SUU at record enrollment of over 13,000

from David Bishop

SUU DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

Southern Utah University's student population now exceeds 13,000, a new record for the university. According to third-week enrollment data released by the Utah System of Higher Education (USHE), SUU grew at a faster rate than every other degree-granting public university in the state.

"These growth figures represent the hard work of a dedicated team at SUU. Faculty, staff, administration and students all have a hand in our strategic growth plan," said SUU interim president Mindy Benson. "This past year has been especially challenging because of the on-going impact of COVID and a housing shortage in Cedar City and throughout the state.

To achieve this level of growth is really a testament to our university community."

TO THE EDITOR

Trickle down or opened floodgates?

It's opened floodgates. "Trickle Down" is a Democrat negative misnomer. The truth is every time the wealthy buy another mansion or yacht or an airplane it creates jobs. Banks get involved, workers build it and companies insure it. All kinds of companies and workers are involved. If the rich invest in new development or expand their business it creates more jobs. Some of those workers then save their money and go on to become business owners themselves and the beat goes on, and on and so on.

That's why I am not in favor of punishing the rich with unfair taxation. Even filthy-rich Democrats like Bill Gates, Mark Zuckerberg, Jack Dorsey and Jeff Bezos create millions of jobs. I'm a Republican and I say more power to them for creating wealth for the whole country. Of course, I don't like their censoring policies but that's another story.

I want a sales tax and a flat tax that gives us the money we need to get out of debt, then lower both. That way everyone pays taxes and no one gets to cheat.

Capitalism is a structured system in place open to everyone but it doesn't do outreach. People have to be educated, understand how it works and believe in it. The problem is our present national education system is one of the worst compared to even poorer countries. It's not your mom and dad's schooling. Too many schools are teaching capitalism doesn't work, minorities are oppressed victims and passing students who have low scores in the basics. It's Democrat ideology over faith in American values.

How much!?

COREY BAUMGARTNER
MANAGING EDITOR

When I read Edy Meredith's column in this week's Faith section, I was taken aback momentarily by a question she asked concerning how many starving children throughout the world could be fed and housed using the monies spent on famous works of art and literature.

She wrote about the recent auctioning of 11 works by Picasso being sold in Las Vegas for $110 million dollars. I wasn't too surprised as I've been commentating on Norman Rockwell paintings for the past year and one of his paintings, Saying Grace, sold for around $46 million dollars. Then there's Bill Gates who bought one of Da Vinci's notebooks for around $30 million and the infamous Mona Lisa is valued at $860 million dollars. Oh, remember that one guy that wrote plays, Shakespeare? His folios are worth millions.

What's my point? My point is that Edy then asks, "How are we all using our resources, time, and talent to provide for other humans?" That's a question worthy of several columns and conversations. Do you have stories about hometown heroes using their time, talents and treasures to help others? Please share them with us at news@ironcountytoday.com.

May the odds be ever in our favor

Bryan Gray is a syndicated contributor to, not an employee of, this newspaper. His opinions are solely his own and not of Iron County Today.

You can bet on it...The odds are 100% that I'll never become a convent nun...That I'll never climb Mount Kilimanjaro...That I'll never register for an Iron Man competition...And that I'll never call Ted Bundy my hero. The odds are almost as high (99.99%) that I'll never eat an eel, wrestle with an alligator, become a coal miner, eat every meal for a year at McDonald's, or wear Spanx.

Here's another set of odds: Despite interest from a number of donors and elected officials, no one will defeat Sen. Mike Lee in next year's election.

There is a rising political chatter. A friend of mine is willing to donate "what it takes" to replace Lee with former presidential candidate Evan McMullin. Another friend has held a neighborhood meeting to introduce his friends to announced contender Becky Edwards. Several weeks ago, one of the founders of Mormon Women for Ethical Government urged Utahns to donate to and support the Edwards campaign saying we need "a proven track record as a unifier who would best represent the people, interests, and values of Utah."

All the noise is great water cooler talk for those who engage in politics. But the odds of successfully unseating Lee are as high as me donating to the Ku Klux Klan. The challengers are good people, but....

McMullin's chances hang on convincing the Democratic Party to endorse him on an independent ticket and stop any other Utahn from appearing on the Democrat side of the ballot. That simply won't happen, even though many promi-

bgray@aplhagraphics.com

"Despite interest from a number of donors and elected officials, no one will defeat Sen. Mike Lee in next year's election."

nent Democrats agree with the concept. McMullin ran a strong independent campaign in 2018 but was still easily crushed by the Trump voters.

Trump will call McMullin a pathetic RINO (Republican in Name Only) and, considering that the majority of Utah Republicans still think Biden is an imposter president, McMullin will be roadkill for an angry GOP.

Edwards is smart and likeable. The daughter-in-law of BYU legend LaVell Edwards, she might pull her weight if the race were limited to Salt Lake and Davis counties. But the odds are 100% she would lose among the ultra-conservative convention delegates and she would be a decided underdog in a statewide Republican primary where women have not fared well.

A third candidate, Ally Isom, is little known outside of political circles and has already outraged some potential donor by "advertising" her connection to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Lee, an elephant, would squash Isom, a political gnat.

Honestly, I would vote for any of the three challengers. To me, Mike Lee's comment comparing Donald Trump to Captain Moroni was enough to disqualify him from being a serious human being, let alone his stubbornness in paying the country's legal debts, a move that in 2011 cost taxpayers an estimated $1.3 billion. His professed "fiscal restraint" didn't apply to his inability to make his own house payment and while he portrays himself as a "constitutionalist" I view him as a partisan "obstructionist" with the cold demeanor of a granite countertop.

But in a very "red" state, close ties with rich right-wing donor PACs, and the obvious hesitancy for other Republican officials to criticize their own incumbent, you pencil in Mike Lee for another six years. Bet on it!

by Ashley H. Palmer

SUU CPVA

After a long pandemic hiatus from the stage with a live audience, SUU's Dance Program is thrilled to premiere Wading Below Dance Concert on November 5, 6, 8, and 12, 2021 at 7:30 p.m. and matinees on November 6 and 13, 2021 at 2:00 p.m. in the Randall L. Jones Theatre.

Please note that due to COVID-19 we will be offering limited seating capacity and masks are expected. It is recommended that you purchase your tickets in advance. Tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for alumni with card, and $5 for youth. SUU faculty/staff (and one guest) and students can attend for free with a valid ID card. Tickets can be purchased at the America First Event Center Box Office, at the door the night of the performance, or online at www.suu.edu/arts.

Summer Halley, freshman Dance

Education major states, "The process of working with Andrea Vazquez-Aguirre has been one of the most unique, beautiful, and illuminating experiences. She taught me the depth of meaningful choreography and bringing life into it. It didn't occur to me that the beauty of movement and dance could bring a piece of art to life. I really got to explore my personal movement quality, textures, and motives within myself and learn to dance within the same energy as others."

Andrea Vazquez-Aguirre, SUU Dance's newest faculty member, choreographed The Creation of the Birds – after a painting by Remedios Varo, who meticulously painted the unconscious through symbology that operates as a roadmap into a visionary world. Nick Blaylock, in collaboration with the performers, will share five micro-studies on the various emotions experienced – in harmony or conflict – that may be recognized within a person at any given moment. Frische Luft, a new dance work by Alexandra Bradshaw-Yerby, draws inspiration from the German practice of letting fresh air into one's home daily to sustain happiness and health. Literally and figuratively, this piece is an opportunity for the performers to take a deep breath, process their ongoing personal experiences of the COVID-19 pandemic, and relish the joy of dancing in wide open spaces in front of live audiences.

