon Wissler didn't let the wild wind or the SFA defense keep him from trying to get the T-Birds back in the win column.

Campos would get a chance he put it through from 31 yards out giving SFA a late lead. The Thunderbirds bounced right back though when Brandon Wissler ran the ball into the end zone from 27 yards out. The Lumberjacks weren't done though as Self found Gipson for a big 35-yard pass and then took the ball the rest of the way a couple plays later to make the score

Don't write checks your team can't cash

Before the 2022 Major League Baseball season began, Los Angeles Dodgers manager Dave Roberts appeared on "The Dan Patrick Show" on March 24 and made this prediction a full 10 days before the regular season.

"We are winning the World Series in 2022... We will win the World Series this year, put it on record," Roberts said.

After winning 106 games in 2021 and netting only a National League wild card, they got as far as the NL Championship Series before losing to the Atlanta Braves in six games. In 2022, they topped the effort by winning 111 games, but with a new playoff system in place, tragedy struck.

The Dodgers got beat in the Division Series, losing to the San Diego Padres, 3 games to 1.

You remember the night of Oct. 15, right? L.A. led Game 4 in San Diego, 3-0 after scoring a run in the top of the seventh inning. Game 5 was in sight, but the Dodgers still had to get nine outs to secure it. They wouldn't last the bottom of the seventh.

Juan Soto, who the Padres acquired from the Washington Nationals on Aug. 2, singled to drive in the tying run. With two out, Jake Cronenworth came through with a two-run single that left the Dodgers shell-shocked and stunned.

The 111-game winners would go down in order in both the eighth and ninth and could only watch helplessly as the Padres and their fans celebrated the team's first appearance in the NLCS since 1998. Josh Hader, who was acquired from the Milwaukee Brewers on Aug. 2, came through with the save in all three wins against the Dodgers.

Kenley Jansen left L.A. for free-agency money with the Atlanta Braves, and they lost to the Philadelphia Phillies in the NLDS. A 101-win regular season meant squat in the big picture.

Now only one year into the new MLB playoff system that features an extra wild card, and there's weeping in the baseball universe over the change. It was bad enough that the regular season was delayed a week because of the lockout, but now we have a postseason that will be extended well into November.

The 2001 Seattle Mariners had 116 wins in the regular-season, but couldn't get past the New York Yankees in the ALCS. At least that team got further than the 2022 Dodgers did.

Here's a tip on this whole bit of madness. Maybe stop relying strictly on analytics and math geeks come playoff time. Without risks, there's no reward in the end.

Back on the home front since we weren't here last week, a salute to the Cedar and Canyon View boys golf teams is in order. Both advanced to Day 2 of the state tournament as a full group.

In the 4A tournament that was played at Sky Mountain in Hurricane on Oct. 12 and 13, the Reds were consistent for the full 36 holes and finished tied for fifth with Sky View, three strokes behind Dixie with a two-day total of 633. Braylon Bingham was the top Cedar golfer, finishing tied for ninth at 8-over par 152 with Hurricane's Michael Stirland and Jarren Phillips of Crimson Cliffs.

From the 3A tournament played at Cove View in Richfield, the Falcons made the cut for Day 2 by two strokes over Grand and finished 10th overall with a two-day effort of 695. Senior Jack Vickers was the highest finisher, tied for 13th at 11-over 155.

State volleyball brackets have been released for 2A and 3A, and the Parowan Rams are clearly the team to beat. The Rams had a 23-game winning streak snapped by Kanab on Oct. 11, but won its final two matches to earn the top seed.

Parowan will open the tournament Friday against the Beaver Beavers at Sevier Valley Center in Richfield starting at 4 p.m. A win advances them to a quarterfinal showdown against the Maeser Prep-North Sevier winner at 7 p.m.

Two more wins are required to hold the big trophy, and the 2A final will be played Saturday night at 8 p.m. at the SVC.

Canyon View finished the regular season as the No. 10 seed for the 3A playoffs and advanced to the second round where they'll face the No. 7 seed North Sanpete Hawks at 5:30 p.m. at the UCCU Center in Orem.

Cedar's final RPI ranking and the 4A state volleyball bracket will be released by the UHSAA today and playoff matches begin Friday at the UCCU Center.

Cedar's girls basketball team will be hosting the Junior Reds basketball clinics starting this Saturday, Oct. 29 for boys and girls in kindergarten through second grade. The clinic will run from 9 to 10 a.m. in the CHS main gym for six weeks, and the cost is $40 per person, which includes a camp T-shirt. Registration starts at 8:30 a.m. on the 29th.

Contact Cedar girls basketball coach Corry Nielsen for more information at 592-1415.

T-BIRDS

41-38. Southern Utah drove their next possession 64-yards but a missed 26-yard field goal gave the ball back to the Lumberjacks with a lead and just over two minutes to go in the game. A big 54-yard rush by Jerrell Wimply all but sealed the victory as SFA hung on to win it.

The Lumberjacks offense was anchored by receiver Xavier Gipson who put up a record 256 yards in the air and 2 touchdowns. Quarterback Trae Self was 18-29 on the game and added 44 rushing yards.

Justin Miller finished the game 23-34 with 297 yards and 3 Touchdowns. Braedon Wissler became the first T-Bird to rush for over 100-yards in a game this season finishing with 155 and a touchdown. Isaiah Wooden continued to rack up yards with 132 in the air and a 17-yard rushing touchdown.

It was Trent Whalen who stepped up for the T-Birds on defense picking up 18 total tackles including 8 that were solo tackles. Kohner Cullimore added 8 tackles of his own. Roderick Ward finished with 7 tackles from the defensive back position while Rylen Sua-Filofinished with 6 on the line.

Coach Fitzgerald said of the loss, "we didn't execute in this game. We got out played on Special teams all four quarters and we didn't contain Gipson." Coach added, speaking of the conference, "There isn't much of a difference between the best team in the conference and the worst team." The Thunderbirds will still have two more games against conference opponents but due to Sam Houston's reclassification that game will not count toward conference standings. The second matchup of the season with Utah Tech also will not count in the WAC standings.

The Thunderbirds head to the bye week looking to end a skid of close game losses. They will be back in action at Utah Tech on November 5th in St. George.