Danielle Lydia Sheather in collaboration with the dancers will also present a new work Ofliminal Noise. The piece plays with elements of German Expressionism, Dadaism, and Realistic Surrealism. The piece features 25 dance majors all with an individualistic approach towards a communal ideology. Steeped in their stories, the work offers the audience members a chance to gaze into the abstract expression of those experiences, the good, the bad, the ugly, and the indifferent.

Transfer Dance Education major, Emilio Noriega, says of his work with Sheather, "In this piece we touch on many issues that can be too hard to talk about. We give a visual representation and allow the viewers to see how they feel based on the experiences they have gone through. The dance has become a group project and we have all been put on this equivalent standard that is set very high and you can truly see everyone excel. No one is judged for any mishaps. To feel everyone putting in their all, presents a good energy in the room which is something I enjoy quite a bit."

The performance will include a silent auction 30 minutes prior to

Talking Strings plays the Language of Music

by Christina Schweiss

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Talking Strings — featuring Keenan Webster and Pete Jacobson — performed music for SUU's APEX event on October 28. Webster and Jacobson first started playing together just six months ago. Jacobson is a Grammy award winner and Webster is a specialist in West African instruments.

APEX director, Lynn Vartan, explained in her introduction that this is, "usually a lecture series with a lot of words — today is as little words as possible. We want to talk about the language of music. The language of sound and music and what the spirit of music can do to us. Today will be an expansive exploration of connection in music and the power of collaboration between sounds."

Vartan told the audience to, "Just relax after midterms. Let this music wash over you. It is almost trance-like. Let music take you wherever it is going to take you."

Webster played multiple instruments during the performance, primarily the Kora and Kamele n'goni. The Kora has 21 strings (11 played by the left hand and 10 by the right), a large calabash cut in half and covered with cow skin with a long, hardwood neck. The Kamele n'goni is a string instrument and the traditional guitar of Malia which is made from goat skin.

The particular Kora which Webster played is one of the three electric Kora's in the world. The electric version is modeled after the electric guitar.

Playing Indian Raga during the event, Jacobson expressed, "Raga is that which colors the mind. A certain feeling that is evoked from a combination of pitches. It's a sort of a melodic form as it goes up and down."

Further explaining Raga, Jacobson said that "A raga is not a scale. A raga has a very definitive motion between those notes. Raga is a really nuanced thing and it takes a long time to learn. Raga is not a written thing. It's an aural tradition. It is too nuanced to actually write in western notation. You must learn by the ear."

Jacobson continued that the "tradition of the music [of Raga] is based off of these mystics and people who would spend a lifetime learning the science of these things."

CEDAR CITY ARTS COUNCIL

We went to see the movie "Dune", the latest iteration of the Hugo-award-winning science fiction novel by Frank Herbert, published in 1965. (Going to a theater was in itself an adventure; we've been inside a movie theater only twice in two years). We had both read the book decades ago, but the thing which got me to the megaplex was an interview I heard on NPR of the director. He talked about his obsession with the book for decades and his desire to put on screen the pictures in his head. Then here is what stood out to me: It took him months to get the depiction of the movie's monster, an enormous sandworm, just right. He worked with his artists and tech guys until the desired goal of perfection was reached.

It came to me that the price of excellence is time, and perhaps nowhere is that more obvious than in the arts. We at one time, years ago, attended a master class by a scion of a world-class classical-guitar family. He was working with a student who was having trouble executing a small musical ornamentation in his current piece of study. The teacher asked him how many times he practiced that one-second mordent (similar to a short trill) when he practiced each day, and the boy proudly said probably 20 times. The world-renowned professional said, "I would practice it 500 times." That is the difference between the pros and us: they understand that it takes time to achieve the desired level of excellence.

When I was being taught the art of quilting, my teachers, women of the highest skill and creators of award-winning quilts, observed some of my early efforts. In my own mind, I thought I was doing quite well; my stitches were becoming smaller, I was getting more stitches to the inch, and my following of the pattern lines was impeccable. One of my friends looked over my shoulder to see my work and said, "We refer to that as basting." Ouch. I had to take the stitches out and replace them with more painstaking work, all of which took time, of course.

The opposite of that attitude is the avowed leadership style of a well-known CEO of a giant corporation: "Done is better than perfect." I have to say that that attitude can be the correct one. It is not necessary to spend 10 minutes in front of a mirror trying to get a magnetic name tag perfectly aligned on a shirt. And that attitude is definitely the right one when it comes to applying eye make-up. It is possible to have a desire for excellence tip over into the realm of OCD tyranny.

But when I ask my students how long they spend practicing scales each week, I understand the struggles they're having. Sixty minutes per week spent at the keyboard doesn't yield the same results as 120 minutes—or more. Sorry, guys; you've got to pay the excellence price: time.

Annual Red Rock Film Festival wraps up 15th year

from Matt Marxteyn

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

The 15th Annual Red Rock Film Festival came to a close late Saturday night at the Cedar Fun Center after showcasing 82 films from 26 countries over six days. Although most of the films were from foreign countries with travel bans, many filmmakers were on hand both from Utah and out-of-state for Q&As.

Both Director of "Reverie", Claire Wiley, and the film's writer and main character, Bridgette Meinhold, live in Utah. Because the film is centered around connecting with the environment, they said they love the idea of sharing "Reverie" with other outdoor enthusiasts, and those who enjoy practicing moving meditation in their home state.

Albert James May, Director and Marcus Weathered, Producer were also present to screen their BYU film "Maggie on Stratford Ave," a film about a Utah woman struggling with opioid addiction.

May said, "I am grateful for the opportunity to screen the film to fellow Utahns, surrounded by the beautiful environment of Cedar City."

Livi Nichols of Arizona and director/producer of "Roberta on the Road" along with the editor/co-producer Jesse Wannagot participated in a panel discussion on student filmmaker. Also on the panel were UVU students Tanner Padbury of Portland, Oregon and screenwriter of "Make Me Perfect" along with the lead actress Sonja Hugo.

Nichols said, "It was important we submit to the Red Rock Film Festival because so much of Roberta's story has to do with the Southwest, and Utah specifically. We are honored to play in this beautiful state!"

The film had its World Premiere along with "Maggie on Stratford Ave." and "Legend's End: The Loch Ness Monster Story" at the Festival along with several others having their World, US or American Premiere. Some of the highlights included the US Premieres of "Nike's Big Bet" and "Frank Lloyd Wright - The Phoenix From The Ashes", North American Premiere of "Remember Me", Utah Premiere of "The Woman" which received some of the highest scores at the Festival.

The second section of the Festival will be held in the winter where it will present the winning films from the Red Rock Film Festival. More information will be announced on the Festival's Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/RedRockFilmFestival>. A membership drive has already started for next year's edition at <https://redrockfilmfestival.eventive.org/passes/buy>. The Festival will begin taking entries starting in January.

LIVESTOCK & HERITAGE FESTIVAL

honors historic contributions to Cedar City

by Corey Baumgartner

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The Cedar Livestock Festival returned to Cedar City with a lineup that included an Antique Tractor Pull and Draft Horse Pull, the Dennis Stowell Memorial Ranch Rodeo, vendors, vintage cars, quilts, delicious lamb burgers, a Dutch oven cook-off and of course, lots of sheep.

The highlight of the Festival was the annual sheep parade. Though they took a little longer to meander their way down Cedar's Main Street, it was worth the wait for the woolly guests. A new and exciting addition to this year's parade was a herd of impressive longhorn cattle.

After the sheep made their exit from their exodus, the parade-goers made their way to the Diamond Z Arena to enjoy the many other fun events of the weekend, which included Cowboy Church and a special concert by Chris Petersen that honored the Livestock Festival Grand Marshall, Brad Schmutz.

Estate planning when relocating to a new state

by Jeffery J. McKenna

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Relocating to a new state often creates issues affecting estate planning. Many people wonder if they need a new will or trust when they move from one state to another. Although a will or trust validly executed in one state should be valid in a different state, it is a good idea to have the estate planning documents reviewed. By addressing issues related to relocation, an individual can avoid certain problems and maximize possible benefits.

One problem that can be avoided relates to references to another state's laws. Often, estate planning documents reference a particular state's law as the governing law. Many times specific state statutes are referenced. If someone dies in a "new" state, the references in the estate planning documents to the "old" state's laws can be problematic. By executing an amendment to the trust or codicil to the will that changes the state law references to the "new" state's law, one can avoid possible problems.

Another concern that should be addressed pertains to special health care documents. In a complete estate plan, one should have legal documents pertaining to medical treatment decisions. These documents usually consist of what is commonly referred to as a "living will" (more formally titled "Directive to Physicians") and a durable power of attorney for medical matters. These documents are very useful if an individual becomes incapacitated and unable to make his or her own decisions. The documents allow one to specify what medical treatment he or she desires. Additionally, the living will directs the treating doctor or health care facility to allow the termination of life support if the individual is determined to be in a vegetative state without possibility of recovery.

Significantly, these documents are created by state law. Many states have special provisions related to these medical treatment documents. Although a living will or power of attorney validly executed in one state should be valid in another, the doctors or health care facilities will probably be most familiar with the documents used in their state.

Another issue related to relocating to another state that should be addressed in order to maximize potential tax benefits pertains to community property. There are ten community property states (Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico, Idaho, Texas, Washington, Louisiana, Wisconsin, and Alaska – with Alaska recently adopting a form of community property ownership). Many married couples have relocated to Southern Utah from community property states. If a married couple has moved from a community property state or is planning to move to a community property state, they should have their estate plan reviewed.

The preceding issues are just a few of the estate planning items that should be considered when relocating from one state to another.

The search for self...

by Michelle Crompton

IFS STUDIO

When our lives are being controlled by outside forces, it can make us feel out of control. Why is that? Is it the fear of the tumultuous future, or anger at the impositions put on our already busy lives? Is it job loss or career change, loved ones moving away or passing on?

So much has happened to us in the past year. We've collectively shared the experience of the turmoil, all of us in our own ways. And throughout this time, maybe we've each discovered a bit more about one another and—more importantly—about ourselves.

The self-discovery venture that many of us have (some of us involuntarily) embarked on has been both gratifying and terrifying; the more we've learned about ourselves, the less we know about everything else, because everything we thought we knew had changed.

If you're feeling overwhelmed in this day and age, please know you're in an abundance of fine and wonderful company.

There's a lot to unpack when it comes to the journey of self-discovery, and if you don't want to get lost in the wilderness, here are a few ways to stay on the right trail:

Self-Care

The first rule of self-discovery is to take care of one's self. It's self-preservation so that you can continue the self-discovery journey (and life in general) without breaking down (physically or mentally).

Self-care can happen in many beneficial ways: meditation, yoga, exercise and a healthful diet are some ways to care for one's self. There are also actions to take to make us feel better on the inside, such as engaging in volunteer work or donating to those in need; a jaunt in nature can also help us get in touch with ourselves and can even help reset our emotions.

Self-Reflection

Part of discovery is reflection – with more time spent alone over the past year, there's been ample opportunity to reflect, especially on all the negative aspects.

Try not to dwell on just the bad. There are plenty of positives to explore! Journaling (on paper, computer or just in your headspace) is a great way to reflect and dig deep into who we are. Ask simple questions to start down a path of exploration:

- » What does happiness mean to me?
- » What would my dream life look like?
- » What's an important lesson I've learned in the past three years?
- » When do I feel at peace?
- » What's preventing me from living my best life?

Spend time pondering without distraction and discover far more about your true self.

Self-Compassion

Life is hard. Sticking to routines, goals and expectations is even harder. Social media doesn't help when they feed you manicured photos of other people's accomplishments, vacations or parenting skills.

Give yourself grace. Not only do you deserve forgiveness, but you'll feel much better about yourself when you truly follow through with forgiving yourself for being fantastically imperfect. Once you forgive and accept yourself, then everything else can start to flourish.

Knowing more about ourselves only benefits us; knowledge is power, after all. The circumstances at the moment may not be ideal, but the journey of self-discovery can be a beautiful adventure to embark upon—if you choose it to be so.

Saturday Book Signing honors timeless love story

by Corey Baumgartner

IRON COUNTY TODAY

The introduction to Burt and Shirley Swaim's book, Rebirth of the Broken Branches begins, "What started out as a sweet, innocent beginning ended up fraught with difficult struggles, perseverance, and incredibly bad timing...eventually lightened with Love, Hope and Spiritual Awakening!"

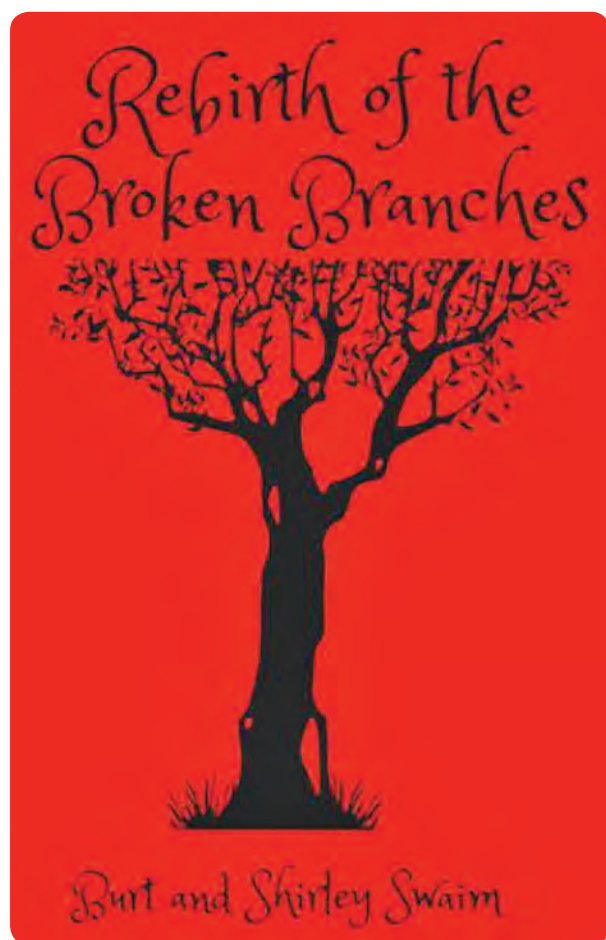

Rebirth is the story of a marriage 60 years in the making! Burt and Shirley met on a $5 bet in 1958 and thought it was a match made in Heaven. However, through some significant challenges and opposition, Heaven would have to wait during a 56 year separation. Finally, they were reunited and married on October 2, 2018.

This book is the story of their miraculous marriage and according to Burt, "There's no Romeo and Juliet ending." Each chapter is full of inspiring circumstances that brought them back together and includes, mystery, addiction recovery and spiritual strength.

One reader, Bill Storm, shared, "Who would believe this story? I was shocked with disbelief when Burt told me. This is a story over a half-century in the making and one that everyone should read."

Burt and Shirley were able to complete their book during the COVID "sheltering in place" and now they want to share their story with you at their book signing this Saturday (1-3pm) at Main Street Books, 25 N Main in Cedar City. You can purchase this book there and have Burt and Shirley sign it. If you are unable to make the event you can purchase the book on Amazon, or by calling Burt at (435) 383-3404.

Come join the Swain's in celebrating their first book and their amazing adventures during the Rebirth of the Broken Branches.

Gateway celebrates International Day, future of late Director's legacy

by Corey Baumgartner

IRON COUNTY TODAY

Last Friday morning a special event and announcement took place at Gateway Academy. As flags from several countries were displayed along the school's fences, a parade of students dressed in attire from every nationality marched around the playground. Among the costumed kids were cowboys, cowgirls, ninjas, princesses, knights and Vikings.

However, one special person was missing, the late Andy Burt, Gateway Director. Nevertheless, his presence was still felt in the hearts of all who joined in that special day, one of Burt's favorite school events. It's always difficult to lose a beloved leader, especially when they've made such a difference in so many lives in our community by being involved in not just helping our children become smarter, but helping them also learn how to be happier and better people.

After the parade and moment of silence for Burt, the teachers and students gathered together in the cafeteria for a special tribute to Andy's vision and legacy. Steve Nelson (friend and chairman of the board when Gateway opened) welcomed everyone to the assembly and took a few moments to share some Gateway history and the difference that Andy Burt made throughout his time there. Nelson shared some of the struggles Gateway endured as a new school in striving to become reputable in the community.

However, with Andy Burt, Assistant Principal at the time, Nelson said that "Andy was the right leader for the time with his ability to listen and genuinely care about others." Nelson added that Burt's invested involvement would garner respect for the school from the community and helped lead Gateway to becoming a top charter school in the state. "I don't know if we can truly express the gratitude he deserves for what he did in helping us and this school grow," expressed Nelson.

Following Nelson's heartfelt remarks, a short slideshow presentation was shown which brought back great memories of all the great fun and funny things Director Burt did to make a difference not just in the classroom, but in the hearts of every student entrusted to his and the staff's courageous care. The accompanying song to the slideshow was "Everything's Not Awesome" from the LEGO Movie 2 soundtrack. With everything the students and staff have been through in losing their beloved leader, everything is definitely not awesome. However, there is hope and healing found in the exciting news shared following the slideshow presentation.

Brittany Jensen (Board Chair) made a special announcement to the staff and students about the future progress of Gateway Academy. With his passion and vision, Director Burt was always thinking ahead about the next challenge and opportunity that would make the school even better. To begin achieving that process, Jensen shared that a 10-acre parcel of land next door to the school's help make these dreams a reality. These new facilities will not only help students "look to the future with optimism" but also help to fulfill and carry forward Director Burt's legacy.

Also, during the eventful morning, a special musical number, "Glorious" (David Archuleta) was sung by the students. It brought everything and everyone together by reminding us that life is like a symphony and everyone plays a part with the melodies waiting to be played inside each of us.

Andy Burt had a magical melody and his legacy will truly be glorious.

current property would become a place to build new opportunities for expansion and improved education. These new buildings, which include places for after-school activities, creative studio spaces, an auditorium, and a special indoor sports arena dedicated to Andy Burt.

Over the next few months, Gateway will be seeking support and input from the community to

Not because of the new buildings, but because of the love and courage he built together with each teacher and student at Gateway to help each other become glorious and part of the symphony of life.

ICSD NEWS NUGGETS

from LeAnn Woolstenhulme

IRON COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Three Peaks Elementary

We would like to thank our wonderful PTA for planning and implementing our Red Ribbon Week, October 26-29. Tuesday, we wore crazy socks to remind us that we are "crazy" about being drug free! Wednesday was sneakers day and we reminded each other that we don't let drugs "sneak" up on us. Thursday was camo day and we told drugs to take a hike. Friday, we wore Halloween costumes to school to say "Boo" to drugs. We had fun prizes throughout the week, visits from the Iron County Sheriff Department and their cool dogs, and daily reminders to be drug free. A special thank you to Stacy Halladay for organizing all of the fun activities and prizes. We also want to thank the Iron County Sheriff's Department - Shawn Peterson, Brandon Kennedy, Ryan Turk, PJ Garcia, Brenda Pires and Tyrell Crofts from the Cedar City Police Department for their willingness to participate in our Red Ribbon Week and for their constant support with all of our activities and functions.

Fiddlers Canyon Elementary

We had a super successful Red Ribbon Week, thanks to the efforts of Sheila Shaw and our other volunteers. Kids got to wear red, do their hair in crazy styles, hang out in their PJ's, and dress up for Halloween. We hope kids had a good time and will remember to keep themselves drug free! We forgot to mention how grateful we are to Julia Beckstrand for all her efforts putting together STEAM Night on October 14. Thank you, Julia, and to all our volunteers for all you do for our school!

Don't forget about our next Feed Your Family fundraiser on Monday, November 8 at Culver's from 5-8 pm. A portion of the evening's proceeds will go toward helping our school keep having fun and important programs.

We have also begun our search for next year's PTA board. If you'd like to nominate someone (or yourself) as PTA president, president-elect, secretary, or treasurer, you can message the PTA's Facebook page (facebook.com/fiddlerscanyononelementarypta).

Enoch Elementary

Enoch Elementary pledged to be drug free during Red Ribbon Week. Each day of the week students were encouraged and reminded to keep a healthy lifestyle and stay strong against peer pressure. On Tuesday, students signed their pledge poster and wore a matching sticker. On Wednesday, the theme was "Reach for your Dreams-Stay Drug Free," and they wore pajamas. The entire school wore red and gathered on the lawn to create the image of a red ribbon on Thursday. On Friday, students learned it's a "trick" and not a "treat" to do drugs.

South Elementary

5th grade students at South Elementary have enjoyed learning about Characteristics and Interactions of Earth's Systems in science. We had a "BLAST" building, discovering chemical reactions and erupting our volcanoes together. Thank you to our South families for your support. We hope to pass on that "Learning is an active process. We learn by doing. Only knowledge that is used sticks in your mind." Dale Carnegie

East Elementary

For Red Ribbon Week - 4th grade dual immersion students celebrated learning about red ribbon week. Each day, students had a challenge to tackle. Challenges included sharing strategies of staying drug free, planning their future drug free lives, researching the effect of drugs on brains, and researching companies that have their dream jobs. The week culminated in all the students wearing red and eating red velvet cake!

"The Antique Hunter"

What comes to mind when you hear the word "antique"? How about when you see this woman's arms packing priceless (to her) possessions that others might classify as just junk? She looks pretty pleased with her picking and she surely spent a lot of time recovering each piece of refused refuse from their previous owners and probably spent a small fortune in the process.

Questions arise, where is she going to put it all? Did she buy it to use it, display it, or eventually resell, or discard it herself? And with her arms packed with pickings, what if she finds something more valuable? Is she willing to get rid of, replace an item, to acquire not just a new item, but a more valuable one? And with all of her newly acquired pieces, will they truly give her peace?

Whether it's seeking out antiques and/or purchasing them, everyone usually collects something from artwork, coins and cars (Hot-Wheels included), to dolls, books and vinyl records. What are you collecting in your life? What collections, traits, traditions, are you planning on and preparing to pass down to your posterity and/or your friends, coworkers and others?

American Pickers and Antiques Roadshow are famous television shows about hunting, hoarding and hocking antiques. Their allure is discovering, negotiating (price) and turning trash into treasure. Antiques Roadshow features people with apparently everyday objects they inherited, found in dusty closets, or purchased at a garage sale for $5, then discover they're actually worth $5000. It brings to mind the familiar phrase, "One's person's trash is another person's treasure."

What is the defining and deciding factor between trash and treasure? Is it just a personal perception on how that antique piques their interest enough to invest in picking, purchasing, packing and protecting it?

You may know someone who has picked and packed trash (physically, emotionally) most of their lives. Every piece has a price to pay for the sacrifice of lugging it around, including having less room left for true treasures. Sometimes people are so used to picking and collecting pieces of trash, they don't believe in true treasures anymore, let alone believe that they themselves are a treasure... disguised beneath debris dumped into their life by themselves or by others.

This week, take an inventory about what you've collected and protected all of your life. Think about what new treasures and traits you'd like to collect, or obtain, that will truly make your life better. Perhaps you have some gifts and talents that you think (or have been misunderstood and misabeled by others as) are only worth $5, when in fact they are really worth $5000, or more? As you take your inventory, discard any debris that is holding you down and back (physically, emotionally, spiritually, etc.) If you've got some trash (bad habits) and any rotten routines in your daily life, don't be afraid to get rid of them so you can collect, carry and enjoy the true treasures of life.

FORGOTTEN CHAPTERS OF HISTORY

by Paula Mitchell

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

Over a period of eight years, from 1947 to 1955, Radio Station KSUB in Cedar City, Utah broadcasted a series of weekly programs featuring brief historical sketches narrated by Southern Utah's own beloved Dr. William R. Palmer along with the superb musical talents of Professor Roy L. Halversen on the violin accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Virginia Larson.

Dr. Palmer had spent a lifetime collecting, sorting, verifying, and recording the events that document the history of Cedar City and surrounding areas.

"Today Cedar City has attained one hundred years of age. Exactly a century ago at four o'clock today, the first settlers, led by Henry Lunt, drove their wagons upon this ground and settled down to reclaim it. There were eleven wagons in the company. These were not the only vanguard of men and women who had been called to settle here. One week later another company of English, Welsh, and Scottish miners and mechanics led by George Wood arrived to swell the colony. Within a few weeks, the number of men reached thirty-five.

Those first settlers were all poor together, but there was a willingness to share whatever they had. There are many touching stories of their efforts to give comfort and assistance to each other. At one time, a family fearing that their beloved leader, George A. Smith, was out of food invited him and his wife to dinner. Just how stringent the food supply of the colony was can be guessed from one line written that night in George A. Smith's diary, "dined sumptuously on bacon rines."

They brought a richness in education and culture with them. The educational average of the iron missionaries was high. Most of them wrote good hands. Two were graduated from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. One was a skilled engineer and most of them were trained men in their fields. There was music and drama too. The first play put on here, about 1854, was Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield. Two or three plays were put on every year. It seems strange that out of such poverty and want could come poetry and song.

It was during those days of hardship and want that John Macfarlane, our first choir leader, wrote his wonderful Christmas Carol Far, Far Away on Judea's Plains. Richard Aldridge of Cedar City wrote five hymns that are in our new hymnbook. One of his best-known songs is We'll Sing All Hail to Jesus Name, and another is Lord Accept Our True Devotion.

Yes, Cedar City from the first had music and drama and culture. There was education and vision and purpose. There was unselfish devotion and brotherhood. These were the intangible but by far the most potent of all the pioneer assets." William R. Palmer

Next week, on November 11, 2021, we will celebrate Cedar City's 170th Birthday. Visit <https://visitcedarcity.com/events/cedar-city-birthday-celebration/> for more information on how you can celebrate this historic occasion!

Always a Marine: Steven Cantonwine, 1949-2012

As a child playing war games, other boys could be in the army, but Steven Cantonwine was always a Marine.

Born and raised in Kearns, Utah, Steven enlisted as a Marine, with his parents' permission, shortly before his 18th birthday.

He was part of an All Utah Platoon that marched in the Days of '47 parade in Salt Lake City in 1967. The platoon then boarded a bus for boot camp in San Diego.

Five months later, Steven arrived in Vietnam on Christmas Eve 1967. He saw heavy combat during the Tet Offensive starting in late January 1968.

Steven became part of a Combined Action Platoon that lived and worked in villages, where he developed a love and loyalty for the Vietnamese people.

His deployment to Vietnam ended after 13 months. Returning to Kearns on leave, he noticed that the little girl from Cedar City who once rode tri-cycles with his younger sisters was now attending school and staying with her uncle and aunt across the street.

Less than a year later, Steven and KayAnne Bryant were married on 3 January 1970. They were blessed with two daughters, Lori and Gina.

Steven served a second deployment to Vietnam in 1972-73. During his 21 year career with the Marines, he was a drill instructor at the Marine training base in San Diego, a Presidential driver at the Western White House in San Clemente, and he ran the Toys for Tots program while stationed in Des Moines, Iowa.

Retiring from the Marines, the Cantonwines moved to Cedar City. He was hired by Sheriff Ira Schoppmann as a deputy and served for 13 years. He also trained and served as an EMT.

Steven enjoyed talking with people, telling jokes, and making them laugh. His family remembers going to watch a Salt Lake Bees baseball game. Steven started a conversation with a security guard and missed most of the game.

Steven's service in Vietnam included exposure to Agent Orange. After a courageous six-year battle with cancer, he died on 30 March 2012 and was buried in the Cedar City cemetery.

Beckem McKee Winslow

Beckem McKee Winslow, 13, passed away October 22, 2021, at Fish Lake, UT. Born on March 24, 2008, in Cedar City, UT to Chris Winslow and Nikki Dastrup.

Those who knew Beckem, even just a little, lost a shining light in their lives. To know him, is to love him. Whether it be his infectious smile or pulling pranks, he drew people in effortlessly. At a very early age, Beckem adopted the Patriots as one of his teams, and if obsessive devotion translates into winning stats, his devotion is the reason for Tom Brady's success. Beckem devoted his free time to sports, always giving his all on the baseball or football field or basketball court. He made friends easily, and often with the opposing team or people he would meet from all around. He created a giant network of boys he'd do anything for. He took every opportunity to be outside, and loved being outdoors with his friends, family, and especially his dad. He enjoyed spending time on his family's ranch near Kolob Reservoir, where he would ride four wheelers, hunt, fish, and work with his grandpa Steve on the fence around the property.

Stephanie Hulet

On October 24, 2021, Stephanie Hulet, at age 47, faithfully completed her mission and all that was needful for her here on earth for her eternal joy and happiness. Don and Lynn Reid happily welcomed their only cherished girl into the world and raised her on the south side of Cedar City, as a true Redmen. Stephanie was raised in a loving household full of brothers, Brian and Brennon, so she learned quickly to hold her own! With a father as a professional educator/high school coach, and a nurturing mother full of adventure, she was raised with structure, love, order and shopping! Lots of shopping! Many swipes were made on machines as Lynn and Steph bounced from one store to the next shopping for perfect décor for all seasons!

Steph spent many hours as a child on the sidelines watching her brothers play sports as her dad coached. She developed an intense love for sports especially any sport her boys were playing in and loved all high school athletics. She never missed a game. Stephanie unofficially (but deservedly) adopted the "assistant coach" status by critiquing her father's and especially her husband's coaching.

Countless summers were spent further bronzing her Armenian skin suntanning while jamming to the latest cassette tape on a hot houseboat rooftop in the middle of Lake Powell with precious family and friends. Visiting Grandma (Alice the Great) in Moab and exploring the La Sal Mountains were very fond memories. To earn a wad of cash, Steph worked at Lin's Market and was known by coworkers and customers alike as the "nicest cashier." The race was on to be Steph's checkout bagger! This made an especially eager 16-year-old Jeremy Hulet's job a whole lot more pleasant! This was the beginning of a deep friendship, that turned into love and was solidified in the St. George Temple September 20th, 1997. Steph married her best friend whom she would walk through valleys of sorrow and peaks of sheer joy hand in hand. Everywhere Steph was, Jeremy was. Together they built a beautiful life and brought home their most prized possessions, Jaden (Jay), Kasen (Shnokey), Brycen (Bean), Tycen (T) and her fur baby Ruger. Steph knew the joy of the family unit and cherished being a grandmother to 3 gorgeous granddaughters. Steph could be found wearing capris and flip-flops with perfectly manicured toes, no matter the season! She spent countless nights scrubbing white baseball pants at 2 am for the next early morning tournament. She would be found pacing the outfield keeping her "assistant coach status" in check, serving others, and scouring her beloved "out west" mountains side by side of her boys, searching for arrowheads and horns while never missing an Atlanta Braves game!

Steph put her heart into working with the down trodden and vulnerable, by faithfully serving the Iron County School District, as the Homeless Liaison for 26 years. She developed and maintained countless positive relationships with many across the country and throughout the state. Many choice experiences and relationships were hers in this position. As a part time secretary, ERA Realty welcomed her in like family and treated her like royalty.

Stephanie is survived by her beloved husband Jeremy, children Jaden (Shanae), Kasen, Brycen, Tycen, grandchildren Bentley, Braelynn, Blakley, mother Lynn Reid, brothers Brennon and Brian (Amber), Mother-in-law Donna Hulet, sister- and brother-in-laws Julie (Aaron) Wheelwright, Tyler (Carlie), Danon (Brianna), and Lacey (Jordan) Mecham along with many nieces and nephews. She is preceded in death by her father Don C. Reid and father in law, Robert C. Hulet.

A special thank you to the loving care of Dixie Regional Medical Center staff, Iron County School District, ERA Realty family and the countless support, prayers, and generosity of family and friends at this tender time.

Funeral services were held on Friday, October 29th, 2021, at 1pm at Cross Hollows Stake Center (2830 West Cody Drive). Viewings were held Thursday, October 28th from 6-8 pm at Southern Utah Mortuary (190 North 300 West), and on Friday, October 29th 11:30am-12:30pm at Cross Hollows Stake Center (2830 West Cody Drive). 'Hallelujah Night' brings light to darkness

IRON COUNTY TODAY

When you hear the words and phrases, Creation, Manna, Fishers of Men, Feed My Sheep and Carousel of Faith to describe an event, one probably doesn't think about Halloween. Yet, each end of October, Pastor Joe Carroll, wife Terri and the volunteers from Calvary Chapel of Cedar City, create Hallelujah Night to bring light (specifically the light of Christ) to the darkness often associated with Halloween.

The yearly and free community event brings faith, fun and food together in creative carnival games based on scriptures, where kids can play to win candy and other prizes. Hundreds of children and their families dress up in costumes to enjoy this family-friendly and fun event.

Along with lots of games and candy, kids also got to meet first-responders, jump in the bounce-house and listen to uplifting music from Calvary Chapel's radio station, CrossOver FM (88.7 FM, Cedar City, 88.9 FM, St. George, www.cross-overfm.org). If you missed it, fear not, it will be back next year, better and brighter than ever. For more information and inspiration, please visit: www.calvarycedar.org.

DIFFICULT QUESTIONS & TRUTH 101.42

by Edy Meredith

FOR IRON COUNTY TODAY

It was reported today on the television news that art works by Picasso recently sold in Las Vegas for $110,000,000. I don't know how many individual pieces of art were purchased, but I cannot believe that such easily stolen or destroyed art is worth that much. Of course, I'm sure that the present owner/s have insured their property for its assessed value. When I compare that situation to the circumstances that children in Utah and throughout the world find themselves in, then I feel despair and compassion creeping into my mind and flooding my soul. I wonder how many starving children throughout the world could be fed and housed using those millions of dollars to provide for them? How are we all using our resources, time, and talent to provide for other humans?

What did the revolutionary message from Jesus tell us about His kingdom of peace? First, He said it was only accessible by faith and loving obedience to God and by compassion to every member of the human family by controlling our attitudes, behavior, and showing compassionate love in action as He demonstrated in word and deed to the lowest in the society of His earthly day who were the women and children. Are we in Utah doing that or only showing love to those of our kind and affiliation? Let's look at the actual situation for parents and children in Utah.

The Crime Clock for Utah shows the following: One Homicide every 3.29 days; One Rape every 6.75 hours; One Aggravated Assault every 1.92 hours; One Larceny every 9.50 minutes; One Arson every 1.24 days; One Motor Vehicle Theft every 1.11 hours; One Burglary every 62.56 minutes; and One Robbery every 7.37 hours.

Some will try to minimize these numbers of occurrences, but when extended throughout a year, the numbers are a magnitude of horror and danger throughout Utah's population, and they demonstrate a dangerous environment in which to raise children. Utah's children and

“Always” (Switchfoot)

This week's Playlist song is dedicated to Cedar City's birthday next week (Nov. 11th) and everyone else celebrating the day of their birth. Even more importantly, this song is a divine dedication to anyone who needs a new birth, or new beginning in life.

Because we've all made mistakes, fallen down and fallen short. Nevertheless, God's arms are long enough and strong enough to reach down into our valleys of shadows, our gulfs of misery and pull us out are each symbols of His undying love for you. He suffered and overcame all things not only so you can overcome your challenges, but so that He would also know exactly how you feel and to be with you to help you endure to the end.

Speaking of struggles, I know that some things and some people have created holes in your heart, home, mind and life. You've had happiness ripped out of your heart, your peace suffocated as sin tries to smother your breath of life. Perhaps you've been deceived (understandably so) into believing that your scars have disqualified you from a life well lived and from the Love of God. The devil is very persuasive in trying to make you believe that you've lost it all forever.

Just because he lost it all doesn't mean you have. You've still got a future and a hope (Jeremiah 29:11). You are still loved and needed in this world.

Because God has given you breath today, it's a sure sign that He still believes in you, that He still loves you and is entrusting you with another chance to let Him help you back up, dust you off, clean you up, heal your wounds and bring you home and celebrate a new birth, beginning.

Whether you are celebrating your day of birth today, tomorrow or later, it can still be your spiritual birthday. Everyday can be a new birth and beginning if you invite God to remind you of who and Whose you are and that you are still and always (Romans 3:23-24). Yes, we fall short in our daily lives, but nothing will keep us from the love of God (Romans 8:35-39). Even when it seems our actions are not loving towards Him or His other children, we are reminded that He loved us first (1 John 4:19) and He still loves us even knowing we're going to make mistakes and need to learn to love one another better. That's why God gave us the perfect example through His Only Begotten Son, that whosoever believes in Him will not perish but have everlasting (love) and life (John 3:16-17).

Maybe you've got more wounds and scars to deal with than most other people. Fear not, Jesus has scars too (seen and unseen). They families are surrounded by danger with homicide in Utah hitting a 20-year high where there has been an increase of 44% in homicides from 2020 to now. Perhaps this is one of the reasons that teen suicide in Utah is at an alarming high. Another concern expressed by law enforcement officials is the trafficking of children that occurs through Interstate 15 and other highway systems.

How are parents and other concerned citizens able to protect the children of our state? We know that parenting is very difficult at any time, and that there are children who may be completely out of parental control. Likewise, there are parents who are out of control and unable to care for their children. (For additional information please go to Utah's

Public Health Data Resource: Public Health Indicator Based Information System—IBIS)

I have run out of space to deal with the Emancipation Process for parents and children where such extremely difficult situations exist, but I will explain more next week, including possible adoption of babies, young children, and teens into stable family situations. I know people who even with 3 to 4 birth children of their own are now adopting others into their stable and healthy families. We must do better in Utah, starting with accurate knowledge as the first step. Hopefully we all remember the warning Jesus gave to those who endanger children that it would be better that they had never been born! Jesus also always taught that repentance (turning away from sin and toward God) is always possible as God transforms our hearts and changes our behavior.

and all ways. Keep fighting for your life because you are still worth it all... always (Jeremiah 17:7-8).

Eagle soars higher, beats Falcons in 3A playoffs

by Tom Zulewski

IRON COUNTY TODAY

For the first time in 21 years, the Canyon View Falcons got a taste of life in the quarterfinals of the 3A state football playoffs Oct. 29. For the first three quarters, CV was within range of a major upset.

The running of Dallas Larson helped Juan Diego survive and advance.

Larson ran for a 22-yard touchdown early in the fourth quarter, and No. 2 seed Juan Diego was able to hold off Canyon View, 34-19, to advance to the 3A semifinals. The Falcons finished the season at 5-6 and had a four-game winning streak – its first in 15 years – snapped, and the Soaring Eagle improved to 8-2.

CV showed early they were ready for the moment, getting a 51-yard touchdown run from Nick Macias on the game's opening drive for the 7-0 lead, but Juan Diego had a fast answer of its own when Larson scored the first of his two touchdowns on a 2-yard run that tied the score at 7-7.

JD took the lead for the first time two minutes into the second quarter when Jeremy Ortega hit a 20-yard field goal, then they pushed the advan-

T-BIRDS FALL IN FINAL MINUTES TO NO. 11 MONTANA

Kobe Singleton's interception helped the SUU Thunderbird's nearly gain the victory over the Grizzlies.

MISSOULA, Mont. – The Southern Utah University football team walked into Washington-Grizzly Stadium and punched the No. 11 Montana Grizzlies in the mouth Saturday afternoon but could not hold onto the lead late as the Griz escaped with a one-point victory in the final minutes.

The loss dropped Southern Utah to 1-8 overall and 0-6 in Big Sky play. Montana improved to 6-2 and 3-2 in conference competition with the victory.

"I'm proud of the guys and the way they fought," said SUU head coach Demario Warren. "They came out here and fought their guts out. I love the way they competed and I'm so grateful for their effort."

The Thunderbirds took advantage of an early Montana miscue to get on the scoreboard first. On its second drive of the game, the Griz snapped the ball out of the shotgun but fumbled, and Aubrey Nellems quickly jumped on the ball to earn possession for SUU. The T-Birds then drove down to the Montana 14-yard line before Noah Alejado trotted out on fourth down to connect on a 32-yard field goal, making the score 3-0 in Southern Utah's favor.

SUU's second score of the day followed the same pattern as the first with the defense forcing a turnover and the offense capitalizing. On the opening play of the second quarter, the Grizzlies snapped the ball near midfield and the defense brought heavy pressure.

Linebacker Quaid Murray grabbed the quarterback and forced a strip sack which was recovered by teammate Jayden Clark. The T-Bird offense took over and drove all the way down to the two-yard line where Isaiah Williams then punched in a touchdown run to put SUU up 9-0.

After Montana rattled off 10-straight points to take its first lead of the afternoon, Southern Utah's offense came up with a big answer to take a 16-10 lead into the locker room at halftime. Facing a 3rd down and nine in their own territory, Justin Miller sent a bomb down the sideline and connected with Brandon Schenks on the other end. Schenks broke a tackle and made his way down the sideline to find the endzone for a 60-yard touchdown.

The second half turned into a gritty defensive battle as both teams struggled to move the ball after Montana scored a touchdown in the half's opening minutes. Southern Utah was able to drive down to the Montana five-yard line at the end of the third quarter but could only manage a field goal. Alejado connected from 23 yards out to put SUU back in front by a score of 19-17.

Montana appeared to be driving for the end zone to open the fourth quarter, but SUU's defense made a big stand and held the Grizzlies to a field goal. Trailing 20-19, the T-Birds took over possession and went on a long drive all the way to Montana's 18-yard line. On fourth down, SUU called on the field goal unit, but the Griz blocked the go-ahead field goal and sealed the one-point win on their next possession.

Justin Miller led Southern Utah's offense with 250 yards passing and a touchdown on the afternoon. His top targets were Schenks and Lance Lawson, who finished the night with 85 and 79 yards, respectively. Thomas Duckett was the leading rusher with 36 yards, while Williams accounted for SUU's lone rushing touchdown.

Southern Utah's defense kept things close by forcing four turnovers on the day. In addition to fumble recoveries by Nellems and Clark, AJ Stanley forced and recovered one in the fourth quarter and Kobe Singleton managed an interception. Clark led the team with 10 tackles while Akili Gray, Stanley and Nellems contributed eight apiece. Murray and Mykeal White both tallied sacks on the afternoon.

The Thunderbirds now head into their final road game of the season when they travel to take on Idaho on Saturday, November 6, at 2:00 p.m. MT. The game will be available for streaming on ESPN+.

Southern Utah Athletics announces plans for Golf Center

by Kyle Birnbrauer

SUU ATHLETICS STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION

Southern Utah University Golf and the City of Cedar City have announced plans for the John L. Evans Golf Center, a brand new, state-of-the-art golf facility to be built at Cedar Ridge Golf Course.

Jon Christy graduated from Southern Utah in 1985 with a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration and has been an outstanding supporter of Southern Utah University and Southern Utah Golf ever since.

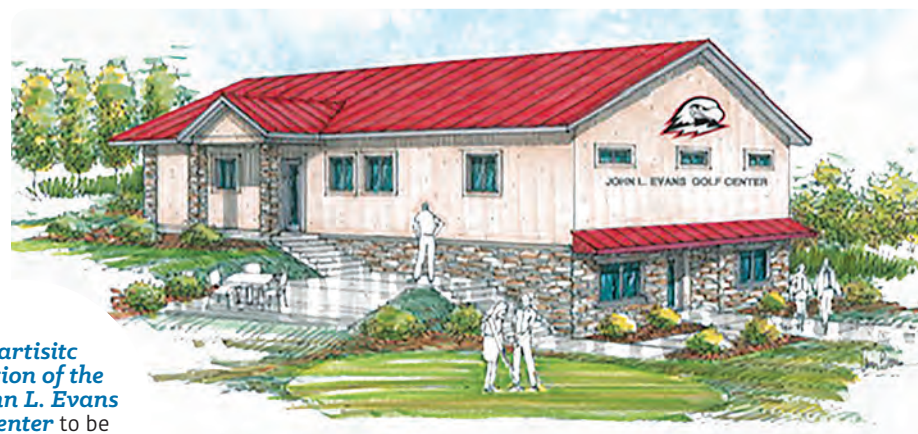

"SUU Athletics is immensely grateful to Jon Christy for his generous gift that planted the seed to provide facilities for our men's and women's golf teams. Once this project is completed, both teams will have a place to leave their equipment and uniforms and, with the simulator, they will have a place to practice during inclement weather," Director of Athletics Debbie Corum said. "This facility will make a positive impact on the daily lives of the men and women on these teams, while also providing another space for the Cedar City community to host events. This is a win, win, win, and we are excited for Coach Church to complete this much-needed project."

The John L. Evans Golf Center will be a two-story, 5,000 square foot facility built on the west side of the current driving range at Cedar Ridge. The building will serve both the Southern Utah men's and women's golf programs and the Cedar City community as it will have benefits for both. The main floor of the building will contain separate locker rooms for both the men's and women's programs, offices for the coaching staff, and a covered driving range/putting green area.

The facility will be named after John Evans, a current volunteer assistant coach and former head

Cedar City a place to host banquets and tournaments," Director of Golf Richard Church said. "With the support of my good friend Jon Christy as well as many others, the facility will be completed using 100% donor funds. We are very proud of our relationship with Cedar City, and are truly thankful for the support of Mayor Maile Wilson-Edwards and the Cedar City Council throughout this process."

The building will also house the Jonathon L. Christy Golf Simulator, a state-of-the-art golf simulator that will allow the teams to train in the winter time in Cedar City while also giving them access to analytics about their swings.

The bottom floor of the building will be a banquet space, giving both the athletic department and the community a space to hold events. The teams will also be able to exit the building and walk right out onto either the driving range or the putting green from that floor.

"We are really excited about the new John L. Evans Golf Center here at Cedar Ridge Golf Course. It will be a tremendous asset to both SUU as well as our facility," Cedar Ridge Golf Pro Jared Barnes said. "We have always had a great relationship with the Southern Utah Golf program and are looking forward to working with them on this project."

The building will be built by the City of Cedar City, with Southern Utah University leasing the building for the use of the athletic department. Funding for the building will be provided by various donors of Southern Utah University Golf.

"Cedar City is excited to once again partner with Southern Utah University. Through this unique public/private partnership, the John L. Evans Golf Center will enhance the Cedar Ridge Golf Course's ability to host tournaments and provide a first class golf experience to our customers," Cedar City Mayor Maile Wilson-Edwards said. "Cedar City and Southern Utah University have been long-time community partners and once again it is a pleasure to work together to enhance what we both offer to the community."

Construction for the John L. Evans Golf Center is set to break ground at the conclusion of a $700,000 capital campaign of which more than half has already been raised. Those interested in participating in the capital project can contact Director of Golf Richard Church for more details.

IRON COUNTY TODAY

In what was a near-perfect copy of last week's Region 10 championship race, Logan Peel and the Cedar boys cross country team swept to the title at the 4A state championship meet Oct. 27 at the Rose Park Regional Athletic Complex in Salt Lake City. Peel finished the 5K course in 15 minutes, 36.7 seconds, 11 seconds in front of Snow Canyon junior Spencer Smith.

As a team, the Reds had its five lead finishers inside the top 13 and ended with a team total of 35 points, comfortably in front of runner-up and 2020 4A champion Desert Hills. After Peel in the running order, Caleb Simmerman (16:06.5) was fifth, Braxten Gifford (16:08.9) finished seventh, Justin Dodds (16:09.7) was ninth and Seth Sonerholm (16:29.4) completed the Reds' total team score.

On the girls side, senior Carissa Hofeling won the 4A individual title in 17:52.0, leading a 1-2 finish with teammate Emma Peel (18:43.1). The Reds ended up in a tie for second overall with Desert Hills with 89 points. Pine View repeated as 4A girls team champion with 60 points at the meet.

Peel, Reds win 4A boys cross country title

In the girls 3A meet, Canyon View's Lydia Forsyth led the way with a fourth-place finish in 19:52.9, and the Falcons were fourth in the final team standings with 109 points, just in front of fifth-place Manti's 119. Ogden won the 3A girls team title with 72 points, 10 in front of runner-up Carbon. Morgan finished third overall with 85.

Led by a fifth-place run from sophomore Matilee Sudweeks, the Parowan girls team finished third overall in the 2A state meet with 91 points, seven in front of fourth-place North Sevier. Sudweeks ran the 5K course in 21:09.3.

At 4A state volleyball in Orem, the No. 5 seed Cedar Reds couldn't hold a one-set lead and dropped a 3-2 decision to No. 4 Sky View on Oct. 27, 25-18, 20-25, 23-25, 25-13, 15-5. The Reds opened play earlier in the day with a 3-0 win over the Dixie Flyers, 25-11, 25-11, 25-17.

Mountain Crest eliminated Cedar in the consolation round Oct. 28 with a 3-0 win, 25-22, 25-20, 25-23.

In the 3A tournament, the 16th-seed Canyon View Falcons won its play-in game at home with a 3-0 sweep over Providence Hall on Oct. 23, but fell to the top seed Emery Spartans, 3-0, on Oct. 27 at UVU. CV rallied in the consolation bracket, dropping the first set before beating 9th-seed Juab, 3-1 (21-25, 25-16, 25-23, 25-18) and 12th-seed Judge Memorial, 3-0 (26-24, 25-16, 25-14).

The Falcons advanced to the sixth-place match and faced No. 7 seed Layton Christian. CV won the first two sets, but had to hold on late for a 3-2 victory, 25-22, 25-20, 12-25, 20-25, 15-12, to complete a three-match sweep and finish 6th out of 21 3A teams that competed.

» With the end of fall sports, basketball is right around the corner. The Cedar girls basketball team with head coach Corry Nielsen will be conducting a camp for girls in kindergarten through 2nd grade starting Nov. 6 and running each non-holiday Saturday through December.

The team and coaches will be instructors at the camp that runs from 11 a.m. to Noon each day. The fee is $40, including a T-shirt, and can be paid on the first day of camp Nov. 6. Interested parents can contact Coach Nielson for more information.

tage to 17-7 when James Valdez found Nicholas Ceballos on a 23-yard touchdown pass with 14 seconds to play in the half.

Senior Adrian Ward helped CV close the gap with the first of his two touchdown runs from 40 yards out on the opening drive of the third quarter. After Antonio Rossano scored on a 4-yard run with less than two minutes left in the period, Ward put the Falcons right back in the hunt when he scored on a 69-yard run on the first play after the kickoff.

It would be as close as the Falcons would get. Larson's score with 9:07 remaining pushed the Juan Diego lead to 12, and Hauroa Morgant hit a 48-yard field goal with 2:49 to play to complete the scoring.

Juan Diego will face the Grantsville Cowboys, a 49-18 winner over Union, in one 3A semifinal at Eccles Coliseum on Saturday starting at 7 p.m.

The Parowan Rams saw its 2021 football season come to an end in the 1A quarterfinals in a 35-13 road loss to the No. 1 seed Duchesne Eagles. Westin Gines led the way for Duchesne (9-1) with two touchdown runs, and the Eagles scored 22 points in the second quarter to help secure the victory.

Parowan (6-6) scored first late in the first quarter on a 4-yard touchdown run by Christian Bost – his third in the last two weeks – but Duchesne got its offense on track with touchdowns by Garrett Fabrizio (25 yards), Draker Goodliffe (a 21-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Parker Crum) and Gines. The Rams were able to cut the margin to 22-13 when Treven Yardley scored on a 15-yard run with less than two minutes to play in the half, but the Eagles shut them out in the second half.

Duchesne advanced to the 1A semifinals and will face No. 4 seed Milford – a 35-21 winner over North Sevier – on Friday in a 2 p.m. kickoff.
